WHITE WOMAN falls to the beach after she was attacked by three white women segregationists when she attempted a "wade-in" with several Negro and white demonstrators at St. Augustine, Fla. CIVIL RIGHTS TRIO

Bodies Hunted In Slough

'NEGRO PUNKS' HURT CAUSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says teen-aged Negro hoodlums "are undercutting gains made by hundreds of Negro and white youngsters who went to jail for human rights."

Writing in the Amsterdam News, a Negro weekly newspaper, Wilkins said Negro youths involved in recent outbreaks of violence in New York City are "punks, foul-mouthed smart alecs, and 'Harlem and Brooklyn morons.'"

LBJ Plans Law Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today that once the civil rights bill becomes law he intends to make an appeal to the people to "observe the law of the land."

"We hope our appeals will be listened to and followed," he told a press conference.

Johnson conceded, however, that he expects some people are going to be reluctant in joining him in trying for complete compliance.

He said he now is trying to get an outstanding director of conciliation to help in the civil rights program.

Expelled in Spain for more than a year Moise Tshombe, former president of Katanga, announced in Madrid today he is flying back to the Congo "to help the government to liberate my country from the misery and anarchy it now suffers." Revolts in the provinces of Kiva and Kwilu and parts of Katanga menace the Congo.

Whisky Tariff Hurts Britain

GENEVA (Reuters)—Britain has protested to the United States that it is losing some $35,000,000 a year because of the discriminatory U.S. import system on Scotch whisky, it was learned here today.

The protest, which came in the "Kennedy round" sub-committee on non-tariff barriers, asked the U.S. government to review the system, according to sources close to the tariff negotiations.

Britain maintained that under the American import system, bottled Scotch whisky is imported at 86 proof but is taxable on the basis of 100 proof, the sources said.

WIRE BRIEFS

'We Will If You Will'

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Russians are prepared to agree to a phased destruction of bombers provided the United States agrees in principle to the destruction of all bombers, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin of the Soviet Union said today.

Aged Medicare Foiled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's proposal for health care of the aged was dropped today by the House of Representatives' ways and means committee, which thus dealt a heavy blow at any chance of enactment this year.

No Comment

Commons Sits Longer

OTTAWA (CP)—The government gave notice today of plans to ask the Commons to add six hours a week to its sitting time.

Drought In Sask.

OTTAWA (CP)—Drought in central and northern districts of Saskatchewan was reported today by the bureau of statistics. Crops are at "a very critical stage" in these areas, the report said. Growth was at a standstill. There has been no significant rain since early in May.

New Talks Called In Alberni Strike

TORY MP ASKS GOV'T TO TABLE UNCUT FILM

OTTAWA (UPI)—A Conservative member of Parliament will seek today to have the government table in the Commons "the full and unexpurgated version" of the controversial film, "Mr. Pearson."

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac Temiscaming) placed a notice of motion on today's order paper demanding the tabling of the film under a section calling for the "Production of Papers."

PEARSON UNDER FIRE

'Lying' Charges Fly in House

OTTAWA (CP)—The Opposition unleashed one of its fiercest attacks on Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons Tuesday, accusing him of lying and misleading the House to cover up government censorship of CBC programming.

Mr. Pearson was not in the chamber when five Conservatives and one New Democratic MP hurled bitter personal charges at him for more than three hours. The furor was expected to continue today.

The Opposition spokesmen repeated accusations that the government and Mr. Pearson's office applied political pressure on the CBC to prevent the showing of a $35,000 candid TV documentary about a day in Mr. Pearson's life, filmed last October.

External Affairs Minister Martin rose just before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment to demand that Eldon Williams (PC—Bow River) and Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) withdraw their statements that the prime minister misled the Commons about the TV program.

The chair did not have time to make a ruling and Mr. Martin was expected to press his demand at the opening of today's sitting.

WAS EXPELLED

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) made similar accusations last Friday and was expelled for the day after he refused to withdraw his remarks.

The prime minister's office said Mr. Pearson likely would reply to his critics today when a debate on a money supply bill enters its third day.

An aide said the government leader missed Tuesday's lively, well-attended exchange because he was at work in his office and had a dinner engagement.

Bryce Mackasey (Montreal—Verdun), the only Liberal who spoke at any length, called it "a rather vicious, unwarranted and fully premeditated attack, both on the prime minister as a person and on the high office that he represents."

The CBC board of directors today opens a three-day meeting in which the documentary Mr. Pearson will be discussed. The board will consider a public request Mr. Pearson made Friday that the film be telecast to end weeks of controversy.

STARTS ONSLAUGHT

Mr. Williams began the Opposition onslaught Tuesday with a flat demand for Mr. Pearson's resignation.

Mayor Huddles With Peterson

A new bid to settle the five-week strike which has crippled the Alberni Valley's lumber industry will be made when labor and management meet in Vancouver this week.

The meeting will be either Thursday or Friday, Port Alberni Mayor Les Hamer said today.

Mr. Hamer met for more than an hour this morning with Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to discuss the strike by office workers at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.'s pulp mill.

The office workers picket lines have closed all the company's operations in the Alberni Valley and the strike spread last week to logging camps, Mr. Hamer said.

ONLY ANSWER

The new meeting is the first face-to-face union-company attempt to solve the dispute for some time.

It will be attended by George Little of the labor department who has been trying to bring the two sides together for two weeks.

Mr. Hamer said mediation is the only answer to the strike. If this week's meeting fails, he suggested appointment of a special mediator.

STAYS NEUTRAL

Mr. Hamer said he intends to remain strictly neutral in the dispute, but he gave Mr. Peterson some confidential opinions about the situation.

"This is really straining the patience and the economy of the valley," Mr. Hamer said.

He termed the strike 10 times worse than the tidal waves which wreaked havoc in the valley March 27.

Mr. Hamer said local stores have stopped stocking consumer goods until the strike is over.

Commercial travellers are refusing to go into the area, hotels are almost empty and advertising in local newspapers and on radio has been slashed.

However, he denied reports that droves of residents are leaving the valley.

Mr. Hamer said that morale is quite high considering the economic situation, and the people who are leaving could be described as the transient section of the population.

About 4,000 people are out of work because of the strike, but almost everyone is affected, Mr. Hamer said.

Appeals to LBJ

PARIS (AP)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu appealed today to President Johnson to overrule the state department and allow her to enter the United States as a visitor.

MADISON AVENUE CALLED IN

Pawnbrokers to Hock Image Of Famed Three Gold Balls

NEW YORK (AP)—Pawnbroking, perhaps the second oldest profession, is hocking its image.

The three gold balls, which are to pawnbroking what the striped pole is to barbering, have to go. This is the verdict of New York's 100 pawn shop proprietors, who have become concerned over their image.

The pawn - now, pay - later business has called in Madison Avenue. The pawnbrokers have hired public relations counsel and Tuesday they held a press conference to burst the chains they say have fettered the industry since the days of Charles Dickens.

"In the public's mind," announced David F. Cohen, president of the New York Pawnbrokers Association, "the pawnbroker is a Dickensian old man with a skull cap, sitting behind an iron cage in a dusty shop with a magnifying glass in his eye."

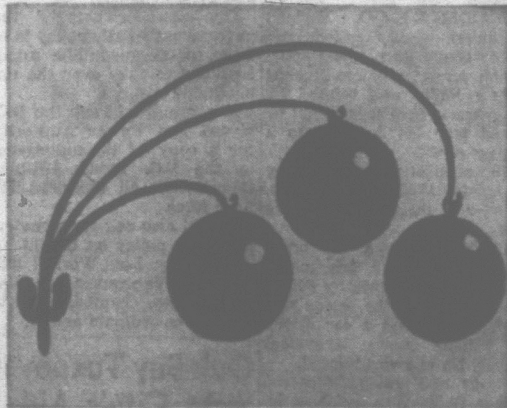

This, said Mr. Cohen, is unfortunate.

Today's pawnshop he said, is a bright, cheerful establishment, as often as not run by a college educated proprietor, where any lady would be happy to shop as well as hock.

STOCK NEW MERCHANDISE

"Most of our members stock a large variety of new merchandise which is available at discount prices," he said.

The pawn brokers had an artist design a new sign—three interconnected spirals—and have opened an office where any one with questions about pawn shops can call. The new sign printed in paper and designed to hang in the window, preserves the motif of the three balls—globes as they're known in the trade, which dates to the Medici family of Renaissance days, while clearly showing pawnbroking has planted its feet firmly in the twentieth century.

... the Old

"There's another factor in getting rid of the old sign," one pawnbroker confided. "It costs me $45 to have painted gilt each globe. And I gotta pay a guy to take 'em down and put 'em up again."

TALKS TO WORKMEN AT SHIPYARD

Nikita Brushes Off Tight Security Guard

(Times News Service)
GOTEBORG, Sweden—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today literally brushed aside his Swedish security guard to talk to a group of Russian workers at a shipyard here.

Khrushchev was about to leave the shipyard, according to schedule, after watching his wife, Nina, launch a refrigerator ship built at the shipyard for the Russians.

But instead of following the heavily guarded route laid out for him, he suddenly darted to one side and, pushing through crowds gathered to see him, headed for a group of about 40 Russian shipbuilding workers.

A burly Swedish policeman stretched out a hand to stop him but Khrushchev, brushing him aside, barreled on. He spent about five minutes talking to the Russians while security men chewed their fingernails in distress.

Khrushchev earlier mingled enthusiastically with Swedish shipyard workers and told them their Russian counterparts are concentrating now on freighters and fishing boats.

The Soviet Union has stopped building battleships and cruisers "which would have no real importance in a nuclear war," said the Soviet leader, whose navy has the world's biggest submarine fleet.

Intensive security precautions were taken in the wake of reports Tuesday of a plot to kidnap the Soviet leader in Stockholm, 300 miles away.

Soldiers and police hid in clumps of bushes along the road from Gotenburg's airport to the Arendal shipyard, where the premier paid his first visit.

Only 100 persons watched silently as Khrushchev was welcomed at the shipyard. Steel-helmeted workers went about their tasks, displaying little interest in the Russian visitor.

The tightening of the security precautions followed the announcement Tuesday of the arrest of a 30-year-old foreigner on suspicion of plotting to kidnap Khrushchev and hold him hostage for the release of political prisoners behind the Iron Curtain.

Svein Eriksson, a Swedish refugee—one of 5,000 who came to Sweden after the abortive 1956 Hungarian revolt—was detained.

But the newspaper Göteborg Tidningen claimed the refugee is from one of the Baltic nations annexed by the Soviet Union during the Second World War.

Earlier the public prosecutor, Aake Magnusson, denied a newspaper report that four men armed with machine guns planned to crash their way into the grounds of the 18th-century castle where Khrushchev stayed and take him hostage for thousands of Communist-held political prisoners.

"The possibility cannot be ignored that the whole matter may have a relatively harmless background," the prosecutor said.

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported that a madman who threatened to kill Khrushchev was at large in Stockholm after escaping from an insane asylum.

... HOUSE

He said the prime minister clearly contradicted himself on the Commons record and has a responsibility to resign under parliamentary tradition, natural law and divine law.

The Alberta MP said the prime minister first said he had seen the film twice at private showings, then a few days later denied ever seeing it.

"I suggest that the prime minister did not tell the truth because one statement must be wrong. They cannot both be correct."

Mr. Williams accused Mr. Pearson of deliberately concealing part of the truth on two other occasions in the House this year in statements about criticism of the proposed maple leaf flag and Banff's unsuccessful bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

GIVES ARGUMENT

Mr. Mackasey argued that the prime minister had not tried to conceal facts, but had made off-the-cuff replies that were contradictory only in appearance.

"The basic fact is that the prime minister has not seen the Pearson film as it has now been shown to the press and as it now exists in the hands of the producer," he said amid Opposition jeers.

The Liberal backbencher said his leader saw only the first draft of the film and a "slightly revised" version; he had not seen the final version.

"You are splitting hairs," a Conservative MP shouted.

Mr. Nielsen referred to a recent statement by Mr. Pearson that the Liberal government does not practice censorship of CBC programs and called it "lies."

Mr. Martin jumped to his feet to demand a retraction and the two men spoke simultaneously for a few minutes, vying for the floor.

SAVES INFLUENCE USED

Douglas Fisher, NDP house leader, said he is convinced the Liberals exercised political influence to kill the Pearson film. The result was that the brilliant career of the independent Toronto producer of the program, Richard Ballentine, was in jeopardy.

Several cabinet ministers and a "coterie" of Pearson advisers had disapproved of the film after a private showing and this had influenced the CBC's decision to cancel it, he contended.

The CBC's statement that the Ballentine program was technically inferior was a transparent excuse. Some CBC programs were "real lousy stinkers."

The episode pointed up the government's "conceit and incompetence" and its preoccupation with managing the news.

Summons On Philip Rejected

MAIDEN HEAD, England (Reuters) — A London road safety campaigner, whose application for a summons against Prince Philip was refused by magistrates here today, said he would take his demands to a higher court.

The application was made by Lt.-Cmdr. William Books, 60, founder of the Road Safety Society.

It arose from a car crash near here earlier this month between a car driven by Prince Philip in which the Queen was a passenger, and a car driven by William Cooper, a student driver. No one was injured.

Books had previously served Prince Philip with notice of intended private prosecution.

He said today he also intended to apply for a summons against the Queen for "aiding, abetting and condoning."

In his application for a summons, Books charged that Prince Philip drove his car "recklessly and at a speed which was dangerous to the public and without reasonable consideration" for other road-users.

MALAYSIAN STRUGGLE

Soviet Backs Fiery Sukarno

(Times News Services)

JAKARTA—President Sukarno of Indonesia said today Russia had pledged its support for his country's confrontation policy toward Malaysia.

"In our struggle to crush Malaysia we are seeking and collecting all the forces of our friends and all the progressive nations," the president told a crowd of 2,000 persons during the dedication of a monument to Indonesia by the Soviet Union.

First Deputy Premier Anastas

Mikoyan of Russia stood beside Sukarno during his fiery speech.

"The Soviet Union has pledged support for our confrontation policy and we will face the combined forces of the imperialists with the combined forces of the new merging forces."

"We have hundreds of thousands, even millions of friends."

Then Sukarno pointed a finger at the assembled foreign diplomats at the ceremony and declared:

"Your hearts are against us but the Soviet Union and Indonesia have the same heart."

Mikoyan said that the Soviet Union always is on the side of the Indonesian nation in its struggle against colonialism.

It was Sukarno's first public statement since the summit talks on the Malaysian dispute collapsed in Tokyo last weekend.

Antara, the official Indonesian news agency, said Mikoyan had promised Indonesia more aid "for the elimination of all forms of domination and oppression."

Antara gave no details as to the amount of aid or the form it might take.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said the militia's plans for re-entry into devastated cities have been made obsolete by the intercontinental missile.

Mr. Deschman said militiamen would re-enter bombed target areas only "to collect the ashes of their families."

Mr. Drury said the role of the militia in civil defence now is being reviewed. It might be possible to make some use of the militia instead of abandoning the entire re-entry scheme. Several MPs referred to the difficulties of militiamen living in target areas leaving their families to join units outside cities for re-entry operations if nuclear bombs fell.

Mr. Drury said regional emergency headquarters will be located outside major target areas.

"But he conceded that it is 'unfortunate' that government is operated by people who, for the most part, live in large centres."

High school graduates wishing to attend the University of Victoria this fall are advised by university officials to register early.

Application forms should be submitted with transcripts of their high school records as soon as possible after department of education examination results are released.

Deadline for application is Aug. 14, and registration will take place between Sept. 15 and 18 at Gordon Head campus.

Civil Defence Setup 'Backward' Says MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Grant Deschman (L—Vancouver Quadra) said Tuesday that Canada's entire civil defence organization is set up backwards.

"You've got the whole thing reversed," he told Defence Production Minister Drury, the minister responsible for civil defence, in the Commons defence committee.

Mr. Deschman said the Emergency Measures Organization is based on people who would be wiped out by the first bombs in any nuclear war.

The whole procedure should be reversed, and civil defence organized in rural areas outside target cities.

Mr. Deschman said militiamen would re-enter bombed target areas only "to collect the ashes of their families."

Top Team Hired To Supervise Columbia Jobs

Five of North America's top engineers have been hired to supervise construction of the Columbia River power project.

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said today the Columbia Board of Review will check all designs and plans, select construction materials and supervise the project in the field.

Preliminary work has already begun on the three dams at Duncan Lake, Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

The five experts: Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, formerly chief engineer for the U.S. Army and now power adviser to the International Bank; John O. Gorman, Ontario Hydro geological expert, who worked on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Niagara power project;

J. Gordon Watson, chairman of the South Saskatchewan River Development Board and chief engineer for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration.

J. Barry Cooke, of San Rafael, Calif., a consultant on power projects around the world;

Calvin V. Davis, chairman of Harza Engineering Co., of Chicago.

A similar board was set up for the Peace River project.

"It is an extra safeguard to ensure that standards of maximum safety are built into the dams," Dr. Keenleyside said.

10 WEEKS HOLIDAY

School's Out Thursday

It will be no more teachers and no more books for some 33,000 children in lower island schools starting Friday.

The students will begin the longest — 10 weeks — holiday they have had in years.

There are 26,250 students in Greater Victoria schools; 2,000 in Sooke, and 3,000 in School District 63, Saanich.

Also marking the end of the school year are awards days and closing ceremonies.

Recognition ceremonies will be held tonight at Claremont Senior Secondary School, Saanich, and Thursday evening at Edward Milne School, Sooke.

Awards ceremonies were held today at Sidney elementary and are scheduled for Thursday at Mount Newton high school.

In Greater Victoria, Montre-ry, Quadra primary, North Ward, Gordon Head, Lampson and S. J. Willis schools held prize-giving assemblies today.

CRISIS FOLLOWS CRISIS

Diplomatic Jungle Dense In Southeast Asia Wars

By RICHARD F. NEWCOMB

In Southeast Asia, the diplomatic jungle is often as dense as the real one.

Through it dimly can be seen recurrent crises, and the only thing that seems certain is that one crisis will follow another for a long time to come.

There is, of course, real war and real dying. The scale, for those who lived through two world wars, is minute. But what frightens the world is the sight of great powers — the Soviet Union, Red China and the United States — hovering around the edges of the conflict, all able, indeed pledged, to commit powerful forces if one side goes too far.

Of the three protagonists, the most to be feared is Red China. The Soviet Union, for once, is playing an equivocal role. Khrushchev, having renounced nuclear war, for the obvious reason that the United States can also play that game, is in the peculiar position of wishing to stir up trouble wherever possible, but yet having to appear less belligerent than Communist China.

This is causing him loss of face in Hanoi, headquarters for the Communist drive against South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. Ho Chi Minh, the bearded old revolutionary leader in North Viet Nam, was schooled in Moscow. When needing help, he used to knock first on that door. Now he looks to Peking, because the Red Chinese have seized from the Russians the banner of violent revolution.

Fighting By Proxy

Mao Tse-tung, who may have got a bellyful in Korea, is fighting this war by proxy, and his proxy is Ho Chi Minh. No Red Chinese forces have been found in South Viet Nam or Laos, but Ho is well-supplied with Chinese, Russian and Czech arms. He has about 250,000 men in his People's Army, but his strongest arm is the guerrillas.

In South Viet Nam they are called Viet Cong, and in Laos the Pathet Lao. The hard-core men in both these forces were trained in North Viet Nam. Together with volunteers, the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam is estimated at more than 100,000. They control perhaps two-thirds of the country, including the virtual suburbs of Saigon.

In northern Laos, the Pathet Lao alternately advances and recedes, ever threatening yet never quite bringing down the shaky government of Laos.

Surrendered

In Cambodia, Prince Norodom Sihanouk has already surrendered, at least symbolically. He still rules the country, but he has cast off his friendship with the United States. He is sure that Mao will eventually win the struggle in Asia, and he wants to be on the winning side.

He helps Mao where he can, by letting the Viet Cong take sanctuary behind his border with South Viet Nam, and by charging South Viet Nam and the United States with border incursions when they chase the Viet Cong. Such charges come easy along a frontier so badly marked that nobody knows where the line is. And when the prince makes charges, Khrushchev and Mao applaud him, with Mao making the louder noise.

Busy Elsewhere

Mao is busy elsewhere, too. He is making threatening noises and gestures along his long border with India, and is not averse to growling at Khrushchev where their claims conflict in the wilds of Sinkiang.

Along the great arc of the South China Sea, where Indonesia and Malaysia come together on the island of Borneo, President Sukarno vows that the Indonesians will crush the British, who stand behind the new state. Khrushchev is in the stands, cheering him on. Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman summons 12,000 more men to the Malaysian colors and then goes to consult his astrologer. The seer tells him the present crisis will continue for 10 months. That certainly seems a safe bet.

French Slant

Into this boiling pot, stir a little French dressing. The French, openly wooing Cambodia, suggest that Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam should be "neutralized." To some, this brings to mind the posters in the streets of Saigon: "Red Plan — First Neutralize, then Communize." Some even suggest the French were rather hoping the United States would fall in Southeast Asia, as the French had done.

The United States had other ideas. From President Johnson down the policy was firm: Stand fast in Southeast Asia, with whatever it takes.

Lodge 'Magic' To Republicans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The magic of the Lodge name brought new hope today to the moderate and liberal Republicans manoeuvring to keep their party's presidential nomination from going to Senator Barry Goldwater.

It remains to be seen whether the resignation of Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam to take up the political cudgels for Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania comes too late to stop Goldwater. Convention time is less than three weeks away.

Lodge's decision to jump into presidential politics was widely heralded by backers of Scranton — already supported by Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York — as a major development in his efforts to win delegates away from Goldwater.

Supporters of Goldwater, who has more than enough delegates on paper at least to win the nomination on the first ballot, generally discounted Lodge's move.

While nobody questioned the sincerity of Lodge's commitment to back Scranton, some Republican strategists noted there are elements present that could lead to unpredictable developments.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE?

'NOT RUNNING FOR ANYTHING'

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said today he is resigning his post solely to help Gov. William Scranton in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination. He said he would not accept a draft if offered. "I am not a candidate for anything," Lodge said.

feated by the late president Kennedy, could provide the Republicans with another presidential candidate.

This would be true particularly, they said, if there was a resurgence of Lodge's popularity in the national polls. These listed him as top choice for the nomination before he ran second to Rockefeller in the May 15 Oregon primary after winning the March 10 New Hampshire primary handily. Some polls still give Lodge high ratings.

One of Scranton's principal problems in his belated scramble for the nomination has been that many Republicans just don't know much about him and haven't learned where he stands on the issues.

Lodge has general recognition among the party workers whose votes count in the convention balloting.

South Viet Nam War 'Can't Be Voting Issue'

SAIGON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge said today he doesn't see how the war in South Viet Nam can be an issue in the U.S. presidential campaign — "it involves the Eisenhower administration and the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and the Truman administration."

"In history when you've had a disaster," Lodge told reporters, "then that becomes a political issue, even if the politicians do not do anything about it. But of course there's no outlook of that kind for the time."

Lodge announced his resignation as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam Tuesday and said he was returning to the United States to help Governor William W. Scranton's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The leading candidate for the nomination, Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, said in Washington "the Johnson - McNamara program of indecision and vacillation has made it impossible for (Lodge) to carry out his ambassadorial functions properly and undoubtedly motivated his resignation."

'RELATIONSHIP GOOD'

But Lodge said he had been on excellent terms with President Johnson. "Viet Nam is on the right track and, with persistence, its

UNIQUE INVESTMENT PAYS BIG RETURNS TO MODERATE INVESTORS

Until recently, mortgage investment which for centuries has been regarded as the safest form of investment, was monopolized by banks, insurance companies, business corporations and by wealthy individuals. Most people could not afford it. Now, however, an investor, with only a moderate sum, is being able to reap the non-speculative benefits which accrue from this form of investment.

The Trans-Canada Joint Mortgage Corporation (a subsidiary of Trans-Canada Mortgage Corp., the largest mortgage investment company of its kind in Western Canada) has introduced a new type of mortgage investment which allows a person, with as little as $500 to invest, to become a joint beneficiary of a first mortgage. His name is registered as such in the Government Land Registry Office, and he receives 7 1/2% interest compounded semi-annually. Unlike stocks and bonds, the return from joint-mortgage investments never vary. If left to compound, they double in 9 1/2 years, triple in 12. Or an investor may receive 7 1/2% interest paid quarterly, leaving his investment intact at all times. Trans-Canada joint-mortgage investments are accepted as collateral security or may be withdrawn at any time.

A prospectus is available on request. For further information write or phone TRANS-CANADA JOINT MORTGAGE CORPORATION LTD., 8100 Bldg., Vancouver, B.C. (MU 5-6266).

Calling In the Reserves

THE RESIGNATION OF U.S. Ambassador Lodge in Saigon, to free him to help Governor Scranton in the latter's race for the Republican presidential nomination, adds a strong new factor to the American election campaign.

Senator Goldwater, already counting the last handful of convention votes needed to give him the nomination, will now face more formidable opposition. Mr. Scranton had earlier been promised the support of the other nomination possibility, Governor Rockefeller, and there can be little doubt that those powerful Republican leaders who could never accept Senator Goldwater as their Party entry in the presidential race have now moved to halt him.

Their action may be late, but it is certainly significant. There is now a focus for all the anti-Goldwater sentiment whose continuing presence was overshadowed by the strong California vote. There is now presented to them a powerful coalition with a reasonable chance of uniting the moderate forces of the Republican Party. More than that, there is shaping up a Republican candidacy which will have vastly more appeal to the large body of non-aligned voters who usually swing the balance in elections.

That is not to say the Republican Party is any nearer to winning the presidential race itself. The situation might be summed up by saying that with Goldwater their cause was hopeless. With the Scranton-Lodge-Rockefeller team there can at least be hope.

Gloves Off In Helena

IN THE CONTINUING BATTLE against juvenile delinquency, the tactics of Montana are drawing international attention.

The basic weapon in that state's campaign is open trial of juveniles for all but petty offences. The protection of closed court — over-protection in the opinion of some — is denied the accused and the family is directly involved through publicity.

In consequence the community is informed not only of juvenile crime, but of the identity of those participating. The neighbors know which of the children in their district are engaged in serious hoodlums.

This is the outcome of legislation passed three years ago. Statistics indicate that the result has been a 49 per cent decrease in juvenile felonies and a 75 per cent decrease in traffic offences during the ensuing period in the state capital of Helena.

The success of the procedure, which has drawn praise from Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, is attributed to the efforts and perseverance of Judge Lester Loble, who believes that law-abiding citizens should not be forced to live in apprehension because of the activities of hoodlums.

Prior to the legislation which deprives juvenile delinquents of their immunity from publicity, says Judge Loble, "most Helena residents never knew who these hoodlums were. The boy or girl who beat up and robbed an old person might have been the child next door. I decided that if a youth was old enough to be guilty of such monstrous acts he was old enough to be prosecuted in open court and his case reported in the newspapers."

The judge's attitude runs counter to the thinking of many social workers and psychiatrists, but he is not concerned with their opinions. In fact he blames them as one cause of the critical proportions juvenile crime has reached. "They believe," he says, "that every young hoodlum who snatches an old woman's purse, holds up a garage attendant or assaults a young girl is a mental case who must be given 'treatment', not punishment. They want to tear down the prisons and build hospitals. All they do is encourage and incite more crime."

This is a point of view with which many will disagree. It appears to discount theories aimed at the reclamation of the young offender. On the basis of the Helena statistics, however, the judge seems to have scored his point.

But the attack is not launched solely at the young offender. When Judge Loble considers the parents more guilty than the children for reasons of drunkenness, neglect or immorality, he has them brought before him and administers punishment, including prison sentences, to them.

The pattern followed in Helena has some direct concern for British Columbia. Here, from time to time and notably in the last year or two, considerable thought has been given to reducing the age of offenders referred to juvenile court. Proposals to lower the age to 16 have encountered the argument that to give a youth a record, stigmatising him for life, is anything but helpful in his rehabilitation.

The argument deserves serious consideration. So, also, does the argument that the victims of hoodlums profit not at all from the leniency shown to the juvenile offender. And in Victoria, as elsewhere, the seriousness and violence in juvenile crime does little to encourage a soft approach.

Lights! Action!

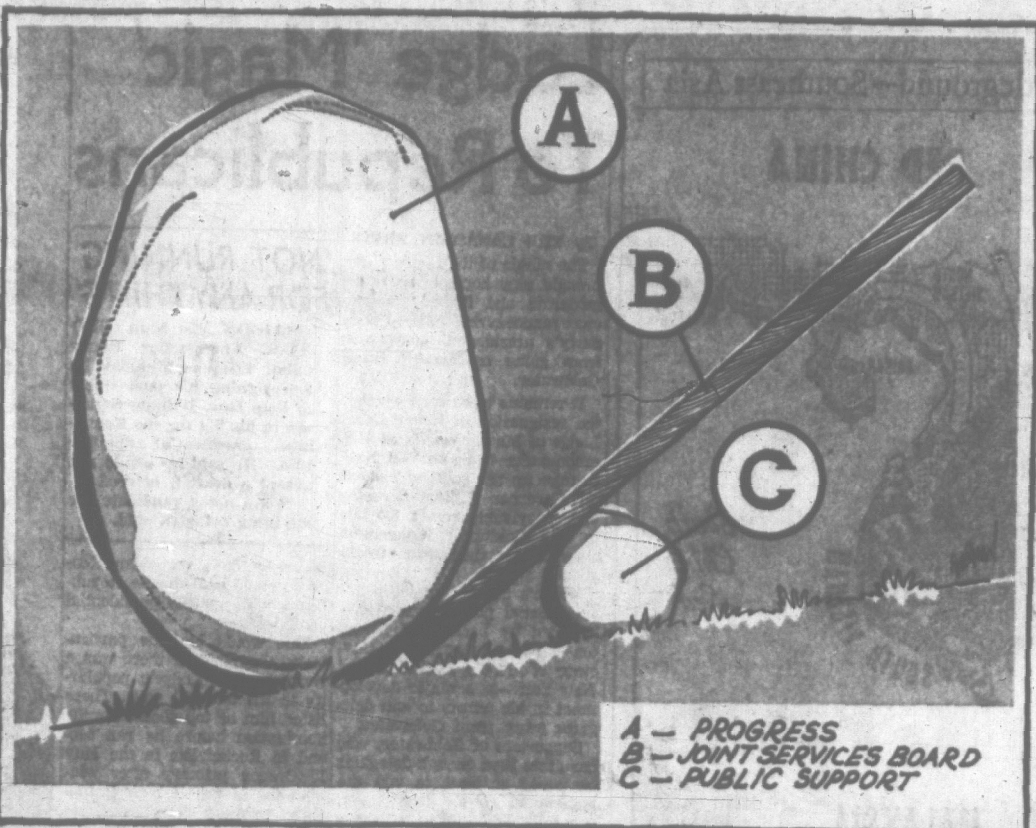

OF ALL THE TRIVIAL MATTERS on which Parliament could waste its time just now, the question of whether or not to show a CBC film of a day in the life of the prime minister is the least likely to excite public enthusiasm.

While the depth of the racist split is seen in the heat of the flag debate both inside and outside of the Commons, while economic reports indicate the country is rapidly sliding again into a critical balance of payments situation, while the national legislature ought to be coping with our finances, our employment problem, our development program and our international relations — while all these essential concerns await Parliament's decisions, we get a daily diet of squabbling about the film.

The principle of the CBC's freedom from political influence is an important one and must be maintained. But the CBC itself is insistent that there is no such pressure in the present instance. Although the candid camera technique has reportedly presented Mr. Pearson in a poor view in several scenes and the whole production has been termed below CBC standards, the prime minister has said they can broadcast the thing or not, as they please. This is hardly political interference.

The whole incident boils down to Mr. Diefenbaker's efforts to create a furor over the film where he hasn't been able to make much yardage in more important matters. Let's get the movie out of the Commons and back into the studios, and get on with the long summer's work.

The Film and a Grey Sort of Black Friday

By MAURICE WESTERN

THE lurid events of last Friday, which led up to the temporary expulsion of Mr. Alvin Hamilton, should dispel the impression that the choice of a national flag is the most contentious issue now before Parliament. What provokes the gun-play is a remarkable divergence of taste between Liberal and Oppositionist connoisseurs of TV movies.

Until their eyes were opened some days ago by Mr. Fisher, the New Democratic film critic, most Conservatives had regarded the prime minister as an indifferent television performer, sadly lacking in the histrionic talents of Mr. Diefenbaker.

While few, if any, have seen the Ballentine production, "Mr. Pearson," they have now been persuaded by Mr. Fisher's promotional efforts that this film, while perhaps unsuitable for children, is a worthy successor to "Tom Jones" and one which ought to be enjoyed, in its unexpurgated edition, by every young Canadian.

The Liberal view is distinctly different. Though deploring anything in the way of censorship, most government members share the official view of the CBC that the show is so ill-conceived, technically imperfect and deficient in audience appeal that it would be an exercise in sadism to inflict it upon the public.

As Mr. Ralph Cowan, a Toronto member, remarked in his brief but pithy review on Friday, "I consider (i) the worst piece of motion picture TV programming I ever did see."

Despite their admiration for the central character, Liberals generally seem reluctant to admit, even to their wives, that they have been present at clandestine showings of the Ballentine epic. (Mr. Cowan's case is exceptional and an indication of his devotion to duty, however distasteful.)

Conservatives, on the other hand, have been aroused to avid interest by the grandmotherly behavior of the CBC, which has restricted its showings to select groups consisting of newspapermen hardened to expect the worst by long experience in the press gallery.

A measure of Conservative enthusiasm for the project may be found in a question addressed to Mr. Lamontagne last week by Mr. Fairweather, a Maritime member of cheery mien and wide-ranging curiosity.

'Mike Sent Me'

Was the secretary aware, Mr. Fairweather wondered, "that if he visits a certain location in downtown Ottawa tonight, knocks three times and gives the password, 'Mike sent me', he can enjoy the otherwise restricted film, 'Mr. Pearson,' which has been tastefully cleaned up so as not to offend the sensibilities of the secretary of state for external affairs, and would he pass on this good news to the CBC?"

How many Conservatives (or disguised Liberals) turned up on location is not known but certain difficulties were apparently encountered because Mr. Tom Bell afterwards voiced the complaint in Parliament that he wanted his two dollars back.

Mr. Pearson, at the urging of Mr. Diefenbaker, has now undertaken to urge the CBC to expose the unexpurgated film to the critical appraisal of members of Parliament. If the corporation complies, it should be possible to determine whether the Fisher-Fairweather promotional build-up was justified or simply the parliamentary equivalent of the advance billing for Hollywood spectacles.

Even if it comes up to Conservative expectations, however, it is doubtful if it will match in melodramatic qualities the high noon confrontation provoked on Friday by questions relating to the film.

The affair began when Mr. Alvin Hamilton, the celebrated Conservative gun-toter from Qu'Appelle (who usually specializes in Chinese movies) opened up on Mr. McRath, president of the Privy Council. Had the minister been present in the cabinet room, he demanded, when "Mr. Pearson" was being filmed and were political matters being discussed by those present?

Came Up Shooting

Mr. McRath's hand had barely reached his holster when the prime minister was on his feet pumping lead into the Conservative benches. Repeating earlier statements, he insisted that "there was no filming of a cabinet meeting at any time by anyone." Holding that this was unresponsive, Mr. Hamilton accused Mr. Pearson of misleading the House and of offering less than the complete truth.

When the prime minister demanded a withdrawal, Mr. Fisher jumped in to claim that there was a legitimate point to be considered since the film showed, either a cabinet committee meeting or a "play game for camera purposes."

The Port Arthur member then brought the opposition to a pitch of excitement by revealing various details

Quebec L'Action

The economic aspect of relations between Canada and Germany is . . . of prime importance for the two countries. Germany sent us manufactured products worth $144,000,000 in 1963 while Canada exported primary goods valued at $171,000,000.

It should be noted that Quebec supplies its share of the exports to Germany. Aluminum, asbestos and cellulose — in large part from Quebec — follow wheat and airplane engines on the list.

A member of the Common Market and closely associated with France, Germany remains more open to multilateral trade than most European countries.

Since last January the Pearson government has taken steps to improve Canada's relations with France. Programs have been started to strengthen the links uniting the countries in the fields of education and culture, as well as in the sectors of investment, immigration, defence production, science and tourism.

Similar agreements with Germany, can serve our country and Europe.

of the Ballentine plot. It seemed to objective onlookers, to lack many of the qualities which have made customers queue for "Tom Jones," but Mr. Fisher's recital had the Conservatives panting with excitement.

Shouting Match

But all these exchanges were mere preliminaries. A few incandescent moments later, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker were up at the same time neither able to make himself heard over the roar of his movie-going or movie-abstaining supporters. It was a spectacle that would have gratified the heart of Mr. Ballentine although it diverged slightly from the best horse opera traditions when the two leaders frustrated by the uproar, began to flap at each other like a pair of Antarctic penguins.

On the face of matters there was no irreconcilable conflict between the prime minister's assurance that no cabinet meeting or cabinet committee meeting had been filmed and Mr. Hamilton's allegation that various people had been in the cabinet room discussing politics while the film was being made.

Despite a last-minute attempt at conciliation by the prime minister, Mr. Hamilton was named, that is to say suspended for the remainder of the day's sitting. He duly retired but was brought back by Mr. Churchill on the insistence of the Conservative that he be banished in strict accordance with Beauchêne's rules. These required a motion from the government benches enabling Mr. Diefenbaker to make the references to Black Friday.

As the House pronounced sentence upon Mr. Hamilton at 4:50 p.m., Black Friday lasted on this occasion for about 10 minutes, not counting private members' hour.

What Empire?

The episode of six elderly women hauling down the maple leaf flag put up for a trial run by Victoria youths, prompts me to write.

These women called the youths traitors and an insult to the British Empire, what Empire? The Imperial conference of 1926 states that no longer an empire shall dominate at the centre by one imperial power of Great Britain, but by a British Commonwealth of Nations.

Let us hope the youth of today shall keep abreast of the times throughout their adult life, and not become narrow and dogmatic as so many of us older folk are prone to become.

I believe all Canadian citizens should be equally represented by their country's flag, whether they be Indian, French, British or Chinese. The maple leaf flag embraces all of us.

Scarcity of Birds

From time to time we read of the abundance and variety of birdlife in Victoria and vicinity, but this week, on showing visitors through the grounds of Royal Roads (truly magnificent), I was struck with the almost total absence of birdlife of any description.

In this respect there was a depressing silence. There was neither a songbird nor a duck on the various lakes, nor a seagull on the wing. In the hour and a half of time we spent there we saw only two swallows and one lone squirrel. Otherwise all was perfection.

My home is in Langford, and it is much the same regarding birdlife, but in contrast to this may I say that in Southern Alberta, my former home, we had many more birds than we have here, and a friend at Vanderhoof, B.C., tells me there are birds by the thousands around his place every spring and fall.

It was most gratifying to note that the federal and provincial governments have started negotiations for restoration of Craigflower Manor as an historic site. We would like to commend the provincial government for their foresight in considering the preservation of this historic building.

Another Russian Economic Dream Fades as the Comecon Withers Away

By Edward Crankshaw

BEHIND the manoeuvrings between Moscow and Bucharest a very considerable drama is unfolding. It involves far more than the immediate relations between the Soviet Union and Rumania. It threatens the collapse of one more Russian dream. Comecon, Mr. Khrushchev's answer to the Common Market, and, indeed, all Western organizations for economic co-operation, is in the process of withering away, and the Balkans and Eastern Europe are reverting to their old ways.

After Rumania's act of defiance and the Soviet Union's response to it — first, behind the scenes pressure; then public vituperation; now weak and watery gestures of good will — it is hard to see how the economic integration of Eastern Europe can now be achieved by anything but force. And the use of force, if it were conceivable in this context — which it is not — would, as it did in Stalin's day, defeat its own purpose.

Mr. Khrushchev, seeing the ruin inflicted by Stalin on the East European economy, resolved to repair the damage by rationalizing industrial and agricultural production throughout the European Communist bloc. He sought to integrate the various national economies, and he invited each member to see itself as part of a larger whole, and to concentrate on developing those aspects of production which came most easily and naturally to it.

Thus, broadly speaking, East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland were to supply the workshops and the forges; Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary the bread. These last countries were required to abate their pretensions to rapid industrial progress and find a happy destiny in feeding their more advanced neighbors. It was all to be done by kindness and a little judicious blackmail from Moscow.

Both the Soviet Union and the countries which stood most to gain from this sort of integration have protested all along that nothing was further from their minds than to relegate their less advanced neighbors to a pastoral existence in perpetuity. As recently as last week, Problems of Peace and Socialism, published in Prague, declared that there had never been the least intention on the part of the larger members of Comecon to exploit the smaller ones. Rumania thought otherwise. She had reason to; Moscow had long objected to the amount of energy and treasure she was putting into her new and showy steel industry.

This month the Rumanian economic journal, Vistia Economica, showed that Rumania's fears were based on even deeper causes than the prospect of serving as an agrarian hinterland for the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc as a whole.

The journal taxed the Soviet Union with floating a plan to "violate Rumania's territorial integrity" by creating a tightly-knit economic complex on the lower Danube to include parts of Rumania, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union.

Declaring that "Rumania will not participate in any inter-state complex, in any super-state form of collaboration or socialist integration" the journal went on to ask: where this sort of process might be expected to end. It did not mention that the Soviet Union had already taken to itself two provinces from Rumania. It did not mention that Bucharest is feverishly trying to Rumanianize the reluctant Hungarian minority of Transylvania, which still looks to Budapest.

It did say, however, that if the Russian plan went through, and if the process continued, it would mean that "Rumania as a State, the Rumanian people as a nation, would be liquidated by simple administrative means, with economic justification in the name of pseudo-Marxism."

Thus, fairly rational ideas about economic co-operation in Eastern Europe are seen to be going around not only on Soviet clamskins — for Russia has not been clever enough to conceal the fact that her plans for Comecon were designed primarily to promote the prosperity of the Soviet Union — but even more importantly on ancient Balkan and East European rivalries and hatreds of the kind which helped to bring destruction to the Habsburg empire.

The only thing which held this bitterly-riven complex together was Soviet power, represented by Stalin's army and police. Once this brute force was removed, Mr. Khrushchev should have realized in the light of history that he would need all his skill as a politician and a diplomat, together with a large and flexible expenditure of Russian aid, to weld these countries into a viable alliance. Instead, he tried to force the pace. Comecon was launched at least a decade too soon; and the pressure was put on at a moment when Moscow is least able to apply it.

Certainly, the Rumanian Communists — on whom no love need be lost; their domestic regime is still what one would expect — enjoy one advantage not shared by their neighbors, whom they have exploited to the full: they have their own oil, with a healthy surplus for export, and they can feed their own country.

But they have been able to base their defiant stand on two main points. The first is the existence of the Sino-Soviet quarrel, which has enabled Bucharest to play Moscow off against Peking, and which has inhibited the Russians from using the only weapons with which they are really happy: the big stick. At a time when Khrushchev is suing for the support of the united Communist world against China, he cannot easily afford to antagonize any part of it.

The second is Russia's own need to trade with the West. When Khrushchev is forced to do business on a large scale with the West, above all to solve his urgent agricultural problems — the bulk purchase of grain and the setting up of plants for crash fertilizer programs — it is almost impossible for him — though he has tried — to forbid the countries of East Europe from developing Western trade themselves. Rumania has been the foremost in exploiting this situation.

Thus, the Rumanian Communist Party's statement of April this year, which was really a manifesto, a declaration of independence, and, as such, printed to the tune of 1,500,000 copies in Rumanian, read aloud to every Rumanian collective and distributed in Spanish, French and German, as well as English and Russian, as a sign to capitalist businessmen, is based on these very points.

They may also be taken up, and almost certainly will be, by other countries in what we used to think of as the monolithic Communist bloc. Already the Czechs are discovering in their press that Yugoslavia has come to no harm through her trade arrangements with the West and is inviting the Czechs to draw the logical conclusion.

'Where No Man Ever Trod'

IN one of those minor avalanches that occur when you pick up an album of un-pasted snapshots, a yellowing photograph of Foul Bay and Ross Bay has come to light at our house. Taken from a high point on Gonzales Hill, it shows the district as it looked in 1911 or 1912, according to unidentified handwriting on the back.

If you could climb to the same vantage point today—without intruding into someone's living room—the outlook would be much different. The shoreline would be the same, but the woods have gone. New houses have sprung up on what was wild land and old houses have been demolished to make room for more recent residences.

At the time the picture was taken, Foul Bay was a place for picnics or for summer camp—a country sort of locality reasonably far out from town, though it had well-surfaced streets paved, as the late Frank Higgins used to say, "way out into the wilderness in a saturnalian debauch of civic expenditure."

You compare the view today with the old photograph and you see the fruits of what some people call progress.

One thing remains the same. The access was all there in 1911, just as it is now. There is not, here, the problem confronting Central Saanich as it mulls over provision of routes to lakes and seashore. The joint pressures of population and "progress" squeeze Central Saanich now and the wilderness gives way to people and homes. This is inevitable and, to some of us, unpleasant.

It leaves me wondering how long Vancouver Island itself, apart from those big parks where the miners and loggers are going, will escape the mass intrusion of humanity.

A few years ago I was a guest on a courtesy flight over a fair amount of Vancouver Island territory. The aircraft flew above virgin forest in places, in other parts over second growth and frequently over hills or mountains where timber is not yet accessible or worth harvesting.

One of the remembered delights of the trip was the view it gave me of little lakes high up mountains, sometimes almost at their peaks. These were jewels burnished only by the sun and unspoiled, as far as we could see from a low-flying plane, by the hand of man.

Apart from the hardy breed of mountain men or modern alpinists, few could make it into these relatively small bodies of water, some no larger than potholes. In time, I guess, logging roads fingered out into the timber or rich men's helicopters with floats will put humans on the shores. For a short while then some lucky people will have their own private lake with nature crowding around them.

Briefly the fortunate will be able to recite with feeling Cannon F. G. Scott's "Unnamed Lake"—"It sleeps among the thousand hills, where no man ever trod, and only Nature's music fills the silences of God."

Then more people will move in. The setting will tarnish, the gem will lose its lustre. This stirs in me a gentle sadness which is quite unreasonable.

At this point in time there are hundreds of these mountainside, or peak lakes, viewed only by an infrequent airplane passenger cruising low over the wrinkled and rugged surface of Vancouver Island, and by a few intrepid folk, experienced or lost hunters, who go in by foot.

I have gazed down on them in transit and dreamed of building a cabin beside one of them—dreaming of building a cabin is easy. Of course my settling there wouldn't be an intrusion. It would be me (or I, if you want to be grammatical). Intrusion would come from other people—and it will come.

While I'll fight to preserve the wilderness, or as much as can be preserved for the wilderness enjoyment of other people, I'm forced to the conclusion that these little spots of liquid treasure in our island mountains don't do anyone much good just by appearing as a flashing sight seen from a plane. Access to them and some development is as desirable as it is inevitable.

But let's offer a small prayer that when that happens it won't be the forerunner of mutilation, contamination and the inglorious offal of human carelessness. It doesn't have to be.

When I look at our old picture of Foul Bay, I'm conscious of change. I miss the woods and fields of boyhood there, but change in itself isn't necessarily revolting.

NATURE ON THE ISLAND

'Living Fossils' Unlikely Here

Dear Dr. Carl:
Both the coelocanth of Africa and the notornis of New Zealand have been described as "living fossils." Now is it that these animals remained undiscovered for so long? Are we likely to find anything comparable to them in British Columbia?
W.W.R.

Dear W.W.R.:
To biologists in general and to fish students in particular, the discovery of the first coelocanth in 1935 was of great interest because it represented a fish family that was thought to be extinct for sixty to seventy millions of years. It may seem surprising at first that such a large fish (five feet long) could have escaped notice so long but there are several reasons for this. In the first place it apparently lives in a part of the world that is the least known so far as its fauna is concerned. The fishes of the eastern shores of Africa and the region around Madagascar have only recently received the attention due them. Moreover, coelocanth is not particularly abundant and they probably frequent habitats where they are difficult to catch. Actually these fish were occasionally taken by natives for food but no scientist had noticed them until 1938.

Circumstances relating to the flightless notornis are a little different. The possibility of the existence of this bird was recognized by many ornithologists but no one ventured into the relatively unexplored sections of New Zealand's South Island to look for it until a few years ago.

Not only does the bird live in a remote area but it is also most secretive in its habits. Being both flightless and relatively silent it does not advertise its presence except by characteristic footprints and it was these marks that led investigators to their first sight of these unusual birds.

Carl

Like the coelocanth the notornis is a surviving member of an ancient group and has consequently earned the status of a "living fossil." It owes its existence up to the present time to the fact it lives on a rather isolated island and no predators were present.

The situation now is changed. The country is being opened up by settlers and foreign animals have been introduced, so that the bird is likely to become exterminated if it is not given protection from both man and from harmful competitors and meat-eaters.

The chances of finding a similar "living fossil" in British Columbia are extremely remote. In the first place this part of the world has never been isolated long enough for unique kinds of animals to persist unchanged or for unusual new ones to develop.

More than once and for long periods of time the New World has been connected to the Old World in the dim past so that there has been a flow of living things in both directions. As a consequence our animal species have not been allowed to develop along unique lines and in fact most of them have counterparts in Europe and Asia.

They may differ as to species but basically they are similar. This lack of isolation alone is enough to guarantee that members of ancient groups could not have persisted here unchanged for eons of time.

Moreover, except for the deeper parts of the ocean most areas in this part of the world have been fairly well explored biologically; it is hardly possible that any reasonably large animals remain to be discovered notwithstanding persistent reports of sea-serpents along the coastline and sasquatches or hairy giants in mountain areas!

Without doubt there are undescribed species to be discovered in British Columbia but only among the smaller forms such as the mice or among the "lesser lights," including insects and other invertebrates.

Send questions in natural history to Dr. Cliff Carl, care of the Times.

SYNOPSIS—Dry air associated with a ridge of high pressure over the south coast will give sunny skies to southern B.C. with afternoon temperatures in the mid-eighties expected in the southern interior. This sunny warm weather is in sharp contrast to cloudy showery weather on the north coast. The moist air from the north coast is spilling over into the central interior and was expected to set off showers and a few thunderstorms there this afternoon. The moist air will move to southwestern B.C. tonight bringing patchy cloudiness to the lower coast Thursday morning.

Balky Peonies Require Heat Treatment

By HILDA BEASTALL
Now that the majority of peonies are coming into full bloom, gardeners are wondering why certain of their plants are not also blooming.

In most instances it is remembered that those not in flower are the ones put into the garden last fall as newly purchased tubers.

As a general rule, these take a full year of growth before any flowers may be expected. A few of the strongest varieties will flower the first year, and the gardener is delighted.

Peonies failing to bloom although they have been growing in the same place for a number of years need to be attended to, but not by digging them up now and planting in a new position.

There are several reasons for failure to bloom and personally I do not think the commonest cause is too deep planting.

Few gardeners are likely to dig a deep pit for planting a peony tuber, and while two inches of soil over the top of the tuber is the recommended depth, an inch or two more will make little or no difference.

LIKE WARMTH

However, a sunny, open situation is essential, for peonies like warmth in the soil over their entire root area through summer, and frost in the same ground during winter.

The prairie folks tell us that peonies grown here on the coast cannot compare in size and quality with those of the deep-freeze, summer-bake areas and this seems to bear out the theory that these need an open situation to take advantage of the elements.

Shade, or partial shade during the afternoon while the peonies are blooming will lengthen the life of the blooms, although the midseason and late varieties now in flower last longer than the earlier ones.

In fact, the beautifully textured single peonies will last on the plants for 10 days because they close tightly each night.

Summer is the time peonies require copious watering, preceded by a feeding now of a balanced fertilizer.

Any moving, or new plants to be added, must wait until mid-September when the foliage has become browned and the tubers are dormant.

Churchill Kin Dies

LONDON (AP)—Capt. George Spencer-Churchill, cousin of Sir Winston Churchill, died today from severe burns. He was 88. Spencer-Churchill, a grandson of the sixth Duke of Marlborough, was painfully scalded when he fell into a tub of hot water at his London home a week ago.

'WATCHDOG' NEEDS HELP

OTTAWA (CP)—Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson said Tuesday he is so strapped for staff that he cannot do a fully effective job as watchdog over federal government expenditures. He also told the Commons public accounts committee that "neither the treasury board or anyone else should stop the auditor-general from operating effectively," he said.

The auditor-general's office should have proper staff. This committee should never be told again by the auditor-general that he is doing an inefficient job because of lack of staff.

Immigration Rules Still Under Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—Demands for an overhaul of Canada's immigration regulations were tossed at Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay again Tuesday in the Commons as backbench MPs charged that the present rules are unfair and discriminatory.

One of the stiffest attacks came from Liberal Joe Macaluso (Hamilton West) who said he was not sure whether regulations are designed to bring in immigrants or keep them out. He called on Mr. Tremblay to make a sweeping study of the situation.

It was "disgraceful" that the immigration department maintained only one office in Italy, where it could not handle all the business. With at least two additional offices needed in Italy, he questioned the wisdom of opening new offices in Beirut and Cairo.

Mr. Macaluso, son of Italian immigrants, also asked for an overhaul of the examinations given to prospective citizens. The questions varied from one exam to another, and some were grossly unfair.

How many square miles in Canada? Who is the lieutenant-governor of British Columbia? These questions, he said, are too difficult for immigrants in, say, Hamilton.

RAPS SYSTEM

The present system is rotten, said Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood), and the minister didn't need a prominent lawyer to tell him some of the basic faults.

Mr. Tremblay Monday announced the appointment of Toronto lawyer Joseph Sedgwick as a one-man inquiry into allegations concerning the detention of illegal entrants to Canada.

"There are lawyers on both sides of the House perfectly capable of telling the minister some elementary rules of law," said Mr. Brewin. One of those basic rights involved the rights of an individual to be heard—a right that had been denied immigrants.

Mr. Brewin, completing a speech he began Monday during consideration of interim supply funds for July, said there should be an immigration ombudsman, or parliamentary commissioner, to investigate cases that come to his attention. He would have access to all information.

ACCUSES MINISTER

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton Strathcona) accused Mr. Tremblay of having "failed to be completely honest and frank with Parliament" about various deportation cases.

There was much injustice in the immigration department to clean up and the minister had failed so far to take remedial action.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) charged that the minister was responsible for violations of the Bill of Rights.

First Negro Named

EDMONTON (CP)—Lionel Locksley Jones, 25, of Edmonton, has become the first negro appointed to a crown attorney's position in Alberta. Mr. Jones, who became the first male negro admitted to the Alberta bar on June 9, is a graduate of the University of Alberta.

WELDON CHAN
... long fight over

Ex-Fugitive Now Belongs In Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Weldon Chan has proof now that he belongs in Canada.

Lawyer Harry Fan said Tuesday night that Chan has received his landing papers from the immigration department in Ottawa and is officially a landed immigrant.

It has been a long wait—punctuated by 3½ years as a fugitive—for the man who came here from Hong Kong in 1958.

Chan at that time had a visitor's permit. He went into bidding when its extension was denied in 1959 and avoided deportation until his case was reconsidered in 1963.

He was granted at least 12 months in Canada last May 30 and a recent cabinet order-in-council declared him a landed immigrant, a step on the way to Canadian citizenship.

Chan now works for a lumber firm in Vancouver and lives in an apartment with his wife and 10-year-old daughter.

BARGE BLOWS UP ON HUDSON RIVER DURING MACY'S SHOW

Biggest Bang in N.Y. Fireworks Display Kills Two

NEW YORK (AP)—A fireworks-laden barge exploded Tuesday night on the Hudson River, killing two men. Thousands of spectators cheered. They thought it was part of the show.

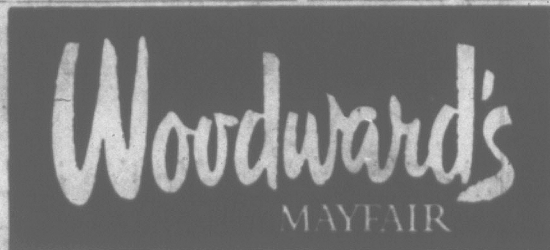

The riverbanks in Manhattan and New Jersey for the fireworks spectacle, produced since 1957 by Macy's department store.

Two other barges, whose crews apparently were unaware of the fatal accident, continued firing rockets into the sky.

John Serpico, president of International Fireworkers Company of North Bergen, N.J., said "a low burst that apparently ignited shells on the deck of the barge" caused the explosion.

Killed were Anthony Ainalo, 60, of Secaucus, N.J., and Anthony De Francisco, 40, of Sparkill, N.Y.

Less than an hour earlier, an explosion destroyed an ammunition room in the sub-basement of a Manhattan armory where about 385 National Guard reservists were attending a weekly drill.

Retail Price Maintenance Return Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada's retail merchants appealed Tuesday for legislation against bad advertising and fraudulent selling.

They asked for reinstatement of retail price maintenance to halt "chaos and confusion rampant through the distributive industries."

A resolution at the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada sought the return of price maintenance through repeal of section 34 of the Combines Investigation Act. Since 1952 manufacturers have not been allowed to prescribe prices at which their goods may be sold, or to designate who may sell them.

The association said Canadian consumers have been "constant victims of unscrupulous dealers who entice them into their establishments by massive and often misleading advertising of brand-name bargains only to make up their losses on this 'bait' by selling inferior domestic and imported copies claimed to be 'just as good'."

WANT COUNCIL
The association asked establishment of a federal marketing advisory council, comprising four retailers, three wholesalers, three manufacturers and a government-appointed executive director. It would try to meet the needs of the consumer and observe the legitimate rights of the small, independent businessman.

Provincial and federal governments were urged to step in strongly against fraudulent sales announcements, discount catalogues and phony auctions.

Fishermen Agree On Prices

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union reached partial agreement Monday on prices for salmon.

Ken Campbell, secretary-manager of the B.C. Fishing Companies' Association, said fishermen will get 36 cents per pound for sockeye and 26 cents for coho.

Still in dispute, but reported close to settlement, were prices for pink and chum salmon.

The agreement for sockeye and coho was a partial compromise. Fishermen demanded and got 36 cents a pound for sockeye, but took a half-cent cut in the price for coho.

UP ONE-QUARTER
The companies' latest offer for pink salmon was 10 1/4 cents per pound, up one-quarter of a cent from three weeks ago. Their offer for chums was 12 to 15 cents.

The union was seeking 12 cents for pinks, three cents lower than their original demands, and 14 to 15 cents for chums, down from its original 16 cents.

Meanwhile, tendermen and shoreworkers of the union were voting Tuesday on recommendations that would give them a 4 per cent wage increase.

The recommendations were made by two conciliation boards set up in contract disputes between the 3,500 shoreworkers and 650 tendermen and the B.C. Fisheries Association.

The union recommended the members accept the recommendations. A spokesman for the association said it would be a day or two before the companies decide whether to accept or reject the recommendations.

PGE Makes First Profit In History

VANCOUVER (CP)—The government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway today reported the first net profit after a long history of losses.

The annual report revealed a net profit of $7,104 for 1963 operations.

A spokesman predicted that if gross revenue this year maintains its pace 1964 will show a net profit of at least $500,000.

The PGE's gross revenues last year rose by $2,600,000 to a record $17,400,000 and net income climbed by $1,900,000 to $7,900,000 before charging interest and depreciation.

These charges, totalling $8,100,000, meant a net operating loss of $222,000 which was redeemed by non-recurring income of $228,000 on bonds. Left over was the net profit of just over $7,000.

J. S. Broadbent, PGE vice-president and general manager, said the railway has entered a new phase, passing from a developer to a volume commodity carrier.

"The economy of the area serviced is being established by full utilization of the forest industry and by opening up of long-dormant areas, thus activating secondary industries," he said.

VENTURI LATE WITH ENTRY

British Won't Budge; U.S. Champ Can't Play

NEW YORK (AP)—The trans-Atlantic telephone cable hummed for Ken Venturi, the new United States Open golf champion—but it didn't do any good.

The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews refused to budge. Venturi can't play in the British Open July 8-10 at St. Andrews.

He didn't file his entry in time and the Royal and Ancient let it be known—with regrets—that it plays no favorites.

"I telephoned the Royal and Ancient and told them of Ken's desire to play," said Joseph C. Day, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association.

"They apparently discussed it, then they called back and said they were unable to accept his entry. Entries closed May 31."

Main Chore Up to Irish

New Westminster, blowing a hot hand, is doing its bit. But the main chore is assigned Victoria if the Shamrocks hope to pull into second-place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

The task-at-hand confronting Shamrocks is a two-game "must" sweep of this week's series with Nanaimo, starting with a meeting in Memorial Arena tonight.

New Westminster can finish the secondary preparations by defeating second-place Vancouver when the mainland clubs tangle Thursday.

GAME IN HAND
The Westminsters, padding their lead to three points, kept Vancouver marking time Tuesday with a 6-5 victory in a fierce-checking battle at Kerrisdale Arena. The Shamrocks, with a game in hand, thus remain three points back of Vancouver, the defending Canadian champion.

The Victoria - Nanaimo set winds up Saturday night in the Hub City.

Fine goaltending featured Tuesday's bout in Kerrisdale. Les Norman stopped 21 shots to spark Westminster to its fourth win in five games. Vancouver's Norm Nestman blocked 25 at the other end.

STARTED QUICKLY
Vancouver started fast and took a 3-0 lead in the first period. New Westminster narrowed the margin to 3-2 at half-time, then raced ahead to a 6-3 lead after three periods of play. Vancouver got two goals back in the final period but could not manage an equalizer.

Bill Wilkes, with two goals and an assist, was top point-getter for the winners, with the other New Westminster goals coming from Wayne Shuttleworth, Paul Parnell, Dave Torky and Mac Tyler.

Vancouver's goals were scored by Gord Gimble, Sid Warick, Pete Black, Fred Usselman and Alec Carey.

WHO ISN'T FOR TENNIS?

Tennis-playing sisters Linda (left) and Kathy Crosby of Arcadia, Calif., score back-to-back hit at Wimbledon, Eng., with theseprincess line dresses

Topless Dress Is Okay But It Must Be White

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—As far as it's known, topless tennis dresses may be worn at Wimbledon—but they must be white.

They can be long, short, smooth, wrinkled, inside out, upside down, and of any material known to man or woman—as long as they are white.

High fashion hit the tennis courts here 15 years ago when Gussie Moran introduced lace panties to the staid atmosphere of the All-England club. Wimbledon panties became almost as famous as Ascot hats.

Italian beauty Lea Pericoli introduced a new variation in dress by turning up in 1955 with tiny colored petticoats under her tennis dress.

GOLD PANTIES
Then American Karol Fagoras got into the act with startling 18-carat gold panties. In 1962 it was Marie Bueno's turn: The Brazilian bombshell played on centre court in brightly colored underskirts.

That same year the management committee decided it had all gone far enough. Too much attention was being paid to the rigs, and not enough to the tennis.

A ban was imposed on all colored articles of dress and all-white Wimbledon came into being.

Since then the fashion designers have been going to all sorts of lengths and shapes to maintain interest in tennis clothes.

Col. Teddy Tilling is the best known of the British designers.

STILL DRAW CROWDS
But even he finds his hands tied by the no-color decree.

"The ban has imposed a tremendous restriction on us," he said. "Everyone takes an interest in fashion these days, and sport cannot live without public support."

But less girls still draw admiring crowds, despite the restrictions.

Asked what the laws were in connection with a topless dress breakthrough, a member of the management committee laughed and said, "I'm sure the umpire would use the utmost discretion in his handling of the situation. We must remind them all to wear 'jackets.'"

By the end of the day there was a backlog of 56 matches. Only 50 minutes of play had been possible.

But during that time, Margaret Smith of Australia, the defending champion, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, her No. 1 challenger, had earned places in the second round of the 78th annual tournament.

Miss Smith crushed Annette Van Zyl of South Africa 6-2, 6-1, and Miss Bueno defeated Carol Prosen of the United States 6-0, 6-3.

Only a few men's singles matches were played and they were first-round matches held over from Monday when fading light halted play.

will join Keith Carpenter of Montreal and Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que.

The North American zone first-round match against Australia is in Montreal July 17-19.

The six members of Canada's junior cup squad—four from B.C.—will participate in the trials.

"We must field the strongest Davis Cup team possible," so older players must be considered.

No Kidding—Bob Fires Sizzling 66

Victoria's Bill Wakeham 10 Strokes Off the Pace

KELOWNA (CP)—A scalding 66 sent Bob Kidd of Vancouver ahead of the field Tuesday at the B.C. Amateur Golf Championship.

He was 70-66—136 for 36 holes over the Kelowna Golf and Country Club layout as a reduced field of 50 started the final two qualifying rounds today.

That was good for a five-stroke lead over his nearest opponent, Johnny Johnston of Vancouver.

Kidd's second round was a course record, eclipsing the 67 chalked up a day earlier by Gordon Robinson of Vancouver. Robinson skied to 75 Tuesday for 142.

Johnston was 68-73—141, and veteran Bert Tiechurst was locked with Robinson for third place after rounds of 70-72 for 142.

NINE STILL IN

Golfers from the B.C. Interior who beat the cutoff mark of 157 included: Wayne Laface, Kelowna 70-76—146; Brian McCormick, Kelowna 73-75—148; Vic Faminlow, Penticton 74-79—151; George Laforme, Revelstoke 76-76—152; Phillip Steele, Prince George 73-79—152; Moe Young, Kelowna 76-77—153; Don Day, Kelowna 74-80—154; Cliff Kliever, Kelowna, 73-82—155; Nick Hajdukovich, Kamloops 76-81—157.

Today a further cut takes the field to eight for match-play beginning Thursday. The final is a 36-hole Saturday.

HIT EVERY GREEN

Bill Wakeham, of Victoria, winner of the championship in 1962 and 1963, put a 74 on top of his opening 72 for 146 and a five-way tie for ninth place, 10 strokes off the pace.

Kidd hit every green but the

Stan Leonard Trails Leader By 6 Strokes

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP)—Defending champion Al Mengert fired a par 71 Tuesday to maintain a two-stroke lead over the field in the second round of the 72-hole Washington State Open golf tournament.

Mengert, former Spokane star now playing out of Sacramento, Calif., had a 139 going into today's final 36 holes over the 6,247-yard Bellingham Country Club course.

Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, made a run at Mengert and was two under par for the first 10 holes, but double bogeyed the 11th. He finished with a 71 and a 142 total.

The cutoff point for the finals was 153. Twenty-three amateurs and 37 pros are left. The pros will be after the $3,000 first prize today.

Seattle's Gene Counter finished Tuesday's round with a 143 while Don Bles, Seattle; Bunny Mason, Portland, and Paul Rudis of Olympia were bunched at 144.

Stan Leonard, the veteran Vancouver pro who was tied for second Monday, slipped to a 75 Tuesday and a 145 total. And Tom Everham, recent winner of the Lila Open in Spokane, just made the cutoff with a 153.

In one of the games, Mike Belkin, an 18-year-old native of Montreal who now plays out of Miami, Fla., defeated Belgium's Claude de Gronckel 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, 7-5.

British tennis enthusiasts received a blow when Christine Truman, a Wimbledon crowd-pleaser, was scratched a half hour before play began.

RUSSIAN GIRL LEADS

Miss Truman, runnerup for the title in 1961, had not sufficiently recovered from an elbow injury she received two weeks ago.

Karen Susman of the United States, the 1962 Wimbledon champion, had her match with Russia's Anna Dmitrieva curtailed when dusk fell. The attractive Russian girl took the first set 6-4, and was leading 2-1 when play was halted.

As long as Transport Workers have Art "Old Folks" Worth on the roster they are going to be difficult to overcome in the Senior Baseball League.

Worth turned defeat into victory Tuesday night at Royal Athletic Park.

He drove in the tying run with 10th, playing his irons so precisely that his 66 came without the help of a single putt over eight feet.

His gallery increasing as he went along, Kidd approached the par-five 540-yard 18th hole needing only a par for his record. He uncorked a 280-yard drive and put a six-iron second on the green, 20 feet from the pin.

His eagle putt was four feet short, his birdie putt stopped on the lip, and he had to settle for the regulation five.

Golf Favorites Escape Upsets

PENTICTON (CP)—The favorites moved through the opening match-play round of the women's B.C. close golf championships here Tuesday without a casualty.

Medallist Barbara Renwick eliminated fellow Vancouver opponent Mildred Humble 7 and 6, while defending champion Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver moved to an identical win over Ette Russell, also of Vancouver.

Also marching to their first wins were two other top contenders, B.C. junior champion Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops and 17-year-old Kathy Pretty of Prince George.

In continuing her bid for a B.C. title, Miss Pretty downed Sheila Bentley of Vancouver 2 and 6, while Miss Palmer posted a fairly easy 7 and 6 decision over Lillian Thirwell of Victoria.

In other first-round matches Lorraine Smythe of Vancouver defeated Penticton's June Bird 6 and 5, and Margaret Hutton-Pott of Vancouver defeated Bonita McAlpine, Vancouver, 4 and 3.

Equalization Draft Abandoned by WFC

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Western Football Conference apparently has scrapped its equalization draft.

Al McEachern of Vancouver, president of the conference, said in an interview Tuesday: "Let's put it this way: We have not agreed on a player equalization draft for the season. In other words, there is no such draft existing in the Western Football Conference today."

McEachern said representatives of the five-team WFC, at a Canadian Football League meeting in Montreal during the weekend, held what he called "informal discussions about the draft, and we did not settle on a draft plan."

A pyvised draft plan presented to the meeting by Saskatchewan Roughriders was discussed but no agreement was reached, he added.

The player equalization draft has come under heavy fire in recent years from teams that lost men under the system. Last year, British Columbia Lions, first-place finishers in the conference, lost two men to lower-placing teams and Saskatchewan lost one.

LIONS OPPOSE PLAN
Lions have opposed the draft ever since it was introduced in 1961, but Winnipeg and Calgary had expressed support for it.

The old draft system allowed lower finishing teams to select up to two players from teams finishing 10 points or more ahead of them in the final standings.

McEachern said Saskatchewan proposed a revised plan to increase the spread in points

Cassius Clay Flies Home From Africa

CAIRO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay flew home Tuesday after a visit to Africa.

Clay, who called himself Muhammad Ali during his tour, said he had to be back in the United States for a convocation of the Black Muslims on Friday.

In Egypt—which Clay called the most populous country in Africa to the consternation of Nigeria, which is — the boxer visited the tourist sites and had two audiences with President Nasser.

He also boxed two clowning exhibitions with his brother, Rudolph Valentino Clay, who is also known as Abdel Rahman.

Earlier he had toured other African countries, keeping to a schedule of his own choosing. Clay spent seven days here waiting for a visa to visit Saudi Arabia, where Mecca is located, but he never got it.

Young Tennis Players Get Shot at Cup Team

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has scheduled two sets of trials for Canada's young tennis players striving to reach Davis Cup competition.

The association, governing body of Canadian tennis, has scheduled the trials — in the East and West—to choose two more players to complete Canada's four-man Davis Cup team.

A total of five British Columbia players and one from Alberta will battle in the western trials at the Jericho Club clay courts here June 24-26.

The top three will face three eastern winners in July at Montreal to select the two who will join Keith Carpenter of Montreal and Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que.

The North American zone first-round match against Australia is in Montreal July 17-19.

The six members of Canada's junior cup squad—four from B.C.—will participate in the trials.

"We must field the strongest Davis Cup team possible," so older players must be considered.

Western competitors are Reid Getz, 24, Bob Bardsley, 17, Bob Moffatt, 18, and Bob Pudicombe, 17, all of Vancouver; Don McCormick, 19, of Victoria, and Cam Dalgleish, 21, of Edmonton.

FRESH START URGED FOR CANADA

Scrap Soccer Leagues

TORONTO (CP)—John McMahon, chairman of the youth committee of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, suggested Tuesday that Canada should have one professional soccer league with divisions similar to other countries.

"Let's scrap them (soccer leagues) and start as though the game was being introduced to Canada for the first time," said McMahon. In Ontario he would have the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League, the National Soccer League, Ontario League and International League merge into one circuit.

Other—minor—Ontario leagues should form a major league which could apply for membership in the super league at the end of each season.

McMahon said his plan would also include similar leagues for other Canadian provinces. This would even interest to the point where all teams would play for a Canadian cup.

Bob Fleming has been asked to consider returning to amateur ranks after his seven-year layoff from golf.

Only 33, Bob is undecided about his golf future, so the suggestion that he return to the simon-pures is a sound one.

GEORGE GRAHAM
... Vancouver board

For one thing, Bob is in an ideal position to regain his amateur card. There should be no trouble whatsoever. And, secondly, Victoria needs talented amateurs.

You can take it for what it's worth, but Bill Wakeham is on his way out. "The Rock" is seeking his third straight B.C. championship this week in Kelowna, and it well could be that this will be the last time Wakeham is listed as a Victorian.

Wakeham wants to make his home in Vancouver, where he thinks employment prospects are greater than here in Victoria.

If the Gorge Vale ace goes, Victoria will be without a nationally-recognized golfer.

Laurie Kerr remains in semi-retirement, playing only in local events while working towards building the best homestead in View Royal. Youngsters like Ricky Kent, Gary Smith and Noel Pumphrey appear a step or two away from cracking the Willingdon Cup lineup in authoritative fashion.

No one else seems interested in chasing national ranking. (That's a polite way of saying there is nobody else.) Wakeham isn't the only amateur moving out of the local picture.

Al MacLeod teaches in Duncan and has to pick his spots; George Graham will soon transfer to Vancouver, and Mike Kolb is reported heading for the Cowichan Valley.

An amateur card-packing Bob Fleming would, indeed, fill a big gap.

Selection of Victoria as the site of the 1966 National Left-handers' Golf Association championships has to be regarded as something of a surprise, albeit a pleasant one.

Most of the credit, of course, has to go to Colwood's Mill Dow and Willard Gilmour of Vancouver, the president of the B.C. southpaws.

Not to be overlooked are some of the tourist-minded businessmen around town who helped Dow, expense-wise to Baton Rouge, La., last week.

It has to be regarded as a great investment, because the NLGA event draws 300 golfers from all corners of the U.S. They'll stay and play with us for the better part of a full week, so the immediate economic returns will be considerable.

In addition, the 1966 tournament will enable Victorians to prepare for the "Big Double" of 1967—the Commonwealth and Canadian Amateur tournaments. Those, of course, are still to be confirmed.

"So, thanks to the ambitious and ever-optimistic Mr. Dow, Victorians now can prepare for the biggest tournament ever to hit these parts."

SHORT CHIPS: Two aces chalked up last weekend . . . Anne Jones, playing in a foursome with hubby Art and Mr. and Mrs. H. Barnes, marked up her first hole-in-one on Uplands' 16th . . . Southpaw Hal Jacobsen scored his third in three years when he sank a nine-iron shot on Ardmore's 135-yard ninth . . . Elwood Grogg took top honors in the annual Cedar Hill seniors' tournament . . . And I hear Bob Hunt had a 30 on the second nine at Uplands Sunday after going out in 40 . . . Doug Malcolm, a former Victorian now living in Portland, started his playing partners in Sunday's Graphic Arts tournament at Colwood when he was over the green on the 471-yard 16th with a drive and a four iron . . .

ENGLAND UNABLE . . . TO FORCE COLLAPSE

Soggy Draw in Test

LONDON (Reuters) — The second cricket test match between England and Australia at Lord's Tuesday was abandoned as a draw as rain early in the afternoon ended play for the day.

Australia, 168 for four in its second innings, was 98 runs on, and England would have had to force a landslide collapse to gain a hope of victory.

Australia, still 21 runs behind when it resumed its second innings Tuesday morning, put on 119 runs for the loss of three wickets. Peter Burge contributed 59 and Ian Redpath took his score to 36.

Rain also ruined the drawn first test.

Any chance England had of snatching victory depended mainly on an early breakthrough in the morning. Yet captain Ted Dexter kept Len Coldwell bowling for 100 minutes, during which he failed to take a wicket and rarely got the ball past the bat.

Freddie Trueman, who opened with a spell of 65 minutes, looked no more difficult than Coldwell, and his dismissal of Norman O'Neill was due mainly to a faulty stroke by the batsman.

It was not until 1 1/4 hours after the start that Dexter brought on off-spinner Fred Titmus, and later Norman Clifford in an all-spin attack.

Titmus dismissed both Burge and Redpath.

Victoria Motor Club Sponsor at Westwood

Four Victoria sports car drivers will be out to bolster their northwest point standings Sunday when they compete in the Volkswagen-Porsche Trophy races at Vancouver's Westwood racing circuit.

Dave Cooper, Bob Trickett, Dan Sherwood and George Sterne hold top positions in their classes in the International Conference of Northwest Sports Car Clubs.

Cooper, driving a TVR Grantura, is in first place in E-production class standings. Trickett is tied for first in F-production with his TR-3. Sherwood, with a Sprite, is class I-production leader, and Sterne with a Morgan Super Sport, is class D leader, as well as second in E modified.

Other Victoria drivers slated to race over the 1.8-mile Westwood track are Gordie Munroe, Tom Hamilton and Pete Browning.

Over 125 cars from the northwest are expected for the competition, an ICNSCC championship race sponsored by the Victoria Motor Sports Club.

The seven-race meet is set to get underway at 12:30. The Victoria club has arranged bus transportation to the track for city fans.

Live Ball Dead Issue With Philly Pitchers

Capable Culp 'Collars' Cubs With One-Hitter

By UP International

The lively ball is a dead issue in Philadelphia. It was murdered by the Phillies' parsimonious pitching staff, which considers a base hit a personal affront and a run inexcusable.

Jim Bunning, the stingy dean of the Phils' fingers, provided the club's talented youngsters with a memorable lesson Sunday when he pitched a perfect game against the New York Mets, and eager pupil Ray Culp wasted no time in putting the theory into practice.

Culp, a 22-year-old right-hander pitching in only his second major league season, tossed a brilliant one-hitter at Chicago Cubs Tuesday night, 9-0, and salvaged a split of the two-night doubleheader after the Cubs had taken the opener, 2-0.

Philadelphia, which maintained its 1 1/2-game National League lead over San Francisco Giants, now has allowed only four runs and 10 hits in its last four games.

Reserve Len Gabrielson, who entered the game in the third inning as a pinchhitter and stayed to play first base in place of Ernie Banks, cracked a line single to right in the sixth inning to mar an otherwise hitless performance by Culp, who appeared in the all-star game last year in his rookie season.

Baltimore Orioles Regain AL Lead

The 200-pound Texan permitted only one other base runner in the game—Andre Rodgers, whom he walked in the first inning. No Cub reached second base and Culp struck out seven, whiffing the side in the fifth frame. Culp is now 4-5 and has won his last three decisions.

The Phils, meanwhile, assaulted five Chicago pitchers for 17 hits, including Wes Covington's seventh home run and three doubles by rookie Richie Allen before a crowd of 35,483 in Connie Mack Stadium.

The Giants lost a chance to gain ground on the leaders when they lost the nightcap, 5-4, on Marty Keough's 11th-inning home run after they had beaten the Reds in the opener, 6-0. The Pirates scuttled the Mets, 5-1; the Cards clipped the Colts, 5-4; and the Braves subdued the Dodgers, 5-2, in other National League games.

In American League action, Baltimore moved back into first place by overpowering the Yankees, 9-8; the White Sox blanked the Red Sox, 2-0; the Angels captured their seventh win in a row by nudging the Senators, 2-0; Minnesota massaged the Indians, 6-2; and the Tigers drubbed Kansas City, 9-3, after losing, 2-1.

LONDON (Reuters) — Results of the cricket match ending Tuesday were:
At Dover: Sussex beat Cambridge University by 10 wickets. Cambridge University 125 and second 16; Sussex 24 and second 22 for no wicket.

Blue Bombers Blend Ballet With Football

BUD GRANT
... fits dual role

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday increased the burden of head coach Bud Grant and picked a member of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet to help him carry the load.

The Western Football Conference club appointed Grant to the dual position of head coach and general manager and named George Coroneos, 38, general manager of the ballet company, to the new post of assistant general manager.

The appointments fill a vacancy created through the resignation of James Ausley last April 14. Ausley, 39, a native of Waco, Texas, left after seeing Bombers win four Grey Cups during his five-year tenure.

The unique blend of football and ballet experience will be aimed at reversing a downward trend in Bombers' fortunes at the gate and on the field.

After five firsts and one second-place finish under Grant,

Blue Bombers tumbled to fourth place in the five-team WFC last season. Season ticket sales have plummeted at the rate of about 900 a year for the last five years, with the total to date this season standing at 7,375 compared with 8,100 at the same time last year.

Grant, 37, a native of Superior, Wis. now entering the third year of a five-year coaching contract, said he applied for the general manager's post because "I don't intend to coach all of my life, but I would like to stay in sport all of my life."

With his assistant, he said he didn't think the club's coaching would be hurt because of his double duties.

Details of the contracts were not released.

Coroneos, who will take over his duties Aug. 3, will be privately concerned with the team's business affairs—tickets, advertising, promotion.

Coroneos was an injury-prone guard but managed to get in one season at Columbia University and several in semi-professional football in his hometown of Norwalk, Conn. He also coached semi-pro.

He joined the Royal Winnipeg Ballet last year, a job he will leave when he joins Bombers, after working for 13 years with the Young and Rubicam advertising agency in New York, where he participated in negotiation, promotion and production of shows and sporting events for national clients. He also worked for WCAU-TV in Philadelphia, producing and negotiating professional football, baseball, basketball and hockey broadcasts.

ELLIS SET TO DEFEND SOOKE MARATHON TITLE

Earl Ellis will defend his All-Sooke Day marathon title when this year's version of the 27-mile race is staged July 10.

Ellis, last year's champion, will have to compete against runners from Vancouver and Seattle as well as Victoria.

Besides Ellis, entries also have been received from Bob Miller of Seattle, and last year's district winner, Norm Patenaude of Victoria.

Solid Support For Santa Claus

LONDON (AP)—Santa Claus, the hot favorite to win Saturday's Irish Derby at the Curragh Track, was made a 4-to-5 betting choice Tuesday at a call-over by London bookies.

Meanwhile, Two American-owned horses were withdrawn. They were Transpose and Baldrick II, winner of the one-mile Two Thousand Guineas. Baldrick II ran poorly in the 1½-mile Epsom Derby, won by Santa Claus, and it was decided he would have little chance in the Irish classic, over the same distance.

Several other owners of colts still officially entered were reported ready to throw in the sponge and it seemed likely the starting field would number around 15.

Odds quoted at the call-over included 8-to-1 against Dilet-

BUSY MOTHER

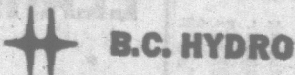

CLEVER HOSTESS

You can be both with a home freezer!

As a busy mother, you'll shop when you want to, not when you have to. Right there you'll save dozens of shopping trips each year. And feed your family better while you do. Brighter, more varied meals—with less planning and preparation time—are a year-round bonus when you own a home freezer. (So are the savings you make by taking advantage of your supermarket's specials. By buying in quantity at low seasonal prices!) As a clever hostess, amaze guests or drop-in visitors with a treasury of ready-prepared dinners, canapes and snacks. Just double up on casserole or dessert recipes on days when you have the time. Then store half in your freezer for days when you don't. And presto! Instant hospitality at a moment's notice. What's more, you'll enjoy your own parties for a change. Clever you! Whatever your way of life—it's better with a home freezer. And to prove it, right now your neighborhood "Freezin' Season" appliance dealer is featuring today's newest upright, combination and chest type freezers. See him tomorrow and learn why...

SIGN OF THE TIMES LASTED ONLY 36 HOURS

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A topical sign welcoming tourists to the Alberni Valley, where most of the work force is idle from a prolonged strike at Port Alberni's pulp mill, has been hauled down by highways crews.

The sign, of undetermined origin, stood 36 hours on Highway 4 east of town. It read: "Welcome to the Beautiful Alberni Valley, owned and operated by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited."

Duncan to Study Water Extension

DUNCAN—Duncan council will investigate the possibility of extending the city's water system to the Somenos Lake area north of the city.

Council's decision followed a request from residents for an extension of the service to 45 homes.

Mayor Jack Dobson has suggested the hiring of a consultant to look into the matter.

"We have the water supply and we should assist in distributing it," he said.

DUNCAN—The Cowichan District School Board has accepted a $25,400 tender from Peterson Construction Co. for an addition to the George Bonner Junior Secondary School.

It also agreed to set aside $500 towards the purchase of books for the Cowichan Senior Secondary School library. School teachers in the area will donate another $250.

CHEMAINUS—Funeral services will be held at Calvary Baptist Church Thursday for James Syme, one of the original members of the Chemainus Ambulance Society, who died suddenly Monday. He was 66.

He was an employee of the Empire Stevedoring Co. for the past 42 years, and superintendent since 1938.

A veteran of the First World War, he served overseas from 1914 to 1918 with the medical corp. He was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Cowichan Branch No. 53, and of the Masonic Lodge, Chemainus.

He is survived by the widow, Sofia; three sons, William, Clifford and James; a daughter, Mrs. P. (Christina Dubinsky) all of Chemainus; a sister, Mrs. Agnes Vye of Crofton.

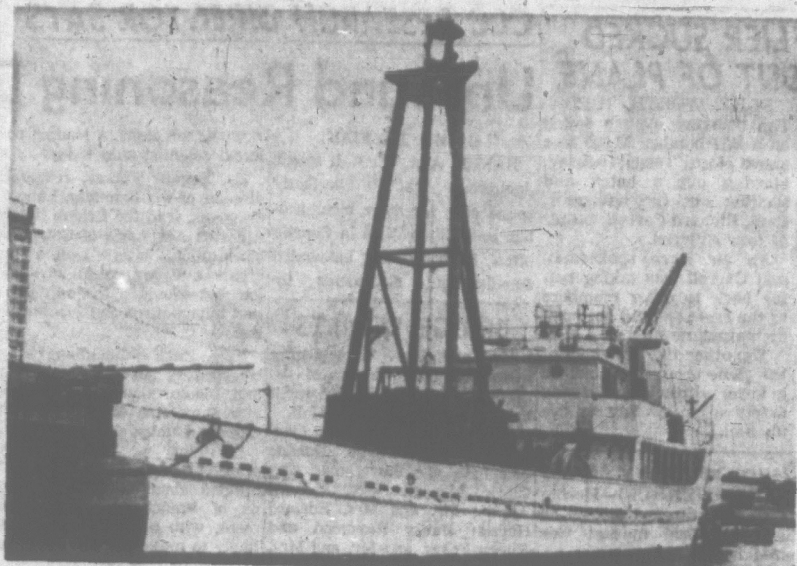

Harbor House Open Saturday

SOOKE—The Sooke Harbor house will open for business Saturday to offer its specialty, European style cooking.

The popular guest house on Whiffen Spit is now owned by two Sooke men, Leo M. Teyeman and John M. Wilson, who plan to build fishing facilities adjacent to the spit in the future.

WINNERS of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. scholarships valued at $500 and $250 are Bruce Alexander Johnstone (top) and Brian Douglas Milne, respectively. The scholarships are among nine $300 university entrance bursaries and $250 general program scholarships awarded annually by the company in areas where it has forest industry operations.

THIRTY-EIGHT-FOOT steel quadrupod mast towers over aft deck of seiner-dragger Pacific Venture, now undergoing conversion at McKay-Cormack Ltd. Four booms will be installed from mast to enable fishboat to handle up to eight tons. New boom mast will eliminate outboard rigging and will double lifting power. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Half-Pint Cannery Given Green Light

SAANICHTON—Central Saanich council Tuesday unanimously approved an application for permission to establish a small sportsmen cannery at Creed's Landing, Brentwood, for visiting anglers.

The cannery, to be built on a float alongside Creed's office, will permit sportsmen to have their fish canned and shipped to their homes.

Applicant Claude Creed said he hoped to have the cannery in operation in September.

Council received one letter opposing the project.

Dorothy Woodward, 708 Richmond Road, claimed the cannery would result in a smoke and odor nuisance for residents.

PROPANE GAS

But council was assured by Mr. Creed there would be no smoke nuisance as propane gas would be used for cooking.

"It is only a small cannery operation," he said. "All fish heads and tails are stored away for use by milk farms."

Reeve R. Gordon-Lee said the cannery would have to conform with sanitary and health regulations.

An application for permission to continue renting an old cottage situated on a foreshore lease in Brentwood, near the ferry wharf, was rejected by council.

Council told applicant Dave Adam that his application conflicted with a long-standing policy to demolish old existing summer cottages on foreshore leases.

At the same time, council turned down the application of John Bredin, 6885 Angler's Lane, for a foreshore lease to permit the construction of a float.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unwanted fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

$250,000 CONVERSION HERE

Deep-Freeze for Deep-Sea

By RON SUBLOW

A former tugboat and Second World War minesweeper is undergoing a $250,000 conversion job here which will make her the largest Canadian deep-sea fishing boat on the Pacific coast.

Pacific Venture, formerly known as the Tahsis Straits and Tahsis King, is nearing completion of the first conversion stage at McKay-Cormack shipyards.

Refrigeration equipment, which will be installed later, will make her one of the first 100 per cent freezer crafts.

"This will make her literally a floating deep-freeze," said her co-owner Ray Lund.

"Boats which pack ice have to return to port within about 10 days, but we will be able to stay out about two and a half months."

300 TONS

The ship can instantly refrigerate 300 tons of fish.

She will also be one of the fastest fish boats on the coast as its twin 600 h.p. diesel engines will give her a cruising speed of 14 knots.

Pacific Venture is equipped with the latest electronic aids to navigation including new Asdic echo sounding equipment which detects fish on either side of the boat and directly below.

Another innovation is a quadrupod lifting rig designed by naval architect Ray Richards to carry eight tons.

The rig will be needed as her 26-foot skiff is constructed of six and a half tons of steel.

The skiff is also equipped with radio-telephone and sounding equipment and is powered by a 165-h.p. diesel.

Other equipment aboard Pacific Venture includes water purifying machinery, which handles up to 500 gallons a day, and 1,800 feet of nets.

Another 1,800 feet of netting, now being made by Thomas Hunt, son-in-law of the totem carver Mungo Martin, will be added later.

Sea trials will begin in early July before the Victoria-based fishboat starts working for Prince Rupert Co-Op.

She will fish waters from the Bering Sea to the Gulf of Mexico.

Robert Kennedy Passes Up Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy begins a sentimental mission to Germany tonight on the heels of his announcement he will not seek the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York.

Kennedy's brief statement Tuesday on the Senate race shed no further light on his future. But it left open the door to any invitation from President Johnson to join him as vice-presidential nominee on the Democratic ticket.

Thus ended long weeks of speculation whether Kennedy would accede to the urgings of New York friends and Democratic leaders, move to the state and seek the nomination to run against incumbent Republican Senator Kenneth B. Keating.

Two key factors emerged as most influential in Kennedy's decision.

One is the civil rights picture. Final passage of the rights bill, with all its enforcement problems, is imminent. And the beginnings of the "long, hot summer" mer" in race relations already are evident. The attorney-general is the top civil rights strategist. He has committed himself to staying on the job through Johnson's present term.

BROTHER A FACTOR

The second factor is his brother, Senator Edward M. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.), whose back was broken in a plane crash last week.

Tuesday's decision threw into sharper focus Robert Kennedy's role as head of the Kennedy family since the assassination last November of his brother, president John F. Kennedy. His injured younger brother—up for re-election this fall—will add to the demands on Robert Kennedy's time. And to run in New York, he feels, would require an immediate campaign.

The attorney-general will speak this Friday on the first anniversary of John F. Kennedy's speech to Berliners, when he proclaimed himself one of them in spirit. Robert Kennedy will speak from the identical spot in the John F. Kennedy Square in West Berlin.

From Germany he will travel to Poland, next to London, before returning during the first week in July.

Uvic Conference Forced to Move To Larger Hall

A rush of applicants for a University of Victoria conference on psychology and art has forced it to move into bigger quarters.

It will be held in the basement of the Student Union Building, instead of in the Clearihue Building as originally announced.

Scheduled for Saturday, the conference is to feature writers, painters, sculptors, a philosopher, and several psychologists.

Referee is to be Dr. G. A. Milton, acting head of the Uvic psychology department. He said today more than 150 applications have been made by members of the public wanting to attend the all-day discussion.

APPEAL to Canadian Royal Navy cadet Hugh Langdon Balders, 21, of Halifax, missing from the naval college at Dartmouth, England, to give himself up was issued today by Lady Lister-Kaye, his grandmother who lives in Ireland. A warrant was issued June 10 alleging his desertion—first ever by a cadet from the college. His parents claim he left after being told he would have to sign on for 17 years, but the Royal Navy denies this.

Laotian Peace Talks

LONDON (AP)—The British government disclosed Tuesday that secret talks have started with Communist Poland to arrange an emergency Laotian peace parley.

FLIER SUCKED OUT OF PLANE

FORT WORTH (UPI)—The pressure system failed on a B52 bomber 33,000 feet above North Texas Tuesday, blowing out a hatch and sucking out the navigator, Capt. Richard Carroll, father of four children.

An air force spokesman said Carroll was taking coffee back to other members of the crew and did not have his parachute on.

The other five crewmen of the plane brought it down to a lower altitude and landed safely after circling to use up fuel.

Drug Seizure

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heroin worth an estimated $10,000 on the underworld market was seized here by Vancouver police and RCMP.

CLC RESEARCH DIRECTOR SAYS

Unsound Reasoning Dangerous to Bi and Bi

By ED TREFIAK

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—It seems dangerous that a perfectly sound case for more biculturalism and bilingualism in Canada often is based on unfounded constitutional statements by French-Canadians, a leading political scientist said today.

Dr. Eugene Forsey, research director of the Canadian Labour Congress, said the British North America Act, basis of Canada's constitution, was drafted to create a strong centralized union and provided for only limited bilingualism and biculturalism.

"We English-Canadians may be stinkers about bilingualism and biculturalism," he told a closed meeting on problems of Canadian unity.

"I think we are certainly often foolish and narrow-minded about it, but accusing us of breaches of an agreement, with no evidence, is not likely to make us more sensible or broader minded."

"It is more likely to make us angrier than a nest of hornets stirred up by a stick."

In a paper presented to the 45 conference participants, Dr. Forsey said statements that Confederation is a pact are dangerous to French Canada because they suggest something sacred and rigid.

"So if the French-Canadians insist on strict adherence to the pact they may well find themselves confirmed to a very restricted range of rights."

The sensible action was to decide what changes must be made in law and practice in light of modern circumstances and, assuming the Canadian economic and political community was to be maintained, few changes were required in the BNA Act.

Dr. Forsey said amendment to the BNA Act might be hard to get because of a Quebec-fostered convention requiring consent of all provinces.

Bootlegger With 'Unique' Setup Draws $350 Fine

A man who operated what a detective called "a rather unique establishment" was fined $350 Tuesday for bootlegging.

Gerald Brune, 338 Niagara, said he couldn't pay the fine and so will have to go to jail for three months in default.

Detective Sergeant Bill Andrews said he carried out a raid on Brune's address shortly before 4 in the morning of June 7. He found 11 men and women in the place, all of them in their twenties.

The only furniture was a bar set up in the kitchen and some chesterfields and chairs. Magistrate William Ostler looked at photographs of the setup and commented, "It's decorated to look like a section of a night club."

Found on the premises were six bottles of rum, one vodka, one gin, two scotch, one brandy and three rye.

Busy Visit Planned For Rayner

A busy schedule has been planned for Vice-Admiral Herbert S. Rayner during his three-day farewell visit to the Pacific Command next month.

The 53-year-old chief of naval staff will go on retirement leave this summer.

Admiral Rayner was flag officer, Pacific Coast, from 1957 until his appointment in Ottawa as chief of naval staff in 1960.

During his visit here he will be the guest of Rear-Admiral William M. Langmore, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

He is scheduled to arrive at Patricia Bay Airport July 8 at 8 p.m.

JULY 9

9:30 a.m.—Official welcome by parade and band at HMC Dockyard.

10 a.m.—Press conference.

11:30 a.m.—Visit to chief petty officers' mess at Moresby House and commemorative tree planting ceremony.

Noon—Lunch with Rear-Admiral Langmore.

2 p.m.—Visit to Nelles Block in naval barracks at HMCS Naden.

2:30 p.m.—Address all Pacific Command officers at Naden gym.

7:30 p.m.—Dinner with Capt. D. S. Boyle, commanding officer, Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

JULY 10

9:30 a.m.—Address all CPOs and POs in Naden gym.

11:30 a.m.—Attend ceremonial divisions, which include parades, march-pasts and inspections, at HMCS Naden.

Noon—Visit to dockyard officers' club.

12:30—Buffet lunch at Naden wardroom.

2 p.m.—Visit to naval ammunition supply depot, Rocky Point.

6:30 p.m.—Command reception at Naden wardroom.

8 p.m.—Dinner with Rear-Admiral Langmore at his residence at HMC Dockyard.

JULY 11

7:15 p.m.—Dinner with Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes, Government House.

ermen and the advisory planning commission also recommended that the city offer a five-year lease on some 3.86 acres of adjoining city-owned land.

Rezoning was applied for by Spencer Castle and Rock Gardens Ltd. which bought the property with the intention of opening its famed alpine garden as a miniature Butchart Gardens-type of attraction.

The joint meeting quickly endorsed the rezoning proposal but spent considerable time considering whether the city should sell or lease its land to provide off-street parking and "buffer space" for the development in the centre of a residential area.

Leasing was finally recommended on the grounds that if the development company purchased the city property now, it might return to council in a few years for permission to erect a high rise building on it, in which case the land value would go up five or six times without the city sharing any of the capital gain.

It was also felt that a lease would offer more assurance for the neighbors that the commercial development would not be expanded. The special commercial garden classification would carry strict limitations on commercialism in the development.

Think Bigger

NANAIMO—Canadians should think more internationally, according to Nanaimo realtor Dr. Mladen Zorken, who has just returned home from the 15th annual congress of the International Real Estate Federation in Tel Aviv, Israel.

"We in Canada are so far behind we think we can live on our own while the rest of the free world is getting together on a free exchange of ideas and concepts," he said. "We don't think we need anybody."

"Canada won't get anywhere if it doesn't broaden its outlook," he added.

Returned Cyprus Warrior Just a 'Peace-Maker' Now

Times News Service
NICOSIA — Lt. Gen. George Grivas told the people of embattled Cyprus today that he had come back to the island from retirement in Greece as a peace-maker.

The legendary underground chief in the Cypriots' 1955-59 battle for independence from Britain made his first public pronouncement in a broadcast tape recorded in secret.

He promised peaceful coexistence with the Turkish-Cypriot minority, which is outnumbered 4 to 1 by Greek-Cypriots, but he also called for Greek-Cypriot youths to unite for a "disciplined fighting Cyprus."

"Heroic Greek-Cypriot youth: Whether you are under arms or are waiting to be called up to defend your motherland, listen to my voice. Be the first to set an example in the drive for a united disciplined fighting Cyprus," he said.

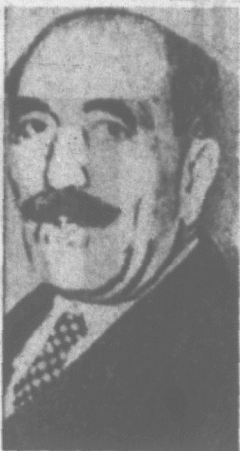

He told both Turkey and Turkish-Cypriots that he had only peaceful intentions toward them.

A United Nations force, whose term of duty was extended last week to Sept. 25 has been stationed on the island to try to keep the Turkish-Cypriots and Greek-Cypriots at peace.

Grivas asked "our friend Turkey to put an end to the hysteria of anti-Greek fanaticism of her citizens, inspired by foreigners to serve their own objectives."

"I have come to my native country as an ordinary soldier, not in order to pour more oil on an already explosive situation but with the standard of the fighter - peacemaker," he said.

He said he had two other ob-broadcasts appeal

jectives: To strive for unity of the entire Greek-Cypriot people and to help the governments of Greece and Cyprus "to find a just solution to the Cyprus problem."

There were some who thought that the secret return of the 66-year-old warrior may mean a renewal of the Greek-Cypriot drive for Enosis—political union with Greece.

President Makarios announced Tuesday night that the almost legendary general had been back in Cyprus from Greece "for about a week."

U.S. officials appeared to welcome the arrival of Grivas since he is an extreme anti-Communist who they felt would oppose Communist influence on the Greek-Cypriot government. President Makarios had avoided committing himself to the Communist bloc during the civil strife on the island, but anti-Western feeling runs high among Greek-Cypriots and the Soviet Union is supporting his regime.

The Athens government said Grivas came to Cyprus on his own initiative to "contribute to the restoration of normalcy and peace."

INVITED GRIVAS?

There was speculation, however, that he was invited by Makarios, who was co-leader of the independence fight but quarrelled with Grivas over the independence settlement.

There have been reports ever since Makarios conferred with Grivas in Athens last April that the president had asked his old comrade to take over the Greek-Cypriot military organization.

If he is appointed commander, Grivas might be able to control the irregulars who spark many of the gun battles that continue on the island.

The announcement that Grivas had returned to the Cyprus for the first time since he went to Athens five years ago caused mixed reactions.

A spokesman for the UN peace force said the general's presence was not regarded by the United Nations "with any particular alarm." But UN officers said privately, tension would be increased.

Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish-Cypriot vice-president, said as far as the Turks are concerned the general's presence "will not make any difference except that it will prove once again that, in the campaign of eliminating the Turkish element in the island, the Greek-Cypriot are not alone, but are actually supported by Greek nationalists from the mainland."

'AIRLINES MERGER REJECTED BY CPA'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines has rejected amalgamation or partnership with its publicly-owned rival, Air Canada, to achieve a single integrated plan for Canada's international air services. Air Canada President Gordon R. McGregor said Tuesday.

He told reporters after completing his testimony before the Commons railway committee that privately-owned CPA wants to divide up the world into two fields of operation—one for Air Canada, one for CPA.

The head of the government airline indicated that this is the course of action now being pursued by teams of experts from the two airlines at meetings in Vancouver.

Mr. McGregor told the committee that he strongly favors amalgamation of the two airlines. It would eliminate duplication, improve the quality of service and reduce costs.

Land, Sea, Air Test Due Saanich Sewers

The sewers of Saanich will be tested on land, on sea and in the air Thursday.

The navy has been called in to help.

Giant strips of paper will be launched off Cordova Bay to see which way the sewers will flow.

It's a project of the provincial pollution control board to test Saanich's bid to discharge sewage there.

Paper strips three feet wide and 40 feet long will be photographed from the air, checked by the navy and plotted by a survey crew atop Mount Douglas.

Assisting the pollution board will be the Pacific Naval Laboratory, the federal hydrographic and fisheries services and the provincial air-surveys branch.

If the project works, it will be tried out at other spots between Sidney and Albert Head.

Health Report Classed 'Urgent'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister L. B. Pearson said it is the intention of his government to give the report of the Hall royal commission on health services the detailed study "which it deserves." He stressed the "urgent need" for getting ahead with these matters.

Drugs Slash Mental Care Bed Needs

VANCOUVER (CP) — On a per-capita basis, the need for psychiatric beds in Canada will be reduced by half within the next 20 years, a psychiatrist said Tuesday.

Dr. Alex Richman of the University of British Columbia, in a paper to the Pacific Division, American Association for the Advancement of Science, said "the extensive use of drug therapy since the mid-1950s" has, in the last 10 years, brought about "a marked change in the over-all number and proportion of the population in psychiatric institutions."

"Between 1956 and 1961, the proportion of the Canadian population in psychiatric institutions decreased from 423 to 415 per 100,000 population," Dr. Richman said.

While the proportion dropped, the number of persons admitted to mental institutions increased. However, the average stay was shorter.

On a per-capita basis, he said, "the need for psychiatric beds in England has been estimated to be reduced to one-half in the next two decades."

"Similar changes may be expected for Canada, where the reduction of the long-stay patient population between 1956 and 1958 is similar to that for England."

Next President Named At CMA Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. R. O. Jones of Halifax, professor of psychiatry at the University of Dalhousie and past-president of the Nova Scotia Medical Association, has been elected president of the Canadian Medical Association.

He will take over his office during the CMA's annual convention at Charlottetown next year.

Dr. Frank Turnbull of Vancouver, elected president last year, will take over from Dr. W. W. Wigle of Toronto this week at the CMA's annual convention here.

Role in Child Abuse Confuses Many MDs

VANCOUVER (CP) — What is the responsibility of a doctor when he comes upon what appears to be a case of child abuse by a parent, an increasing problem in Canada?

The question has many doctors confused, says Dr. Harry Medovy of Winnipeg, chairman of the Canadian Medical Association's committee on child health.

He said Tuesday that many doctors are "afraid" to report to police for fear of unjustly accusing a parent.

Yet the committee was concerned about the number of cases ranging from starvation to physical beating.

An indication of the increase of the problem was shown in the fact that in the Winnipeg Sick Children's Hospital there were 37 cases confirmed in five years, 12 of them in the last 10 months. In one Montreal hospital there were 27 cases in five years.

Most involved children six months to two years of age, who appeared more difficult to deal with than average. There were cases of only one child in a family being abused.

The committee was instructed by the CMA's general council to draw up guide lines for doctors to follow when faced with a case of apparent abuse, Dr. Medovy said.

The committee's feeling now was that the best procedure would be to report to the provincial commissioner of welfare. The commissioner could report the matter to the responsible authorities, if necessary.

Thus the doctor would not be put in a position unjustly accusing a family. The family would be spared the embarrassment of having police arrive at their house to investigate a doctor's report.

Dr. Medovy said the public must realize the most important consideration is the protection of the child, not the punishment of the parent who abuses it.

MEDICARE CONFERENCE 'IN 6 MONTHS'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday he hopes a federal-provincial conference can be held within six months on the health plan recommended by a royal commission headed by Justice Emmett Hall of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Pearson told the Commons in reply to questions by T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, that the government is studying the recommendations, and as soon as it has come to some preliminary conclusions it will ascertain when a meeting might be convenient for the provinces.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's parliament of medicine has turned its back on complete prepayment of doctor and hospital bills through insurance.

The 180-member general council of the Canadian Medical Association has approved policies that would require the patient to pay at least part of the bills from his own pocket.

The rest would come from insurance plan that the patient had been paying into.

At the same time, the council's important policy committee feels the money paid by insurance companies should be sent to the patient, not the doctor.

The patient thus would be reimbursed for the bill, or part of the bill, but it would be his responsibility to go through the mechanics of paying it.

The council adopted a resolution of its own Monday and approved another from the committee Tuesday, both designed to urge this kind of procedure.

The council has virtually rejected the Hall royal commission on health's recommendation for a medical insurance program that would be supported by tax money.

Its reasons for seeking "patient participation" in both hospital and medical insurance programs are the same — prepayment causes over use which in turn causes over work, which means that the quality of service suffers.

There are also subsidiary questions such as adequate remuneration for a doctor. In the words of Dr. Victor Goldbloom:

"Should a doctor of many years' experience specializing in a certain field be paid the same as a new general practitioner?"

Dr. Goldbloom said the committee did not work out the details of how much the patient should pay the hospital over and above what is received from the insurance company.

The council adopted a recommendation that asked the CMA provincial divisions to request governments "to accept and publicize a modified and evolved concept" of hospital insurance.

KEEP SOME REVENUES:

This concept would permit hospitals to charge for services not provided for under hospital insurance and to keep the bulk of these revenues.

The council also adopted a recommendation that the medical profession continue to oppose the inclusion of medical services in chronic hospitals under hospital insurance.

It said that chronic hospitals should be affiliated with general hospitals and they should acquire "suitably organized medical staffs" by virtue of this.

Another said guide lines are needed for doctors faced with apparent abuse of children by parents. The doctors needed to know what action was to be taken to inform authorities.

The feeling of a committee on child health is that the doctors should inform the welfare commissioner of their provinces and let him carry on discreet investigations, informing police if necessary.

HURRICANE BATTERS HAMILTON

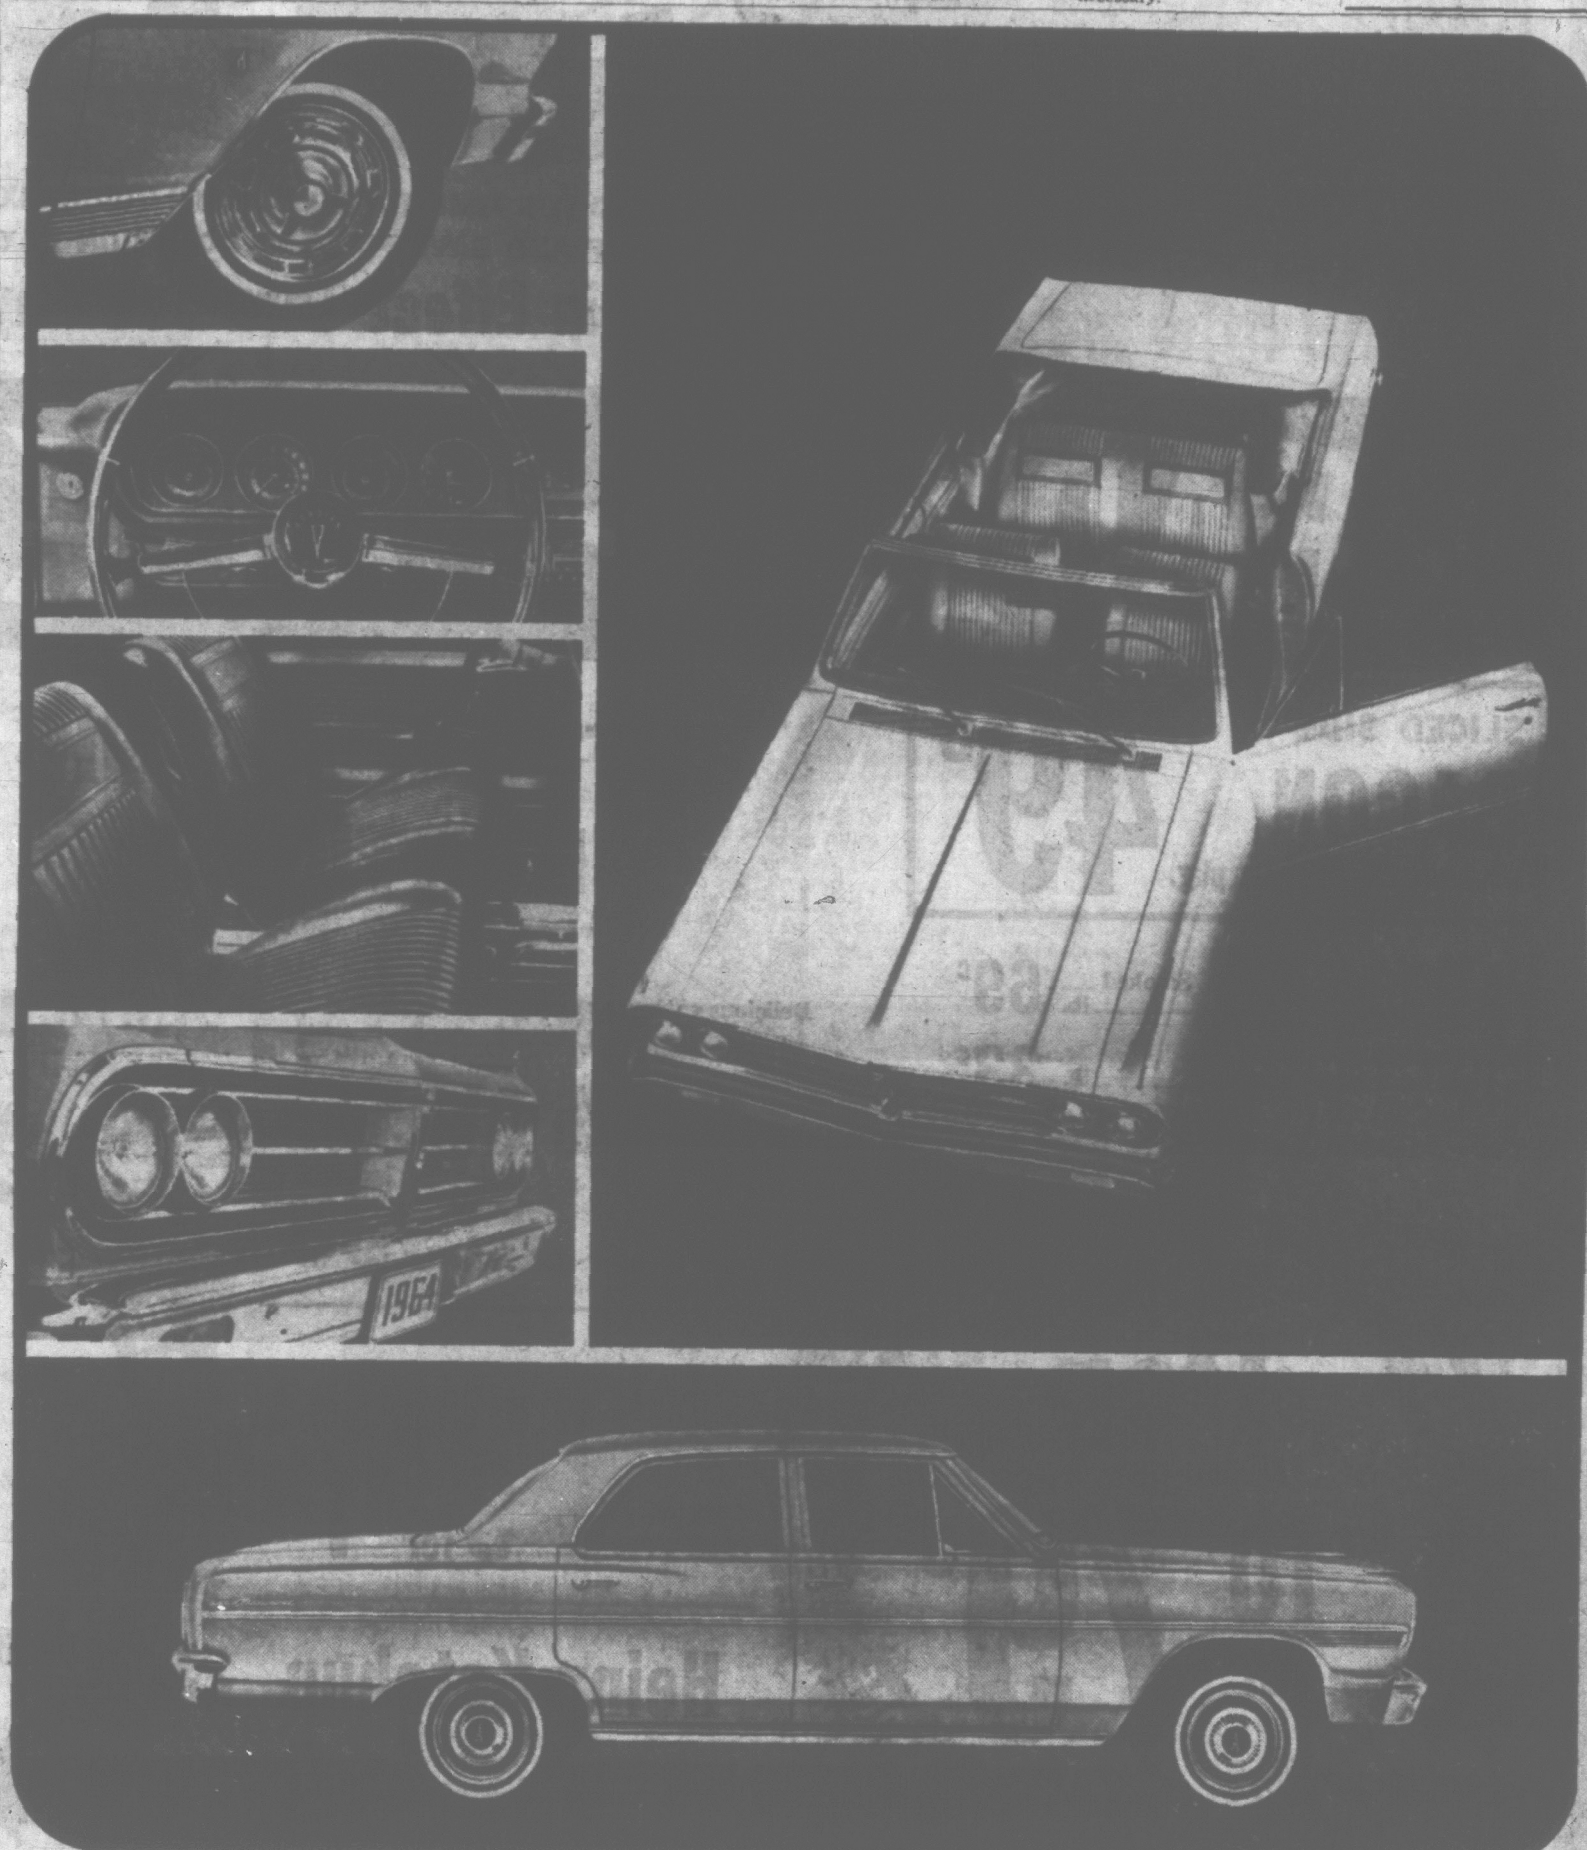

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI)—Winds of hurricane force lashed this city and the surrounding area Tuesday night and caused damage estimated at $500,000.

Velocity of the winds was recorded at 100 miles an hour.

In Burlington, a Hamilton suburb, a 330-foot crane toppled and crashed through two homes narrowly missing a 17-year-old boy and his 78-year-old grandmother.

A roof was ripped from a school in Hamilton's mountain area and another roof was torn from a plywood firm.

A transport truck was overturned by winds on the Skyway Bridge and Toronto-bound traffic was tied up for more than two hours.

ANTIQUE DEALER HAS HIS SECRETS

Curios Become Treasures When 'Things Rolled In'

By MARGE GILROY

Forty years ago Albert E. Newberry lived from hand to mouth. Today he lives like a Chinese emperor in the disguise of a Mancunian merchant.

After spending 35 years or more in the antique business, Mr. Newberry is about to retire amidst his collection of Oriental art.

Born in Manchester in 1881, he came to Victoria with his family just after the turn of the century and for several years operated a small grocery store. It was then that he lived from hand to mouth.

Always his ambition was to have a little curiosity shop.

The curiosities turned into a treasure house of antiques, superfluous bric-a-brac and knick-knacks.

ONE OF BEST

Now as he prepares to clear out the last of his antique wares he talks of having money in the bank, of owing no one a nickel and of owning one of the finest Oriental collections in this part of the country.

How did Mr. Newberry collect his goods?

"Principally, I just sat here and things rolled in," he said. "One winter night in the '40s the door opened and in came a lady who wondered if I would be interested in a trunk she had in the basement."

She was about to sell everything else off at an auction.

RARE FIND

The antique dealer dropped by to see the trunk, and there

NEWBERRY
... 'I just sat here'

In the basement was "the finest oriental collection I have ever seen."

He offered a price, and next morning arrived back at her door with a great fat wad of crisp new $50 bills.

"I counted out those beautiful bills one by one, put the collection in the back of the car and drove home."

He learned his trade "the hard way" and he won't divulge any secrets.

"I don't want to tell you too much or people will say what a rogue that Newberry is," said the 83-year-old dealer with his keen business eyes still sparkling, an old beret on his pate and hands deep in his pockets.

LEGACY HELPED

A legacy from England, when the pound was worth $6.50, also helped Mr. Newberry build his fortune. He invested $2,100 in real estate. Not long ago he sold the same property for $35,000.

In another month or so Mr. Newberry expects to have sold the last of his wares, but the shop he built in 1938 at 837 Port St., will remain with his son in the coin and stamp collection business.

When the last of the tarnished silver is removed Mr. Newberry will pick up the remaining oriental treasures and retire to his own museum on Wildwood Ave.

"But you can't do that," said a customer, "we're so used to seeing you here, it won't be the same."

'Chemical Allergy' Blocks Conception

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

Many apparently normal women who are unable to conceive children may be chemically incompatible to their husbands, two Texas doctors told the American Medical Association, now in session here.

Dr. Robert R. Franklin and C. Dean Dukes of the Baylor University college of medicine explained this sort of biochemical allergy to the AMA section of obstetrics and gynecology.

Dr. Franklin said Monday he had seen a "remarkable number" of women whose blood-streams contained agents that made conception impossible, despite an absence of organic causes for infertility.

The wife's reproductive tract, the doctors said, may manufacture chemicals that paralyze the spermatozoa of her husband.

Studies of 201 women produced these results, they said: In one group of 40 women 28, or 70 per cent, possessed the anti-conception agents.

But the number of women with antibodies in three other groups ranged from only 5.4 to 25 per cent.

Boundary Definition Requested

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Tuesday said the local advisory board to the government's Community Planning Area No. 4 has been asked to suggest boundaries for Colwood, Langford and Metehosin voting zones.

Zones have to be defined so that residents can elect a "representative-at-large" from each in Mr. Campbell's plan to have only elected representatives at the next meeting on his semi-metro proposal for the Victoria region.

View Royal and North Saanich, which also will elect representatives, already have defined boundaries so advice is not needed with respect to them.

NO FORCE

Mr. Campbell also emphasized that there was no intention to force incorporation on the special areas at last Saturday's conference when he revealed his plan.

"This conference and the proposal for a joint services board placed before it are just what they appeared to be, not only on the surface but beneath the surface as well," he said.

He said local residents will make the decision whether to incorporate or not.

PROTECTION

However, Bill Reader, member of a study group on incorporation for the Langford-Colwood area, said Mr. Campbell's joint services board would be dominated by urban representatives.

"It looks as if we'll have to do something to protect ourselves from the decisions of a board which apparently could be shoved down our throats," Mr. Reader said.

"The board, as outlined, could go ahead and do things out here that we would be absolutely opposed to."

Law Officers Shoot It Out Here In July

Straight-shooting city policemen are oiling their guns in readiness for a tough fight July 8 and 9.

They'll be firing against some of the best gunmen in the Pacific Northwest—but it isn't expected anyone will get hurt.

The contest will be fought out at the City Police Department firing range at Thetis Lake. Taking part will be law officers from Washington and Oregon States and all parts of British Columbia.

Victoria police expect to show up "well in the contest this year, based on their performance in the recent Vancouver City Police Annual Tournament."

12 PRIZES

Four local officers entered the tournament and brought home 12 prizes between them. Sergeant Bob Blair took six prizes in the marksmanship class and Sergeant Jack Mason and Constable Norman Hansen each won three prizes in the unclassified category.

Detective Alex Briggs, who is ranked in the expert category, scored 2,224 points in the contest where the top shots were making about 2,500 points.

Rare Bird Commutes 180 Per 'So Peacefully'

By JIM HIGSBY

Suppose you live on a pleasant island 20 miles from the mainland. Suppose you were offered a very desirable job in a mainland town 105 miles away. And suppose that town was in another country.

The average person would react by moving to the job site, but then Bud Rude is not an average person.

"Wherever there's something rare, I'm in it," laughs long-distance commuter Bud as he pilots his light plane south towards Tacoma, Washington.

The Rude family likes the Victoria area, so when Bud, a retired airline pilot, was offered a position as manager of the TideAir Company's installations at Tacoma Industrial Airport, he decided to commute by air.

"There's a certain amount of inconvenience to everything you do," philosophizes Bud. "You can fight it or live with it. I live with it."

So at 6:30 six mornings a week Bud leaves his home at 4416 Wilkinson and drives out to Pat Bay airport.

There he acquaints himself with weather conditions, files his flight plan and checks over his twin-engine Beechcraft Baron, one of two planes he flies.

Five minutes later he is 2,000 feet over Georgia Strait and heading south at 180 miles per hour.

"It's peaceful up here," says Bud as the plane glides along over the silver-blue water.

"It provides those few minutes a day that everyone should take."

"You don't have the traffic buzzing around—it's safer than a freeway and I can relax and maybe map out the day's work."

Flying is a way of life for Bud.

Twenty years ago at the age of 13 he was offered the opportunity to learn to fly a glider.

By the age of 15 he was winning national aeronautical competitions, and when still only 23 became the youngest commercial airlines pilot on a scheduled run.

He also engaged in his own aviation enterprises and at present owns 20 planes chartered to the military for work along the DEW line.

After 17,000 hours in the air Bud retired last year to Victoria because the area is scenic and peaceful, and because his wife was raised in Canada.

But then came TideAir's offer to work in Tacoma, Bud's old hometown, and soon he was back in the cockpit.

"I've got a budget on time. I spend every minute of it," chuckles Bud as he makes a perfect landing at Seattle-Tacoma airport.

After quickly clearing customs he is off and heading for Tacoma, just a short hop away.

"Flying is an everyday challenge," he says as the Tacoma Industrial Airport appears through the clouds. "No two conditions are exactly the same."

Another smooth landing and Bud taxis over the TideAir hangar and enters his office.

Even though the weather is sometimes cloudy or windy he has a near-perfect attendance record.

His wife, Mae, mother of three young children, isn't worried a bit about Bud's unique method of getting to work.

After all, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed after an hour's trip from work?

For that matter, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed?

Vancouver Island Revisited

CAMPBELL RIVER—It is 5:55 of a clear evening, sun still burning the green Quadra Island sidehills. Discovery Passage flamed only by the last lazy swirls of the flood-tide from Seymour Narrows.

North of the river mouth, a few sport-fishing craft are plodding these world-famed salmon waters. Down by the white Cape Mudge bluffs at the tip of Quadra, others show as dark and distant specks. In mid-passage, gulls flurry over a bait school.

The signs are right, the fish are in, and on a marina float below this hearty, yeasty town, we're waiting for a boat to arrive from Painter's Lodge.

It will carry an authentic Campbell River guide, grizzled and taciturn, no doubt, who has spent many a summer engineering the capture of trophy fish for the Tree Club's fanatic anglers.

The boat approaches, driven fast by a husky outboard. We watch it veer in, slightly apprehensive and hoping we won't disgrace ourselves by looking help or dogfish.

Our guide swings spryly from his blue- and orange aluminum 16-footer. He is a pleasant-faced young man of about 20, with brown hair and a nose in transition from sunburn to tan.

Bob Mitchell is his name, Victoria his home. He is, or in September will be, a third-year education student at Uvic, with a master's degree his eventual target.

We board, a trifle glumly, and in not much more time than it takes to say "grizzled old taciturn tree guide," are dunking Lucky Louie plugs with four ounces of lead and 35 feet of nylon monofilament in the salmon-infested passage.

It turns out, however, that Bob Mitchell is a thoroughly knowledgeable operator. This is his fourth season on a job which he, a red-hot fisherman since his kid days, wouldn't trade for any other.

"No," he replies to Win's question, "I've never taken Bob Hope or Bing Crosby out. But I did have a man from Kansas who tried to lasso a porpoise."

The rod-tips throb steadily to the darting of the plugs. Tide is on the turn. Close to the old Argonaut iron ore dock, where local spin-fishers hoist their catches in a dropnet, someone's into a coho.

That man from Kansas, Bob Mitchell tells us, saw a porpoise roll its sleek bronze back from the passage. Assured that he couldn't catch one on salmon gear, he brooded all afternoon. Next morning, he turned up with several hundred feet of rope. "He rigged one end into a noose," our guide recalls, "and we spent the next few hours trying to snare a porpoise. We didn't, I'm glad to say. Then there was the party who wanted a head-on closeup photo of a killer whale."

A salmon interrupts at this point, latching onto my plug as if it hadn't fed for a week.

Meekly, I churn as instructed on the star-drag reel. In jigtime, my catch is in the net. No tyee—the 30 to 70-pound spawner springs don't come south till late July—but who turns up his nose at six-pound coho?

"I let him take one shot at a killer," says Bob Mitchell. "But from the side, and not too close. Then we moved off, fast. Nobody's even been attacked by a killer whale to my knowledge, but the guides prefer to keep clear of them."

He frees the hooks from the net mesh, flips the pink-striped Louie overboard and secures the lead. We ease across the tree pool at the river mouth, where in August, sullen monsters with their feeding days past will occasionally snap in anger at a spoon.

"My biggest?" Bob Mitchell deliberates. "Fifty-three pounds. That was the season I had the party who tried to sell me on cheese."

We skirt a patch of the secured Japanese weed that came over with the oysters, and the guide suggests we reel in for a checkup.

He cleans weed off Win's rig, then mine, while we loiter in unaccustomed luxury. The plugs are scarce fishing when another coho hits. It runs, leaps and flings the lure.

"That happens often," says Bob Mitchell, amiably diplomatic. "Their mouths are soft."

A woman in a nearby boat, one of 30-odd which are now strung along the evening-silvered reach, deals capably with a nice, hard-mouthed spring.

"This party," our mentor resumes, "brought out a piece of the highest cheese I've ever smelled. 'Fish love it,' he said, and insisted on rubbing my plugs with the stuff. I went along until the plugs got so cheesy they were losing their action, then we scraped them clean and caught some fish. But he wasn't as bad as the ones who keep spitting for luck. On a breezy day, that can get to be pretty distressing."

Something heavy takes a pass at Win's plug, but fails to connect. Tide is making, the rips prickling over the rivermouth bars. The sun dips, a lopsided moon brightens and a chill wind begins to puff from the darkening north. Time to call it an evening.

Bob Mitchell lands us on the float. Tomorrow Bud may be guiding for an American who will be disappointed because he doesn't smell of wood-smoke, wear mocassins and paddle a birchbark canoe while conversing in habitant French.

But whether piloting green-horns who mistake rock cod for coho or rowing Tree Club veterans from dawn to dark, he will handle each situation with the aplomb demanded of a Campbell River guide.

We watch him shove off for Painter's. At a slight distance, in the uncertain light, young Bob Mitchell does look kind of grizzled, at that.

Police Win Promotions In Saanich

Two more Saanich police officers have been promoted in the latest phase in the reorganization of department duties.

The promotion of Corporal Les Ledson to the rank of sergeant and of Constable Ron Coulter to detective was announced this morning by Chief W. A. Pearson.

Chief Pearson said one more sergeant has yet to be appointed. He also announced that three new constables have been hired, bringing the total strength of the department to 34 men plus five civilian employees.

Sgt. Ledson joined the force in 1946. Det. Coulter, a former newspaperman, joined in 1954. The appointment of Acting Detective Charles Truett has also been confirmed. He joined the department in 1951.

Chief Pearson said these latest moves are part of the streamlining and reorganization of the department that has been under way for some time. He said further developments will be announced later.

Sites Approved For Micro-Wave Network Towers

Sites have been approved for the B.C. section of a new cross-Canada microwave network being built by the two national railways.

The provincial government today granted right-of-way for nine B.C. micro-wave towers, running across the centre of the province.

The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways are building the new network as a joint project.

It will be used partly for national defence and partly for commercial traffic.

The B.C. link of the network extends from Kamloops across the Cariboo and down to New Westminster.

The money will be used to support gallery activities which will include special exhibitions, children's services, a lecture program and publication of a handbook of the gallery collection.

Wilful Damage Fine Imposed

A man who smashed windows and furniture in his room was fined $35 this morning for causing wilful damage.

Ernest Page, 1023 Pandora, was also ordered to make restitution of $49 to cover the cost of repairs.

Worthless Cheques Charge Admitted

Surjit Singh, 384 Colville, pleaded guilty Monday to obtaining $120 with seven worthless cheques. He told Magistrate William Ostler that he used the cheques "solely to feed my wife and three children."

He was remanded for sentence until a probation officer looks into his background.

Both Sides Stand Firm On Chief Issue

Arbitration Likely In Saanich Fight

Saanich firemen met again with council representatives this morning to wrangle over the appointment of a new fire chief with neither side giving ground.

Councillor Joseph Casey said representatives of the firemen's union "had nothing new to say" in the meeting with council's personnel committee.

But, said Coun. Casey, the union "had two new strings to their bow."

He said union representatives reiterated their opposition to the appointment of city fireman Joseph Sutherland to succeed retiring Saanich Fire Chief Joseph Law.

The union thinks Saanich firemen should have been considered for the job on the basis of seniority and service. Council has twice rejected the union's contention saying that the appointment of a chief is a managerial matter that has nothing to do with the union.

Coun. Casey said union representatives today brought up the matter of Chief Law having had two extensions, totalling 18 months, beyond the usual retirement age. He said the union contends council should not have given these extensions.

He said the union also protested that reports on personnel and departmental matters are not made available to the union.

Coun. Casey said he thinks the fight over the appointment will now likely go to the Labour Relations Board for arbitration. Union representatives at today's meeting were not available for comment.

City Aid Asked For Bi-Bi Fund

City Hall Tuesday was asked for a contribution to a $10,000 fund sought by the Canadian Institute of Cultural Research, based in Toronto, so it could prepare a brief for presentation in September to the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

The institute said its detailed survey of the contributions to Canada from ethnic groups for the brief would be of value to all Canadian cities and justified a grant from civic governments.

$100 Stolen At Restaurant

City police are investigating a break-in at Paul's Crown House restaurant, 3075 Douglas, in which $100 was stolen from a concealed cupboard.

The burglars entered by a furnace door, crawled through a plumbing space and forced a panel into a washroom to get into the main part of the building.

The hiding place for the money is at the front of the store and is concealed by a panel. The break-in was reported to police late Tuesday morning but apparently occurred in the early hours.

IT'S LEGAL BUT RESIDENTS HIT BACK

By DESMOND BILL

A Victoria man who has been exercising his legal right to catch cats that are messing up his property has become the target of a vicious anonymous campaign.

City police are investigating the complaint by a homeowner who lives in the James Bay area.

He and his wife have received anonymous phone calls accusing them of capturing the

PROWLER SENDS WOMAN INTO PARALYTIC STATE

A terrified woman lay in bed for two hours this morning too scared to move after a burglar entered her house.

Mrs. Norma Crawford, 4094 Glenford Avenue, was in bed around midnight when she heard someone enter her house by the unlocked front door.

She thought it was a girl boarder returning home. But when she called out after a few minutes she heard a scurrying sound and the sound of the door being closed.

Mrs. Crawford said she was too frightened to go downstairs and stayed in her room for two hours until the boarder finally came home.

When she did go down she found her purse lying on the dining room table with $20 missing from it. Two drawers were also ransacked.

FROM JAPAN Four Destroyers Here in August

Four Japanese destroyers will be here for a four-day goodwill visit in August, it was learned today.

A total of 1,180 Japanese sailors, including 161 officer cadets and 10 news correspondents, will be in the squadron arriving here Aug. 25.

It will be the first appearance of Japanese warships here since the 1958 provincial centennial, when two visited Victoria.

The four destroyers coming this time will be: Teruzuki, Arisaka, Yugure and Makinami.

The Teruzuki is the flagship of Rear Admiral Kazuoishi Kihara.

All four ships will be open to the public during a portion of their stay.

They will sail for Vancouver Aug. 30.

Camsell Leaves Thursday For Long, Frigid Summer

The ice-breaker C.G. Camsell leaves Victoria on Thursday to smash her way through the Western Arctic.

For her crew of about 50 it means spending the summer months on a 10,000-mile round of lighthouses and ice packs.

Her work includes installing and checking aids to navigation, marking channels with barrel buoys.

Meteorologists and marine map-makers also benefit by scientific observations taken during the three-month trip.

Camsell carries a barge and a helicopter, and the 2,200-ton vessel has armor plating that can help her smash through two feet of ice.

She leaves harbor Thursday afternoon at 2.

CURLING RINK POLLING PLACE FOR CARPENTERS' STRIKE VOTE

Victoria carpenters will hold a strike vote Monday following last week's rejection of a conciliation proposal.

The government-supervised vote will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Curling Rink, on Quadra Street.

The vote was called after 459 carpenters employed by 25 contractors rejected a majority conciliation proposal for wage increases totalling 67½ cents per hour. The proposal was for a one-year contract.

3 Given Lighter Sentences

Four 18-year-olds received sentences ranging from eight years to nine months in County Court here today on charges of abduction and robbery with violence.

The four youths—Charles Ash, 860 Parklands; Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan; Russell Techriter, 956 Ellery; and Lloyd De Wolfe, 1018 Balmoral—were found guilty last Wednesday of beating, robbing and abducting William Morgan, 19, of Saanich Road, on April 7 last.

These are the sentences: De Wolfe—eight years in the B.C. Penitentiary on the first charge and five on the second, concurrent.

Techriter—Two years less a day in Okalla on the first count and six months on the second, consecutive.

Ash—Eight months on the first charge and six months on the second, concurrent.

Hunt—Three months definite in New Haven and six months indefinite.

CANT BE TOLERATED

Passing sentence, Judge Montague Drake said he was mindful of the series of beatings and assaults which have occurred in the Victoria area in recent weeks.

"This sort of thing cannot be tolerated and I intend to deter such crimes as severely as possible," he said.

He added all four were culpable in "this brutal assault on a defenceless man."

Two of them, Hunt and Ash, were amenable to reform, he said.

"You were simply stupid oafs who followed the others," he said.

Judge Drake described the assault as "senseless and utterly brutal." De Wolfe's record spoke for itself. He felt that only a harsh sentence could possibly meet his case.

Techriter was one of the main attackers and he could not accept the plea of counsel that he should be placed on probation.

"I have to consider the effect of punishment as a deterrent and a necessary protection for the public in this case," the judge said.

The four youths picked up Morgan while he was hitchhiking from school on the Patricia Bay Highway. He was dragged into the rear seat of the car and driven to a parking lot on the Beaver Lake Road.

There he was punched severely about the face and head, and his glasses, a camera and $10 were stolen from him.

In evidence, Morgan said De Wolfe struck the first blow.

Earlier in the trial, defence counsel moved to have the charges dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence of identification.

Judge Drake denied the motion. He said the case must stand or fall on the question of identity of the four accused.

Prisoner Died Of Heart Attack Inquest Told

A 50-year-old Victoria man, described by police as "a very good inmate," died shortly after being taken from a city jail cell to Royal Jubilee Hospital on Monday night, an inquest jury was told today.

A verdict of death by natural causes, a heart attack, was brought in by the jury which heard circumstances surrounding the passing of Samuel Errett of 1407 Fort Street.

Constable Murray McArthur said Errett entered the city charge office Sunday and said "I hear you've been looking for me."

DRUNK FINE

The constable said a warrant had been issued for his arrest for failing to pay a $25 intoxication fine.

Errett said he didn't have the money and he'd serve the five days alternative imprisonment.

Const. John Burdyny said Errett was joking with other inmates when he took him his evening meal on Monday.

CHEST PAINS

Later he called the officer to complain of chest pains. He was taken to hospital and on the way joked about it only being indigestion.

He was examined by Dr. John R. LeHuguet at the hospital. He decided Errett had suffered a heart attack.

He seemed well at the time though, and was put to bed in one of the wards.

Later his heart stopped and although a battle by several doctors, including a heart specialist, managed to start it beating again, he died after about an hour.

Pathologist Dr. R. C. McNeeley said Errett died of a heart attack.

USN Officers To Visit Esquimalt

Two high-ranking U.S. naval officers will be visiting the RCN's Pacific Command within a week.

Captain D. G. Gunz, commander of the USN's fleet air base at Whidbey Island, will visit here Friday afternoon.

His barge is scheduled to tie up in the Inner Harbor at 3 p.m.

That evening he will be host aboard his craft to several members on the staff of Rear Admiral W. M. Landymore, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

He will leave Victoria the same evening for a cruise through the San Juan Islands.

REAR-ADMIRAL

Making a Dominion Day visit here will be Rear-Admiral John Taylor, commander Western Sea Frontier, San Diego, as a guest of Admiral Landymore.

He will be conducted on a tour of HMC Dockyard, which will be dressed overall in honor of the holiday, and headquarters of MARPAC, the RCN-RCAP's Pacific Coast anti-submarine organization.

The navy will also mark Dominion Day by firing a 21-gun salute from Black Rock in HMC Dockyard.

Other holiday activities will include participation of the "mule train" of VU-33, the navy's air squadron at Patricia Bay, in a parade at Sidney.

The "train" will provide free rides for kiddies in the afternoon at Sidney Community Park.

Ask The Times

Q. How many brothers and sisters did the late President Kennedy have? How many were killed and how? How many are living and where are they?

A. President Kennedy had five sisters and three brothers.

Those killed were Joseph Jr., who died when his plane exploded while on a Second World War bombing mission over Germany and sister Kathleen who died in a plane crash in France.

Living are Ted, senator for Massachusetts who recently suffered a broken back in a plane crash; Robert, U.S. Attorney-General in Washington; Eunice, wife of Senator Shriver, director of the Peace Corps; Pat, wife of actor Peter Lawford; Rosemary, in a mental institution; and Jean, wife of Stephen Smith, staff member of the National Democratic party and manager of Ted Kennedy's last campaign.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or local problems. No will attempt to put a value on odd coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Remain Cool In the Sun With Lotion and Bonnets

By PENNY SAVER

Say, I sure hope you've been making the most of these glorious, sunny days like I have.

They've been few and far between this summer but still I am hopelessly covered with freckles and sunburn.

But, if you haven't spent much time in the sun for fear of this same problem, there's a special new cream on the market to help you.

Cream is greaseless and water-resistant and contains moisturizing agents that help maintain a moisture balance in the skin and prevent excessive dehydration.

Price is $2.50 a tube and when applied liberally before exposure to the sun and after every swim, cream provides maximum protection and allows an even tan.

Because of its greaseless nature, it can also double as a summer powder base for those who freckle easily.

For added protection against the sun and to add a touch of beachnik glamor, why not invest in one of the new straw beach bonnets.

Ones I found today range from multicolored straw fedoras to high-crowned wide-brimmed picture hats.

Many are banded with wide contrasting ribbons and accented with huge, toning butterflies or bows.

Others feature long wispy strands of straw that frame the face or turned-down brims reminiscent of the Mexican sombrero. All are made in Italy and prices range from $1 to $3.98.

For further information on where to shop for these items, call Penny at 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"No sooner do we get a model that's absolutely foolproof, then they up and develop a new, improved strain of fool on us."

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Donation — HMS Ganges Chapter IOOE voted to send a donation to IOOE Emerson House in Vancouver when group met in Ganges United Church Hall, Salt Spring Island. Donation is in memory of the late Miss B. E. M. Beddis, standard bearer for 40 years, and the late Mrs. William Eagles, former Echoes secretary. Mrs. B. E. Hardie, services convenor, reported two parcels of paperback books sent to Canadian troops in Germany. Women's clothing and jewelry, valued at $85, was sent to Escondido Hospital. Mrs. Hardie asked for volunteers to knit for Christmas hampers and fill children's ditty bags. It was decided to give a $125 scholarship to a local high school graduate. Preliminary plans were made for a coffee party, to be held in September to mark chapter's 50th anniversary. Mrs. G. H. Holmes, world affairs, read a paper on meaning of freedom in Canada. Mrs. F. K. Parker presided.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Edwards of Duncan have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ella Joyce, to Mr. John Edward Haller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haller of Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Duncan United Church. The couple will live in Cedar, B.C. (Jus-Rite Portrait Studio.)

Married On the Mainland, To Live At Port Alberni

Following a honeymoon trip to the interior of the province, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard John Dodds will make their home at Port Alberni.

Rev. A. H. Cummings officiated at the double-ring ceremony in St. Philip's Anglican Church, Vancouver, that united Helen Audrey Griffiths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Griffiths of Franklin River, B.C., and the son of Mrs. John Inglin, Salt Spring Island, and the late Mr. Dodds.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white dehusked satin that was appliqued in lace. The full skirt was en train. The short veil misted from a jeweled tiara. Red roses, white carnations and stephanotis were in her bouquet.

Identical bell-skirted gowns of Dior blue satin and matching floral headpieces were choice of maid of honor, Miss Beth Crosby; bridesmatron, Mrs. M. Perry and bridesmaids, the Misses Lorna Adey and Linda Inglin. They carried white carnation bouquets.

Cathy Dodds, four-year-old niece of the groom wore a flower girl frock of white satin, trimmed in lace and a lace cap. Tiny red rosebuds and white carnations were in her bouquet.

Edward Dodds was best man for his brother and ushers were Daniel Franklin, John McMahon and Allen Evans.

During the signing of the register, William Shand sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

A reception followed at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Couple See Daughter Married In Montreal

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place in the Chapel of Divinity Hall at McGill University, Montreal, when Dr. Knowles officiated at the marriage of Sharon Elisabeth Plows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Plows, 3301 Cedar Hill Road, Victoria, and Nicholas Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Russell of Herts., England. Mr. Plows gave his daughter in marriage.

Bouquets of gold chrysanthemums and gladioli flanked the altar. Selections from Bach and Purcell were played during the ceremony.

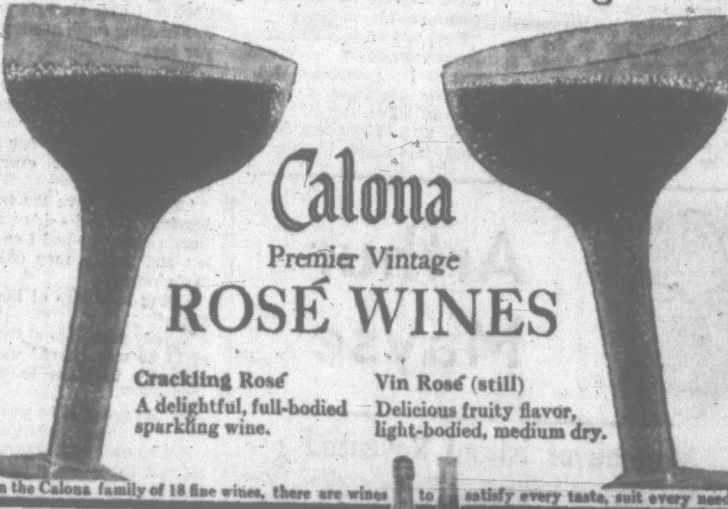

The bride wore a green silk linen street-length gown fashioned with A-line skirt and topped with a fitted jacket, styled with three-quarter length sleeves. Headpiece was a silk rose and net en tone. "Something old" was a handkerchief used by her great-grandmother at her wedding; and only jewelry, gold locket which had belonged to another great-grandmother. Gold sweetheart rosebuds in corsage completed her ensemble.

Only attendant, Miss Barbara Geddes, Victoria, chose a street-length gown featuring toning jacket of oatmeal linen. She completed her outfit with pink rose and net headpiece and corsage of sweetheart roses en tone.

John Sheltuss, Montreal, was best man, and William Carmichael, Montreal, ushered guests to their pews.

Three-tier wedding cake, a friend's Montreal home. John Sheltuss proposed toast to the bride's happiness. After a honeymoon motoring trip to the eastern townships of Quebec, the couple will live in London, England, where the groom will take post-graduate studies at the University of London.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Messages from Governor-General Georges Vanier, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Mr. David Stupich, M.L.A., were among those received by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams when they held a reception in their Fernwood home on Salt Spring Island to mark their golden wedding anniversary. The couple was married in All Saints' Church, Lumsden, Sask., on June 16, 1914. Canon Dyke-Parker officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Adams lived for a short while at Comox but have spent 20 years on Salt Spring Island. At the recent reception, Mr. Jesse Bond proposed the toast to Mrs. Adams. The cake had been made and decorated by another neighbor, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher. Off-island guests included the couple's daughter, Mrs. Fred Sleight, Vancouver; their niece, Mrs. H. Herzog, North Surrey; Mrs. Adams' sister, Mrs. H. Hetherington, Success, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hetherington of Lake Isabella, Calif.; and Miss Helen Mellor, Victoria.

In California

Sub-Lt. Dennis Reilly and Mrs. Reilly are among those who have recently signed the visitors' book at British Columbia House in San Francisco, Calif.

Surprise

Gifts were concealed in a model of a church at a surprise shower held to honor bride-elect Miss Geraldine Matthews. Mrs. C. Wilkins and Miss Carol Simpson were co-hostesses in the former's Tattersall Drive home. A blue and white carnation corsage was presented to Miss Matthews. Mrs. W. Sniele and Mrs. E. Hales, mother and grandmother of the groom, were presented with pink and yellow carnation corsages. Guest of honor was also presented with a decorated cake. Games were played and refreshments served buffet style. Invited guests included Mrs. T. Stidson, Mrs. H. Sangha, Mrs. Q. Wilkins, Mrs. A. Cann, Mrs. M. McMillan, Mrs. I. Blue, Mrs. J. Sibley, Mrs. Angelina Calgaro, and Miss Leona McMillan.

Forewell Party

Avebury Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Osborn was scene of recent farwell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Neville (Buck) Taylor who are leaving at the end of the week to make their home in Campbell River. Corsage and boutonniere of red roses and gift of aqua bed spreads were presented to the guests of honor. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Dennstett, Mr. and Mrs. James Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Veltch, Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall, Mrs. Victor Sandford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacLachlan, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Coles, Mr. and Mrs. William Spedding, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Watt, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dignan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bentham and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sankie of Calgary, Alta.

Hear Vows

Mrs. George Webber and Miss Sharon Webber, both of Edmonton, were in Vancouver to hear vows exchanged between Miss Wendy Enid Thompson, Victoria, and Dr. Orrin Harold Webber. Also invited was Mrs. P. Barg, Wallaceburg, Ont.

Montreal Ceremony

Out-of-town guests at the Montreal wedding that united Sharon Elisabeth Plows and Nicholas Russell were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Plows of Cedar Hill Road, Victoria; groom's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Russell and Miss Juliet Russell of Heris, England, and friends from Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hunt are pictured in their home at 1285 Holloway Street which they walked to after their marriage in the Presbyterian Church Manse 50 years ago next Monday. To mark their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will receive their friends at an "open house" in the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. H. Wooten, at 625 Brookleigh Road from 2 to 6 p.m. On Sunday, there will be a family dinner in the Glenahiel Hotel. Mrs. Hunt came from Nottingham, England, 56 years ago to join her uncle and aunt, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Dart Bryant. Mr. Hunt's home town was Liverpool, England. He served in both world wars. Couple has two other children, Mrs. Bert (Nora) Andrew, also of Victoria, and Stanley, Surrey, B.C. There are six grandchildren.

Honor Guests at Recital

Mrs. H. A. Beckwith and Miss Ethel James were honor guests when students of the Noel A. M. Smith Piano Studio for Young Musicians held an end-of-term recital at 1610 Oak Bay Avenue.

Participants ranged from first-year students to diploma grade. They included Crystal Hamill, Donald Kirk, Bill Patterson, Edwin Forbes, Helen Arrol, Betty Kerr, Ian Forbes, Allison Henry, Stephen Calder, Kenneth Borris, Caroline Henry, Delcie McLellan, Carol Robertson, Colin Griffiths, Susan James, Barbara Denike, Daphne McFarland, Ann Patterson, Mary Chard, Valerie Forbes, Roslyn Farmer, Pat Patterson, Heather Forbes, Susan Grieve, Alan Denike, Barbara Hunter, George Kiraly, Barbara Flury, Sharon James, Beth Weatherdon, Bobby Zier, Allison Marshall, Jacqueline Court and Stuart Calder.

Mrs. Beckwith presented studio awards to Stephen Calder, Mary Chard, Barbara Denike, Forbes.

Newlyweds to Make Their Home in Germany

Dr. John Blewett officiated at the ceremony in St. Anselm's Anglican Church, Vancouver, that united Wendy Enid Thompson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Arthur Thompson, 900 Park Boulevard, Victoria, and Dr. Orrin Harold Webber, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Webber, of Edmonton, Alta.

Antherium lilies and shasta daisies decorated the church. The organist played "Eastern Contata", from Baeh's "St. Matthew's Passion", during the ceremony.

A white silk peau de sole gown, highlighted with Venetian lace cummerbund, was worn by the bride. A detachable fiesta court train swept from the skirt. Dainty nylon illusion veil misted from headpiece of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade of white rosebuds and forget-me-nots. Dr. Thompson gave his daughter in marriage.

The matron of honor for her sister, Mrs. K. K. McCallum, and bridesmaids, the Misses Barbara Blewett and Lois Bradell, both of Vancouver, chose identical gowns of white eyelet over rose pink peau-de-sole enhanced with flowing panels at the back. Pink and white rosebuds and carnations were in their bouquets.

Heather McCallum, the bride's niece, was flower girl. She wore a similar frock of eyelet over rose pink and carried a basket of roses.

Dr. Norman Van Louie was best man. The guests were ushered to pews by George Webster, brother of the groom, and Dr. Don B. Orchard.

A three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles, decorated the bride's table at the reception which followed in the faculty club of the University of British Columbia. Completing the decor were pink and white carnations. The toast to the bride's happiness was proposed by Dr. Doug Middleton. For travelling on a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Montreal and Algonquin Park, the bride donned a beige Irish tweed suit, brown orchid corsage and pink picture hat. Following their honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Baden Baden, Germany.

HENRY FORD TO MARRY

LONDON (Reuters) — Mrs. Christine Austin, widow of a British naval officer, expects to marry automobile magnate Henry Ford II in Italy in October. The Daily Sketch reports.

The Sketch says she has told friends the wedding will most likely be in Milan where she has a home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Lawson of North Vancouver have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Lillian, to Mr. Paul Desmond Rothe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rothe, 941 Island Road, Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, July 11, at 7:30 p.m. in Highlands United Church, North Vancouver. Rev. R. W. Bray will officiate, assisted by the bride's uncle, Rev. N. K. A. Eutin. DEAR ABBY ...

She's Too Old to Change!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We live on a farm and my sister, who is in her 40's, does the farm work. She wears jeans and a blouse and goes out in the field with the tractor to work. When it gets hot, she sheds her blouse and works in her bra. She is of a slight build, and has little for anyone to see, but all the same, when my parents, and brothers and sisters-in-law meet her out of doors dressed like that they blow their stacks. She says it's no different than being on the beach in a swim suit. Lots of strangers come by our place, but she says it's our property and if they don't like what they see they don't have to look. Who is right? And how do you handle a situation like this?

SLIPPERY ROCK
DEAR SLIPPERY: A "bra" is an undergarment and should not be worn as an outer garment. There are halteres for that purpose. In my opinion, your sister should wear halteres. However, a 40-year-old woman who drives a tractor is not interested in a lecture from me (OR from you) on propriety and fashion. Be realistic and give up.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the 12-year-old girl who resented being an UNPAID BABY-SITTER for her parents. I am 16 and have two younger sisters and a baby brother. My father works from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week, and my mother is tied down to her housework and the children all day. I've been baby-sitting for four years. I like to earn money, too, but I would give up a date or a baby-sitting job at the slightest hint that my parents wanted to go out for an evening. They deserve it! Who needs to be paid? Their love and appreciation are all the pay I want. "Unpaid" is only a word. She had better overcome her selfishness and be grateful that she can do something for her parents. RUTH B.

DEAR RUTH: It's a joy to print your letter. I wish my readers knew how many WHOLESOME, GENEROUS and CONSIDERATE teenagers there are. Unfortunately, the only ones they read about are those who get into trouble. DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am stupid, but I don't know where else to get this information. When living in a rented house, who is supposed to take down the storm windows and put up the screens? The tenant or the owner?

INTERESTED PARTY
DEAR INTERESTED: Unless it is specifically stated in the contract, the owner assumes that responsibility. (Are you trying to pass the buck or save one?)

CONFIDENTIAL TO MADAME L.O.: Do not assume that, because a man boasts that in all his life he has never smoked a cigarette or tasted whisky, he has not done worse. Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Superfluous Hair Shouldn't Be Bother to Women Today

Even today superfluous hair is a source of unhappiness to many women. This seems strange since there are so many aids. Evidently many women are uncertain about which method of removal is best for their particular problem.

The four most usual techniques for temporary removal are shaving, tweezing, or the use of a depilatory or cosmetic wax. Of course all of these must be repeated periodically, depending on how fast the hair grows back.

There is no evidence that shaving makes the hair grow in thicker or faster. It does make the ends stiffer. The hairs are naturally tapered and when they are cut with the razor it leaves the ends blunt.

Depilatories literally melt the hairs. They are preferable to shaving because the ends are not so blunt and stiff. It is easier to shave but modern-day depilatories are pleasant and efficient and do not take much time.

Do not use a regular depilatory on your face. There are, however, splendid ones which are planned especially for facial hair. Use one of these and follow directions carefully.

Cosmetic wax pulls the hairs out by the roots. I think this method is the most trouble of all. However, the hair does not show again so soon as when removed in other ways.

Electrolysis is the only way in which hair can be removed permanently. Many women complain that they have had these treatments and the hair grew right back. This is not the case if you have a well-qualified operator. More hairs may appear, but these are probably new hairs, not the old ones. Also, when the hair follicle is distorted it may take more than one treatment to banish the hair permanently.

MARTIN
... ceremony Monday

AT THUNDERBIRD Memorial Planned For Mungo

A memorial copper plaque will be erected in Thunderbird Park to honor Chief Mungo Martin, Vancouver Island's great totem pole carver, who died in Victoria, Aug. 16, 1962.

Details of the memorial will be announced when the Canada Medal, posthumously awarded last year to the Kwakiutl chief, is presented to the Provincial Museum on Monday.

The presentation will be made by Canada Council member Stuart Keate, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, and former publisher of the Victoria Times, at a ceremony in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Co., at 2 p.m.

ART SHOW

The ceremony will coincide with the opening of a graphic art show featuring the works of Mungo Martin.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will open the exhibition in the Douglas Room, renamed "Thunderbird House" for the occasion.

It will feature 22 paintings executed by the chief for the museum and the University of British Columbia. Photographs of the carver at work also will be shown.

At the presentation ceremony, Mrs. Helen Hunt, the adopted daughter of Chief Mungo, will receive the medal from Mr. Keate, who accepted the award on behalf of the family earlier this year in Ottawa.

Mrs. Hunt will turn over the medal to Dr. Clifford Carl, the museum director, who has made arrangements to have it permanently displayed in the museum.

FIRST INDIAN

The chief is the first Indian to be awarded a Canada Medal. It is given to Canadians who make an outstanding contribution to the arts, humanities and social sciences.

Government and civic officials, representatives of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, have been invited to the ceremony and the opening of the art show. The exhibition will run until July 11.

Bill Reid, well known Haida artist from Vancouver, has been commissioned by a committee composed of Victorians to design and make the memorial plaque.

Mr. Reid is responsible for the Haida exhibits at UBC, which includes a longhouse and totem poles.

He said plans call for a plaque about six feet high and three feet wide.

"I have completed the model," he said. "If it is approved, it will take about six months to complete."

SEA CADETS TO BATTLE OVER ISLAND

Sixty cadets of the Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps will invade Discovery Island this weekend.

They will embark in a harbor craft at HMC Dockyard at 8 a.m. Saturday, en route for the island and a weekend exercise that will see two opposing "armies" battling for the island's occupation.

However, the cadets will fire blank ammunition and an evening truce will be called so that the cadets can enjoy a campfire, wiener roast and "kye" (cocoa).

Cadets will sleep under canvas. Exercise is scheduled to end at 6 p.m. Sunday.

'HEADREST AS IMPORTANT AS SEAT-BELT'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A good headrest is just as important in preventing serious after effects from automobile accidents as seat belts, says an Ontario medical expert.

Dr. Norrie Swanson, Ontario medical director of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, says he has been urging headrests for years, to prevent the "whiplash" which injures many necks in car accidents.

"It's just as necessary in a car as in a bus or a plane, but I have never been able to get a manufacturer interested enough to make them for cars," he said.

Dr. Swanson made these comments following an address to the Canadian Medical Association's convention here Tuesday.

WILLIS TRAVEL BUREAU

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A wide search was under way today for a trusted 20-year-old bank messenger suspected of casually strolling off with $140,000 in cash in a shopping bag.

The FBI obtained an embezzlement warrant Tuesday night for the messenger, Theodore C. Nelson, several hours after the money disappeared from the Oakland Bank of Commerce.

FBI agents said they found a note in Nelson's San Francisco apartment indicating he would attempt to leave the country, possibly for Mexico. Agents were ordered to airports across the country in an effort to locate the suspect.

Bank officials described Nelson as "a nice, hardworking boy who had a future with us." They were stunned when the loss was discovered.

The day started routinely enough. Nelson, as part of his job, presented an order shortly after 9 a.m. to the bank vault for $140,000 in $20, $10 and $5 denominations. Nelson then should have delivered the money, which was the bank's cash requirements for the day, to a cashier's cage in the basement.

Later other employees recalled seeing Nelson walking away from the basement stairs toward a street exit carrying a gray shopping bag.

Nelson's disappearance was not discovered until an hour later when Charles May, 30, the man who was to receive the cash, realized that the young messenger was late with his delivery.

Iowa Youth Looks at City

Visiting Victoria high-spots this week, as a guest of Douglas Rotary Club, is 16-year-old Ralph Jahr, of Marengo, Iowa.

Ralph is visiting from the U.S. as part of a Rotary Club exchange program enabling young people of other countries to see how other places live and work and how they are governed.

During his three-week visit, Ralph will be entertained by seven local families. His traveling expenses are paid by Marengo Rotary.

Tuesday he was taken on a tour of Island Tug and Barge headquarters by Norman Ketcheson, of 540 Normandy, son of club president Roy Ketcheson.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Dodie Goodman has had a lifelong career as a blind date.

"I'm the girl," Dodie says with a certain wistfulness, "that my girl friends always got as a blind date for their boy friends' boy friends—from out of town."

"And something might have worked out a couple of times except for one little thing... well, like being repulsive."

Dodie was half serious and half clowning when she told me this. It's to be part of a one-woman show she's going to try out shortly at the Apple Hill Playhouse, in Delmont, Pa. Dodie has just been a glamor girl with Marlon Brando and David Niven in "Bedtime Story" and is looking for new fields to conquer.

"My girl friends have sort of given up on me as a blind date," Dodie said. "I guess the only thing left for me to do is steal somebody's husband. It's rather stylish now."

Dodie is hopeful that her movie career will really soar now that she's played "Fanny From Omaha."

"Stanley Shapiro says I have a great future in pictures but of course it depends on whether they hire you," she says. "Stanley has another picture but he sort of wants Audrey Hepburn for the lead. Even if he couldn't get her, I doubt if I could fit into the part."

The Manhattan Marriage Mix-up: Busty Jane Morgan, the beautiful singer, and actor Larry Rith are again ending their marriage. Each is going out on separate enterprises.

Connie Francis will marry Dick Casella, pub-relations man at the Las Vegas Sahara. Friends are happy that she will now be able to sing about real L-O-V-E.

Tammy Grimes' beau Harvey Presnell, handsome six-foot-plus blond, won't talk about their marriage dates, but says it will be in the summer, fall, winter, spring or sometime.

Mort Sahl says at Cafe Au GoGo: "You may have heard the President talking about riding around his ranch... which he calls 'the Johnson country'."

... which you may know better as the United States of America."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Roger Smith of "It Sunset Strip" and his wife, actress Victoria Shaw are having a trial separation... Paul Aska gave a birthday party for lyricist Sammy Cahn at the Waldorf-Cahn said, "Paul's lucky—he writes words and music, and gets two checks." ... Richard and Lisa Horton stopped at Ruby Foo's for a drink... after sending in their chauffeur to see if the coast was clear.

Cute H'wood duo: Leslie Uggams and Billy Eckstine's son Ronnie... Report from Europe: Princess Grace now has her own personal astrologer... George Hamilton'll make his first TV appearance soon, on a Chrysler show... Chuck Connors will film the bio of golfer Walter Hagen... The "Muscle Beach Party" movie gains something in the translation—in Italy it'll be called "Sex Party on the Sand."

Dolores Del Rio explains her secret of looking 40 at 59: "Walk to where you generally drive, and sleep eight hours plus. And don't eat just because the hour says so." ... One problem of filming "Lord Jim" in Cambodia—bringing in drinking water at $1.50 a quart (plus three bottles of beer a day per workman)... Sidney Poitier'll earn more for "The Long Ships" than he did for his first 11 years as an actor... Actress Mary Astor's fourth novel is due. (She says, "I supported myself as a writer by acting.")

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A rock 'n' roll singer complained that his kid brother had broken one of the strings on his guitar: "And he won't tell me which one."

EARL'S PEARLS: Ronnie Martin bought an electric toothbrush, and now he sees his electrician twice a year.

... That's earl, brother.

Love's Love Lost On Icy Sidewalk

LONDON (CP)—A man who has been searching the globe for an earthly paradise says no one country fills the bill—but Spain and Cornwall add up to Utopia.

Before choosing, Dublin-born Loftus Love, 76, visited 27 countries. His verdict: Canada is too cold. Egypt has too many fleas. The United States is too expensive. And so on.

So Love says he'll spend the rest of his winters in Spain and summers in Cornwall.

He lived in Montreal from 1929 to 1953 and owns two rooming houses there. He used the profits from them to finance his travels.

Montreal liked Love for reasons other than climatic.

A fiancée went there from Spain but then called off the marriage and went home. "She blamed those infernal sidewalks," Love said.

"Too many people in Canada break their bones every winter. There's hardly been a year in Montreal that I haven't fallen on icy streets."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other interesting prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the entire series a $100,000 prize.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Geraldine Ann Paul, age 12, of Bridgeport, Conn., for her question:

How was the Great Barrier Reef formed?

In many warm oceans of the world, reefs and coral islands tend to lift above the watery waves. The heaving tides work together with all manner of ocean dwellers to form these surprising patches of dry land. Some, but by no means all, of the building is done by corals.

The Great Barrier Reef sprawls in the warm waters that wash the northeastern shores of Australia. Its jagged islets, teeming with life, break the surface of the waters at a distance of 10 to 150 miles from the coastline. From end to end it stretches 1,250 miles, and it is the biggest coral reef formation in the world.

The building of the great reef began because a warm, off-shore ocean current heaved its waves through the shallow tidal waters. The tossing water shifted the sandy silt of the seabed and built walls of corals parallel with the land. The warm and sun-drenched shallows, swirled by shifting tides, were just right for colonies of sea corals. These tentacled maidens that look like potted blossoms took minerals from the water and built themselves stony apartment houses.

Seaweeds drifted into the sunny waters, and many of these also formed stony deposits from the sea water. Gradually an underwater sea wall of tough rock began to grow as countless varieties of coral built their houses upon each other and upon the rocky seaweeds. Starfish and sea urchins, worms and mollusks took shelter among the rocky cooves and caverns, and the rainbow-colored gardens of dainty coral were populated by armies of rainbow-colored fishes.

Most of the world's coral reefs and islands form in seas where the temperature stays between 77 and 86 degrees Fahrenheit. Some are table reefs, round platforms with their table tops just below the waves. Coral atolls are islands of the deep ocean. As a rule they form a crescent shape with a curved reef enclosing a shallow lagoon of peaceful water on one side of the rocky little ocean island.

Atheist Family Flies to Hawaii

BALTIMORE (AP) — Embattled atheist Madalyn Murray and her family gave a bitter last look at the home where they've lived nearly a dozen years and left town Tuesday bound for Hawaii.

"We are fleeing for our lives," explained the woman whose suit brought a U.S. Supreme Court ban last year on compulsory school prayer.

With Mrs. Murray, 44, were her mother, Bonna Mays; her brother, John D. Mays, Jr.; sons Garth, 9, and Bill, 18, and Bill's bride, the former Susan Abramovitz, 17.

Except for her brother and younger son, all of Mrs. Murray's family are out of jail on bond. Most of the charges against them—assaulting police officers—resulted from a melee at their home Saturday morning.

Mrs. Murray, pointing to bruised arms and swollen wrists, accused the police of beating her up as, she said, "a crowd of at least 250 people cheered and shouted 'kill her,' 'hit her harder.'"

SEEK 'ASYLUM'

"I will ask the governor of Hawaii for religious asylum. I will ask not to be extradited back to Baltimore, where they are out to get me. Hawaii is 85 per cent Buddhist, and Buddhists are absolute atheists who believe in ethics and high principles as I do.

"I'm convinced they're going to do me in here. I used to think it would be some religious nut. But all the harassment has come from official sources—except this neighborhood hostility and people trying to break into the house at night."

The weekend fracas, which ended with a trip to jail—"where we were difficult prisoners, let's put it that way," said Mrs. Murray—started because of Susan.

Police went to the Murray home when they were tipped the girl was there. They had been looking for her to serve a contempt citation because she had violated a judicial order to remain in the custody of an aunt and uncle.

Susan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Abramovitz, had accused Mrs. Murray of inducing the girl to move into the Murray home and abandon her Jewish religion.

"I guess I'm to blame for all this trouble," said Mrs. Murray, "since I should have thrown Susan out that first time she came and asked to stay because she was afraid to go home to her parents. She and Bill had dated since fall, but I had never met her before, so how could I have influenced her? But I couldn't throw her out. I'm not that heartless."

Sunshine Camp Open Saturday For Pensioners

Sunshine Camp opens Saturday with old age pensioners being first to enjoy summer holiday at Sooke.

The camp, sponsored by the Community Chest, is under the direction of the Family and Children's Service. It caters to pensioners, the blind and family groups.

Arthur Rippon, assistant director of the Family and Children's Service, said there is still room for about 20 old age pensioner applicants.

Transportation to the camp is provided and will leave the bus depot at 10 a.m. Saturday. Meals and light entertainment are supplied. Anyone wishing to attend the week-long camp should contact Mr. Rippon, EV 2-5121.

New President Of Engineers' Union

Elected president of Victoria Union of Operating Engineers, Local 918, is Myles Carmichael.

Mr. Carmichael, of 906 Empress, succeeds 10-year president John Speakman.

Vice-president is William McWilliams, treasurer Richard Johnson, and secretaries Larry Gerrath and Thomas Hill.

Other officers are Oliver Lalonde, guard; Gordon Hewitt, auditor; Arthur Baxter, J. G. Hawkins, Sid Hicks and Edward Callan, executive members.

World Church Unity 'Work of Anti-Christ'

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American Baptist Association said Tuesday world-wide unity through the ecumenical movement is "not the work of Christ but the work of anti-Christ."

Asserting that "ecumenism is not for us," Dr. Paul Goodwin of Little Rock, Ark., said in the opening address at the association's annual national messenger meeting.

"We must not leave the plain road of preaching the gospel of Christ to follow the devil's detours. We would have all to lose and nothing to gain in a unionizing movement."

In criticizing the ecumenical movement, Dr. Goodwin, who is also pastor of the Unity Missionary Baptist Church in Little Rock, told more than 2,500 delegates and church members attending the meeting.

"As president I cannot speak officially for the approximately 1,000,000 members of the churches . . . in the American Baptist Association. The president is a presiding official and nothing more. However, as a preacher I have both the privilege and responsibility to proclaim the truth."

He said history, doctrine and practice are "three good reasons why missionary Baptists should not unite with the ecumenical movement."

Apartment Building Regulations Outlined

Capital Region Planning Board Tuesday issued a review comparing building requirements for apartment structures in the Greater Victoria area showing considerable variation in the regulations from municipality to municipality.

It concluded that variations are needed to meet specific needs of different areas but "it would be preferable if the choice of zones and standards for apartments were related to a regional policy."

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By JIMMY HATLO

...WE HAVE JUST WONDERFUL NEIGHBORS... SO REFINED... REALLY THE SOCIAL LEADERS... YOU MIGHT SAY...

THINK I'LL CATCH A LITTLE SUN OUT HERE IN FRONT... TOO SHADY IN THE BACK...

A FINE TIME SQUAT... WELL PICKS TO LOLL IN HIS UNDERWEAR ON THE FRONT LAWN...

TELL ME WHAT YOU'D LIKE TO DO FOR YOUR PORTRAIT IN
OIL. MY SPECIAL RATE OF $40 FOR YOUR PORTRAIT IN
OIL. MY SPECIAL RATE OF $40, BUT YOU HAVE A DISTINGUISHED LOOKING CHARACTER. I CAN PAINT YOU IN YOUR HOME, AT YOUR LEISURE.

THE THIRD PORTRAIT PAINTER
TO PUT MY FEATURES ON CANVAS FOR POSTERITY.
HAR-RUMPH! MY OTHER TWO PORTRAITS WERE DONE
BY ZORRA AND GARGENT-
EY. BOTH PAINTINGS ARE NOW HANGING IN EUROPEAN

68 BUILDING SUP

Joint Board Wins Support

PORT ALBERNI — The twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni have agreed in principle to the formation of an inter-municipal parks and recreation commission.

If both councils ratify the proposal by the date set, Sept. 30, 1964, all parks, playgrounds and beautifications of the cities will come under a single authority.

Fisher of Men Uses Tempting Lure

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Metropolitan United — the old grey Rhennish-style church at the corner of Quadra and Pandora — will bid farewell next Sunday to its minister, Rev. F. E. (Howey) James.

Dr. James, with the warm Irish brogue and sadly humorous eyes, is retiring after 43 years in the ministry of which the last 12 have been at Metropolitan.

He used to be an enthusiastic sport fisherman. Now he is a Fisher of Men. Here is a typical approach:

"What church do you go to?"
"None at present."
"Ah, come to Metropolitan, now. Come and join the fellowship. Give me your name and address and I'll come and see you."

"HOOKED"
This invitation has something of the impact of steam escaping from an Irish boiler. If you already go to a church, Dr. James would never dream of luring you away from it. If you don't you're as good as "hooked."

And once you've been "landed," he will probably set about finding some work for you.

"The way to enjoy church membership is to exercise your talents in the service of the church," he tells newcomers. "Give to the church and it will give of you."

Since coming to Victoria in 1952, Dr. James has seen his congregation grow from about 1,100 to around 1,350, although (like most churches) Metropolitan loses between 100 and 125 members every year as they move to other areas of Canada.

In this same period, the church has given more than $240,000 to missionary work, besides contributing $186,000 to completing Pendray Hall and $250,000 to its Christian Education Centre.

ONTARIO TOUR
It is impossible to imagine Dr. James and his friendly, brown-eyed wife actually retiring from church work. They will move out of Victoria for a while, to give the new minister (Rev. Albert King from Edmonton) a chance to establish himself, and Dr. James will tour Ontario as a guest preacher.

"It's not fair to a new minister when his predecessor sticks around," says Dr. James, "because the congregation tends to stay with a man they know."

If circumstances permit, Dr. and Mrs. James will go to West, West Germany, to visit their daughter, Kathleen; her husband, Capt. James Marrs of the Black Watch Regiment, and their two children.

On returning to Victoria early next year, Dr. James will preach "on supply" in this area.

Born in New Ross, Wexford County, Ireland, he came to Canada with his parents in 1912. They settled in Winnipeg and became members of the Sparling Church, whose minister was Rev. George Peacock.

His daughter, Grace, later became Mrs. James.

ORAINED IN 1926
Dr. James attended high school in Winnipeg and later graduated from the University of Manitoba and the Wesley College of Theology. He was ordained in Edmonton in 1926 and has since served churches in Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Victoria.

Mrs. James, his devoted ally, was educated at Carberry School and Wesley College, Manitoba, and after graduation, taught school in Sundown, Man. She then went to work with the All People's Mission, Winnipeg.

She spent one year in Chicago, specializing in kindergarten work before returning to join the staff of the Mount View Girls' Home at Calgary. It was there she met Dr. James, who was then minister at Castor, Alta.

MOST REWARDING
Their largest church numerically was High Park United, Toronto, with a membership of 2,300, but Dr. James says Metropolitan, in downtown Victoria, has proved the most rewarding.

"A downtown church attracts people of all types," he said, "and we do a lot of remedial work within the church itself. There is a warm fellowship in our congregation — it could be warmer, but allowing for human weakness and the fact we are none of us perfect, it is a very fine fellowship indeed."

Dr. James will preach at both services in Metropolitan Sunday, while his wife takes up her usual listening post in the middle pews.

"MOST SATISFYING"

"If I had my time over again, I'd still be a minister," Dr. James said. "It's the most satisfying work on earth if you believe in what you are doing, and I would recommend it to any young man or woman who has faith and initiative."

"Our assistant minister (Rev. E. Laura Butler) has proved that women, too, can play an invaluable part in the life of a church."

Vanier's Award Queried by Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Was Governor-General Vanier's award from Italy approved by the Canadian government?

Should it have been cleared first with the federal cabinet?

These two questions were left hanging in the air after a brief exchange between Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the Commons Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson said there has been no change in the policy followed for years—that awards and decorations by foreign states should not be accepted by Canadians unless approved by the Canadian prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether any cabinet order altered this policy in any way.

marking his question was prompted by "an announced award to a Canadian within the last few days."

Nobody mentioned Governor-General Vanier but informed sources indicated it may have been in Mr. Diefenbaker's mind.

NOT CONSULTED
A government House spokesman said the Canadian government was not consulted about the award, made annually to heads of state.

The award to Governor-General Vanier was made by the Italian government to a tourist agency for Rome province. It was intended as a token of gratitude toward Canada and a reflection of the personal goodwill shown by Governor-General Vanier to Rome and to Italy during trips to Italy.

The presentation took place last Friday at Rome, where the Canadian ambassador, G. G. Crean, received it on the Governor-General's behalf.

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—A canine blood bank has been established by a veterinarian here in collaboration with a dog breeder.

Dr. Jean Gosselin, owner of the St. Johns Veterinary Hospital, says a ready supply of fresh whole blood or blood serum would save the lives of many pets injured in accidents, suffering from diseases related to the blood system, or delivered of litters by caesarian section.

Donors for the blood bank are German shepherds from the van Leeuwenkamp Kennels, owned and operated by Frank Fuchs in St. Luc, just outside St. Johns.

"If you have a prize female worth $400 to $500 who's about to have a litter of pups worth maybe $100 each and she has to be delivered by caesarian, you'd be greatly relieved to know there is emergency blood available," said Mr. Fuchs, who suggested the blood bank.

Animals are more fortunate than humans when it comes to blood transfusions. No particular blood groups or types seem to exist and one dog can provide blood for any other dog. In fact, canine blood can even be given to cats with beneficial results, said Dr. Gosselin.

Mr. Fuchs' German shepherds can give about half a pint of blood every eight weeks without ill effects.

They were Helen Taylor of Royal Jubilee, and Margaret Neudorf of St. Joseph's.

Making the presentation was President Hugh Borsman, whose idea it was to ask the students to sell books of raffle tickets for a car. In return, the council received $2 for every book of tickets sold.

The president announced that in all $12,181 had been raised, leaving a total profit of $8,500, which has been spent on the Kiwanis Home for delinquent teenagers.

The cheque for this amount was handed over to the president by Maurice Simpson, chairman of the draw committee.

Communism's No. 1 Blocks Mao's World Revolution

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — Thirty-eight years ago, Mao Tse-tung wrote: "A revolution is not the same as inviting people to dinner, or writing an essay, or painting a picture, or doing fancy needle-work."

"It cannot," he continued, "be anything so refined, so calm and gentle, so mild, kind, courteous, restrained and magnanimous. A revolution is an uprising, an act of violence whereby one class overthrows another."

When Mao wrote this in 1926, his antagonists were the rich landlords of his native Hunan province, his friends the poor peasants whose cause he made his own.

Today, at 70, having defeated landlords, capitalists and the Kuomintang of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his own land, Mao preaches revolution for the world, advocates blood-letting on an international scale to wipe out capitalism and replace it with communism.

His chief adversaries in this great and frightening project are not the bankers and the governments of the West, but one of the giants of communism — Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet premier disputes Mao's long-held belief that the only sure road to communism is over the bodies of the men and women who oppose it. In the nuclear age, Khrushchev argues that communism must win through peaceful means, using violence sparingly, not as the main weapon.

VIOLENCE CREED
By now, all the world knows that Mao stands for violence and revolution.

More obscure, however, are the personal reasons which impel Mao—an intellectual of considerable personal charm, a poet, classical scholar and historian—to rest such a deep and terrible faith in the most destructive of man's qualities.

The answers can only be guessed at. Psychologists may find some clues in his early childhood. When he was 10, his teacher often beat him severely for failing to learn the Confucian classics. A severe father frequently lost his temper and thrashed him.

While still a boy, Mao had his first taste of violence when, during a famine in Changsha, the government dealt with an uprising by executing the ringleaders and placing their heads on pikes. This incident, he said later, made a profound and lasting impression on him.

Later, massacres became common on both the red and the white Kuomintang side. What compassion he may have retained must surely have been wiped away by the execution of his brother and sister and of his second wife.

FOLLOWED LENIN

A follower of Lenin, whose own life had been embittered by the czarist execution of his young brother, Mao learned from the Bolshevik revolution that any means, from terror to torture to murder, were justified to achieve victory.

Mao's long and successful struggle against the Kuomintang further served to convince him that there was no substitute for violence; he came to believe that it solved all questions.

Slightly round-shouldered, dressed in loose-fitting tunic and worsted trousers, Mao is a far cry from the average man's image of the hot-eyed revolutionary. The lines of his face are soft and undramatic, his cheeks puffy. Widely spaced eyes look out non-committally from under sparse eyebrows. A high domed forehead is flanked by straight, oil-black hair whose abundance gives him a leonine look. The nose is long, the mouth wide and sensuous. A mole is set prominently above the fleshy chin.

When the writer first interviewed Mao in the cave city of Yenan 19 years ago, he was struck by his easy air of authority, the respect which even older men accorded him.

During a community dance, he was all bounce and sparkle, whirling around the floor like some enormous kowloon-doll. In crowds, he had the eerie capacity to be alone, lost in his thoughts, staring fixedly into the distance. When this happened, no one approached him.

RED BUDDHA

Mao rules over China today like some nebulous Red Buddha, floating above the political cares of day-to-day life which he entrusts to President Liu Shao-chi and Premier Chou En-lai. As chairman of the Communist party, he is the undisputed No. 1 man of China.

His chief preoccupation is blocking out the tactics and strategy of what he regards as his greatest battle—the struggle to overthrow Khrushchev and his doctrine of peaceful coexistence.

Endowed with the enduring patience of the Chinese peasant, Mao is convinced that in time he will win this fight as he did that against another obdurate foe—Chiang Kai-shek.

PRACTISING mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on life-like doll at save-a-life course at St. John Ambulance headquarters Tuesday evening is Girl Guide Susan Jabin while instructor Edward Thomas looks on. The doll, called a Resusc-Aid, is made of flesh-colored inflatable plastic. Its head and torso have the same weight as that of a 16-18-year-old girl and its lungs "breathe" while artificial respiration is applied. St. John Ambulance will conduct another free save-a-life course Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at their Pandora Avenue headquarters. Ambulance officials point out 1,200 Canadians died as a result of drowning accidents in 1963.

Best Use of Classrooms Outlined for University

A San Francisco consultant has laid before University of Victoria officials a series of proposals for streamlining use of projected buildings.

The university's board of governors has taken no action on proposals made by Alfred Baxter, of Baxter and Associates, a firm of management consultants.

But Uvic president-elect Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor was enthusiastic about Mr. Baxter's presentation to two days of meetings Monday and Tuesday.

And university development manager Floyd Fairclough said Tuesday that Mr. Baxter's suggestions could save the university up to $500,000 on its $10,000,000 budget for expansion.

FOUR POINTS

Details have not been made public, but Mr. Baxter's reports are known to have covered:

- Development of classrooms in varying sizes that will give maximum use for minimum cost.
- Allocation of building space to university departments.
- Choice of courses.
- Size of faculty.

Dr. Taylor said of the proposals:

"I have been involved in building expansion projects for the last four years (at Calgary) and have never seen such a comprehensive and well-prepared report as the one submitted by Mr. Baxter."

"In my opinion, his services have been of inestimable value to the University of Victoria."

LEFT TUESDAY

Baxter, a former assistant to the president of the University of California at Berkeley, left Victoria Tuesday.

He had been here for several days with his associate, Angus McDonald.

Dean R. T. Wallace said Mr. Baxter was called in to assist with work that was started by a faculty committee.

It involved allocation of space to the best possible advantage in the new buildings to go up on the university's Gordon Head campus.

GORDON HEAD MOVE

Mr. Baxter was instrumental in having the university move to Gordon Head, after the university's San Francisco architects called him in for advice in 1961. (Dean Wallace said Tuesday the development board has set September, 1966, as a target date for complete removal to the Gordon Head campus.)

Mr. Baxter said his suggestions for the university take in expansion up to about 1971.

Basically, they involve making the best possible use of building space—for classrooms, offices and research facilities.

HIGHER USE

These decisions, by extension, affect the number of small classes that can profitably be offered and the kind of research that can be done.

They also affect the number of faculty members a university needs.

Mr. Baxter's suggestions are known to involve keeping classrooms in use more than 70 per cent of the time, as compared with the 60 per cent most university administrations shoot for.

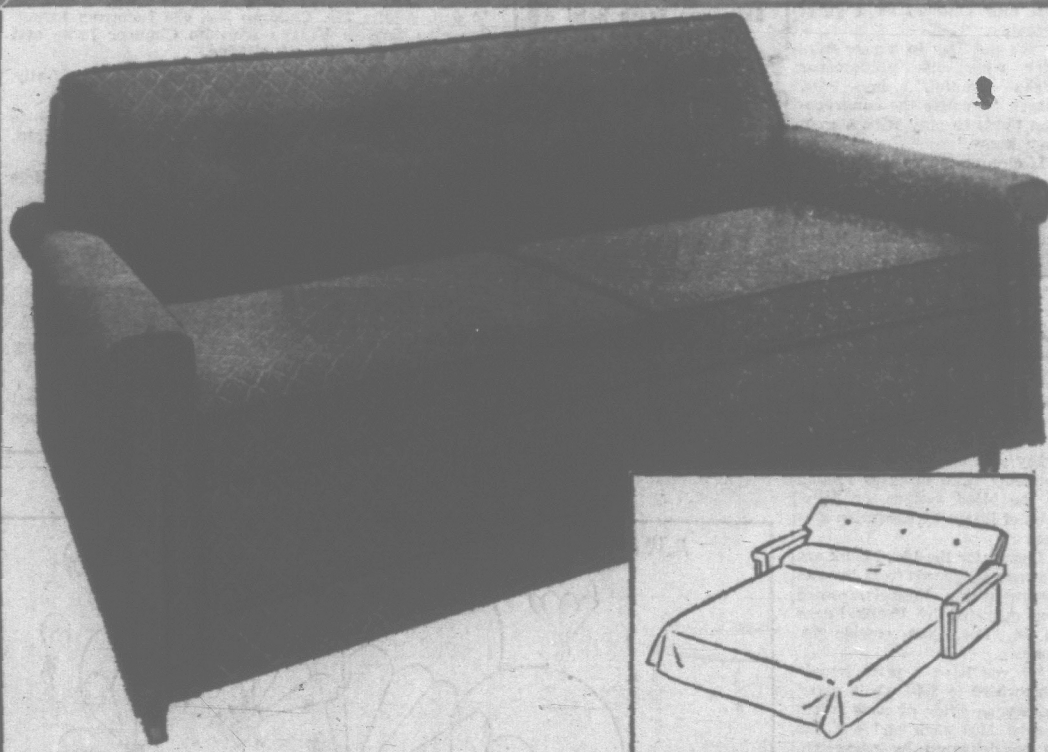

BEST OF TWO WORLDS

Mr. Baxter said he was "much impressed by the way the University of Victoria has made the most of two academic worlds—the U.S. pattern of organization, and the British style of operation."

His consultant firm does about half its work for various levels of government in the United States, and about a quarter of its work on higher education.

On education projects, he has worked in Uganda, Pakistan, Syria, Lebanon, Greece, and England, as well as the U.S.

TALKS TO WORKMEN AT SHIPYARD

Nikita Brushes Off Tight Security Guard

(Times News Services)
GOTEBORG, Sweden—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today literally brushed aside his Swedish security guard to talk to a group of Russian workers at a shipyard here.

Khrushchev was about to leave the shipyard, according to schedule, after watching his wife, Nina, launch a refrigerator ship built at the shipyard for the Russians.

But instead of following the heavily guarded route laid out for him, he suddenly darted to one side and, pushing through crowds gathered to see him, headed for a group of about 40 Russian shipbuilding workers.

A burly Swedish policeman stretched out a hand to stop him but Khrushchev, brushing him aside, barreled on. He spent about five minutes talking to the Russians while security men chewed their fingernails in distress.

Khrushchev earlier mingled enthusiastically with Swedish shipyard workers and told them their Russian counterparts are concentrating now on freighters and fishing boats.

The Soviet Union has stopped building battleships and cruisers "which would have no real importance in a nuclear war," said the Soviet leader, whose navy has the world's biggest submarine fleet.

Intensive security precautions were taken in the wake of reports Tuesday of a plot to kidnap the Soviet leader in Stockholm, 300 miles away.

Soldiers and police hid in clumps of bushes along the road from Goteborg's airport to the Arendal shipyard, where the premier paid his first visit.

Only 100 persons watched silently as Khrushchev was welcomed at the shipyard. Steel-helmeted workers went about their tasks, displaying little interest in the Russian visitor.

The tightening of the security precautions followed the announcement Tuesday of the arrest of a 30-year-old foreigner on suspicion of plotting to kidnap Khrushchev and hold him hostage for the release of political prisoners behind the Iron Curtain.

Swedish Premier Tage Erlander said a Hungarian refugee—one of 5,000 who came to Sweden after the abortive 1956 Hungarian revolt—was detained.

But the newspaper Goteborg Tidningen claimed the refugee is from one of the Baltic nations annexed by the Soviet Union during the Second World War.

Earlier the public prosecutor, Aake Magnusson, denied a newspaper report that four men armed with machine guns planned to crash their way into the grounds of the 18th-century castle where Khrushchev stayed and take him hostage for thousands of Communist-held political prisoners.

"The possibility cannot be ignored that the whole matter may have a relatively harmless background," the prosecutor said.

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported that a madman who threatened to kill Khrushchev was at large in Stockholm after escaping from an insane asylum.

WIRE BRIEFS

'We Will If You Will'

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Russians are prepared to agree to a phased destruction of bombers provided the United States agrees in principle to the destruction of all bombers, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin of the Soviet Union said today.

Aged Medicare Foiled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's proposal for health care of the aged was dropped today by the House of Representatives' ways and means committee, which thus dealt a heavy blow at any chance of enactment this year.

No Comment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Greek Prime Minister George Papandreu conferred for an hour today with President Lyndon Johnson on the critical Cyprus situation. The prime minister left the White House without making any comment on his talks.

Commons Sits Longer

OTTAWA (CP)—The government gave notice today of plans to ask the Commons to add six hours a week to its sitting time.

$3 Million Suit

DETROIT (AP)—A judge who staged a sit-in with his family at a New York hotel last week has brought a $3,000,000 suit against the Hilton Hotel Corporation.

Municipal Judge John J. Kadda of suburban Dearborn, his wife and their four children had to stay in a private dining room at the Hilton Hotel for 24 hours until a room was found for them.

TORY MP ASKS GOV'T TO TABLE UNCUT FILM

OTTAWA (UPI)—A Conservative member of Parliament will seek today to have the government table in the Commons "the full and unexpurgated version" of the controversial film, "Mr. Pearson."

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac Temiscaming) placed a notice of motion on today's order paper demanding the tabling of the film under a section calling for the "Production of Papers."

PEARSON UNDER FIRE

'Lying' Charges Fly in House

OTTAWA (CP)—The Opposition unleashed one of its fiercest attacks on Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons Tuesday, accusing him of lying and misleading the House to cover up government censorship of CBC programming.

Mr. Pearson was not in the chamber when five Conservatives and one New Democratic MP hurled bitter personal charges at him for more than three hours. The furore was expected to continue today.

The Opposition spokesmen repeated accusations that the government and Mr. Pearson's office applied political pressure on the CBC to prevent the showing of a $35,000 candid TV documentary about a day in Mr. Pearson's life, filmed last October.

External Affairs Minister Martin rose just before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment to demand that Eldo Woolliams (PC—Bow River) and Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) withdraw their statements that the prime minister misled the Commons about the TV program.

The chair did not have time to make a ruling and Mr. Martin was expected to press his demand at the opening of today's sitting.

WAS EXPELLED
Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) made similar accusations last Friday, and was expelled for the day after he refused to withdraw his remarks.

The prime minister's office said Mr. Pearson likely would reply to his critics today when a debate on a money supply bill enters its third day.

An aide said the government leader missed Tuesday's lively, well-attended exchange because he was at work in his office and had a dinner engagement.

Bryce Mackenzie (Montreal—Verdun), the only Liberal who spoke at any length, called it "a rather vicious, unwarranted and fully premeditated attack, both on the prime minister as a person and on the high office that he represents."

The CBC board of directors today opens a three-day meeting in which the documentary Mr. Pearson will be discussed. The board will consider a public request Mr. Pearson made Friday that the film be telecast to end weeks of controversy.

STARTS ONSLAUGHT
Mr. Woolliams began the Opposition onslaught Tuesday with a flat demand for Mr. Pearson's resignation.

Mayor Huddles With Peterson

A new bid to settle the five-week strike which has crippled the Alberni Valley's lumber industry will be made when labor and management meet in Vancouver this week.

The meeting will be either Thursday or Friday, Port Alberni Mayor Les Hamer said today.

Mr. Hamer met for more than an hour this morning with Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to discuss the strike by office workers at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.'s pulp mill.

The office workers picket lines have closed all the company's operations in the Alberni Valley and the strike spread last week to logging camps, Mr. Hamer said.

ONLY ANSWER
The new meeting is the first face-to-face union-company attempt to solve the dispute for some time.

It will be attended by George Little of the labor department who has been trying to bring the two sides together for two weeks.

Mr. Hamer said mediation is the only answer to the strike. If this week's meeting fails, he suggested appointment of a special mediator.

STAYS NEUTRAL

Mr. Hamer said he intends to remain strictly neutral in the dispute, but he gave Mr. Peterson some confidential opinions about the situation.

"This is really straining the patience and the economy of the valley," Mr. Hamer said.

He termed the strike 10 times worse than the tidal waves which wreaked havoc in the valley March 27.

Mr. Hamer said local stores have stopped stocking consumer goods until the strike is over.

Commercial travellers are refusing to go into the area, hotels are almost empty and advertising in local newspapers and on radio has been slashed.

However, he denied reports that droves of residents are leaving the valley.

Mr. Hamer said that morale is quite high considering the economic situation, and the people who are leaving could be described as the transient section of the population.

About 4,000 people are out of work because of the strike, but almost everyone is affected, Mr. Hamer said.

MADISON AVENUE CALLED IN

Pawnbrokers to Hock Image Of Famed Three Gold Balls

NEW YORK (AP)—Pawnbroking, perhaps the second oldest profession, is hocking its image.

The three gold balls, which are to pawnbroking what the striped pole is to barbering, have to go. This is the verdict of New York's 100 pawn shop proprietors, who have become concerned over their image.

The pawn—now, pay—later business has called in Madison Avenue. The pawnbrokers have hired public relations counsel and Tuesday they held a press conference to burst the chains they say have fettered the industry since the days of Charles Dickens.

"In the public's mind," announced David F. Cohen, president of the New York Pawnbrokers Association, "the pawnbroker is a Dickensian old man with a skull cap, sitting behind an iron cage in a dusty shop with a magnifying glass in his eye."

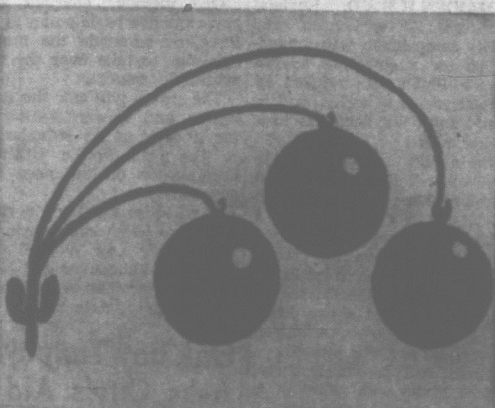

This, said Mr. Cohen, is unfortunate.

Today's pawnshop he said, is a bright, cheerful establishment, as often as not run by a college educated proprietor, where any lady would be happy to shop as well as hock.

STOCK NEW MERCHANDISE

"Most of our members stock a large variety of new merchandise which is available at discount prices," he said.

The pawn brokers had an artist design a new sign—three interconnected spirals—and have opened an office where any one with questions about pawn shops can call. The new sign printed in paper and designed to hang in the window, preserves the motif of the three balls—globes as they're known in the trade, which dates to the Middle Ages of Renaissance days, while clearly showing pawn-

... the Old

... and New

broking has planted it firmly in the twentieth century.

"There's another factor in getting rid of the old sign," one pawnbroker confided. "It costs me $45 to have painted gilt each globe. And I gotta pay a guy to take 'em down and put 'em up again."

He said the prime minister clearly contradicted himself on the Commons record and has a responsibility to resign under parliamentary tradition, natural law and divine law.

The Alberta MP said the prime minister first said he had seen the film twice at private showings, then a few days later denied ever seeing it.

"I suggest that the prime minister did not tell the truth because one statement must be wrong. They cannot both be correct."

Mr. Williams accused Mr. Pearson of deliberately concealing part of the truth on two other occasions in the House this year in statements about criticism of the proposed maple leaf flag and Banff's unsuccessful bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

GIVES ARGUMENT

Mr. Mackenzie argued that the prime minister had not tried to conceal facts, but had made off-the-cuff replies that were contradictory only in appearance.

"The basic fact is that the prime minister has not seen the Pearson film as it has now been shown to the press and as it now exists in the hands of the producer," he said amid opposition.

The Liberal backbencher said his leader saw only the first draft of the film and a "slightly revised" version; he had not seen the final version.

"You are splitting hairs," a Conservative MP shouted.

Mr. Nielsen referred to a recent statement by Mr. Pearson that the Liberal government does not practice censorship of CBC programs and called it "lies."

Mr. Martin jumped to his feet to demand a retraction and the two men spoke simultaneously for a few minutes, vying for the floor.

SAYS INFLUENCE USED

Douglas Fisher, NDP house leader, said he is convinced the Liberals exercised political influence to kill the Pearson film. The result was that the brilliant career of the independent Toronto producer of the program, Richard Ballentine, was in jeopardy.

Several cabinet ministers and a "coterie" of Pearson advisers had disapproved of the film after a private showing and this had influenced the CBC's decision to cancel it, he contended.

The CBC's statement that the Ballentine program was technically inferior was a transparent excuse. Some CBC programs were "real lousy stinkers."

The episode pointed up the government's "conceit and incompetence" and its preoccupation with managing the news.

Summons On Philip Rejected

MAIDEN HEAD, England (Reuters) — A London road safety campaigner, whose application for a summons against Prince Philip was refused by magistrates here today, said he would take his demands to a higher court.

The application was made by Lt.-Cmdr. William Boake, 60, founder of the Road Safety Society.

It arose from a car crash near here earlier this month between a car driven by Prince Philip in which the Queen was a passenger, and a car driven by William Cooper, a student driver. No one was injured.

Boake had previously served Prince Philip with notice of intended private prosecution.

He said today he also intended to apply for a summons against the Queen for "aiding, abetting and condoning."

In his application for a summons, Boake charged that Prince Philip drove his car "recklessly and at a speed which was dangerous to the public and without reasonable consideration" for other road users.

Soviet Backs Fiery Sukarno

(Times News Services)

JAKARTA—President Sukarno of Indonesia said today Russia had pledged its support for his country's confrontation policy toward Malaysia.

SUKARNO
... 'millions of friends'

Mikoyan of Russia stood beside Sukarno during his fiery speech. "The Soviet Union has pledged support for our confrontation policy and we will face the combined forces of the imperialists with the combined forces of the new merging forces."

"We have hundreds of thousands, even millions of friends," Then Sukarno pointed a finger at the assembled foreign diplomats at the ceremony and declared:

"Your hearts are against us but the Soviet Union and Indonesia have the same heart."

Mikoyan said that the Soviet Union always is on the side of the Indonesian nation in its struggle against colonialism.

It was Sukarno's first public statement since the summit talks on the Malaysian dispute collapsed in Tokyo last week-end.

Antara, the official Indonesian news agency, said Mikoyan had promised Indonesia more aid "for the elimination of all forms of domination and oppression." Antara gave no details as to the amount of aid or the form it might take.

"In our struggle to crush Malaysia we are seeking and collecting all the forces of our friends and all the progressive nations," the president told a crowd of 2,000 persons during the dedication of a monument to Indonesia by the Soviet Union.

Civil Defence Setup 'Backward' Says MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra) said Tuesday that Canada's entire civil defence organization is set up backward.

"You've got the whole thing reversed," he told Defence Production Minister Drury, the minister responsible for civil defence, in the Commons defence committee.

Mr. Deachman said the Emergency Measures Organization is based on people who would be wiped out by the first bombs in any nuclear war.

The whole procedure should be reversed and civil defence organized in rural areas outside target cities.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said the militia's plans for re-entry into devastated cities have been made obsolete by the intercontinental missile.

Mr. Deachman said militiamen would re-enter bombed target areas only "to collect the ashes of their families."

Mr. Drury said the role of the militia in civil defence now is being reviewed. It might be possible to make some use of the militia instead of abandoning the entire re-entry scheme. Several MPs referred to the difficulties of militiamen living in target areas leaving their families to join units outside cities for re-entry operations if nuclear bombs fell.

Mr. Drury said regional emergency headquarters will be located outside major target areas.

But he conceded that it is "unfortunate" that government is operated by people who, for the most part, live in large centres.

Register Early Uvic Advises

High school graduates wishing to attend the University of Victoria this fall are advised by university officials to register early.

Application forms should be submitted with transcripts of their high school records as soon as possible after department of education examination results are released.

Deadline for application is Aug. 14, and registration will take place between Sept. 15 and 18 at Gordon Head campus.

Enquiries can be made at the registrar's office on the Lansdowne campus.

Oak Bay Taxpayer Asks City's Aid In Bus Request

Victoria city council Tuesday had the unusual experience of receiving an appeal for help from an Oak Bay taxpayer.

Mrs. G. N. Ledger, 2780 Beach Drive, asked City Hall to use the current bus fare increase controversy as a peg for demanding return of the buses to Beach Drive from Estevan to Dorset Street.

They were taken off that route three years ago despite a petition by 45 householders on the 2700 and 2800 blocks of Drive.

Mrs. Ledger, who apparently has never forgiven the transit authority, wrote city council: "Now that the bus question has come up again, we wondered if there was anything possible you could do to help us get at least some kind of bus service."

Five of North America's top engineers have been hired to supervise construction of the Columbia River power project.

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said today the Columbia Board of Review will check all designs and plans, select construction materials and supervise the project in the field.

Preliminary work has already begun on the three dams at Duncan Lake, Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

The five experts: Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, formerly chief engineer for the U.S. Army and now power adviser to the International Bank; John O. Gorman, Ontario Hydro geological expert who worked on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Niagara power project;

J. Gordon Watson, chairman of the South Saskatchewan River Development Board and chief engineer for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration.

J. Barry Cooke, of San Rafael, Calif., a consultant on power projects around the world; Calvin V. Davis, chairman of Harza Engineering Co., of Chicago.

A similar board was set up for the Peace River project. "It is an extra safeguard to ensure that standards of maximum safety are built into the dams," Dr. Keenleyside said.

10 WEEKS HOLIDAY

School's Out Thursday

It will be no more teachers and no more books for some 33,000 children in lower Island schools starting Friday.

The students will begin the longest — 10 weeks — holiday they have had in years.

There are 26,250 students in Greater Victoria schools; 2,990 in Sooke, and 3,600 in School District 63, Saanich.

Also marking the end of the school year are awards days and closing ceremonies.

Recognition ceremonies will be held tonight at Claremont Senior Secondary School, Saanich, and Thursday evening at Edward Milne School, Sooke.

Awards ceremonies were held today at Sidney elementary and are scheduled for Thursday at Mount Newton high school.

In Greater Victoria, Montre- rey, Quadra primary, North Ward, Gordon Head, Lampson and S. J. Willis schools held prize-giving assemblies today.

Thursday morning, awards ceremonies will be held at Doncaster and Central junior high and at Quadra, James Bay, Oak Bay junior high and Mount Douglas high in the afternoon.

Paris Airport Strike

PARIS (AP)—Air traffic out of Paris was handicapped Tuesday by a strike of control tower personnel protesting the government's disciplinary action against one of their colleagues.

By noon, take-offs by the nationally-owned and operated Air France system from Orly field were running as much as four hours behind schedule. Earlier, Air France had cancelled its European flights, then had reinstated them subject to take-off delays. Other airlines were also affected.

Sale to Reveal Oil Industry Plans

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Results of a large crown reserve sale announced by the provincial department of mines and petroleum resources for Aug. 5 are expected to tell a good deal about the future of the oil and gas industry in B.C.

Included in the sale are 31 petroleum and natural gas leases, four of them plus a drilling reservation in the hot Fort Nelson area, along with two P and NG permits and two other drilling reservations further south.

Just how willing the oil and gas companies will be to pay good prices for acreage at this time is a matter of important conjecture. The last two years have been real slump years for the industry with well drilling and exploration both dropping off.

Part of the reason for this is the poor discovery rate and part of it—although the industry doesn't like to say so openly—is dissatisfaction with government policies.

With plenty of excellent new areas for exploration and drilling opening up in Alberta, there is some doubt that the companies will be too eager to commit their limited funds to B.C. land.

Royal American Petroleum Ltd., one of the hotter new issues listed at Vancouver, claims it has reserves of 250,000 barrels of oil for every 100 acres of its 23,000-acre block on the Blood Indian reserve in southern Alberta.

The estimate was based on data from two drill stem tests at a test well completed late last week. Productivity tests are to be made now and a service rig has been placed over the well.

Royal American is developing the block with American League Petroleum Ltd. which has a 25 per cent interest in the acreage and well.

here Monday night to hear the latest report on the property. Two Victorians, R. A. (Bert) McKenna and Charles B. Field, have been named directors of the company.

Rainbow's claims are on Pooley and Roderick Islands and exploration work is continuing on Pooley with a new drill hole started. Shareholders were told that a 20-foot chip sample assayed at 1.39 per cent copper.

Skeena Silver Mines Ltd. has announced its exploration schedule for the 1964 field season.

The property at Endako has been enlarged with acquisition of a 20-acre group adjoining the original property just south of the town. First work will be geological mapping followed by soil sampling and diamond drilling.

Drilling and trenching are under way at a working option copper prospect halfway between Merritt and Spence's Bridge with completion of a road.

In the Rossland area, Skeena has optioned two crown-granted claims and is negotiating for adjacent claims. A contact zone where some copper-gold mineralization has been located will be tested.

Mapping and sampling on the Meas Lake property in the Stikine River area is also planned.

B.C. COMPANY GETS CONTRACT

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Hydro and Power Authority today announced awarding of a $1,002,893 contract for relocation of 3 1/2 miles of Canadian Pacific Railway line near the Columbia River power project.

The contract, to Peter Kiewit Sons Company of Vancouver, calls for relocation of parts of the line that will be flooded or blocked by construction of the High Arrow dam four miles west of Castle Gar.

speculative mining issues were out of favor. Marchant dipped 10 cents to $1.95. Raglan and National Exploration two cents each to 38 cents and 20¢ and Bunker Hill one cent to 32¢.

In senior base metals, Inco was off 1/2¢ to 84¢, while Cominco and Falconbridge declined 1/2¢ each to 35 1/2¢. In other action, Leitch climbed 25 cents to $4.70.

Westates declined 75 cents to $6.25 in a generally lower western oil group. Home B was a bright spot, climbing 1/2¢ to 19¢.

Experts Review Projects

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five authorities on power-dam construction have been commissioned by the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority to examine all plans for construction of B.C.'s three Columbia Treaty projects.

Dr. Hugh L. Keechleyside, B.C. Hydro chairman, said Tuesday that the board engineers will review designs for Mica, Arrow and Duncan dams, selection of sites, selection of construction materials, construction plans and other matters affecting safety and economy.

Members are John O. Gorman, senior officer of Ontario Hydro and adviser on geological and foundation investigations; J. Gordon Watson, chairman of the South Saskatchewan River Development Board and chief engineer of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration; Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, U.S. Army, retired; J. Barry Cooke, of San Rafael, Calif., and Calvin V. Davis, chairman of the board of Harza Engineering Company, Chicago.

The board also will visit the projects during construction to ensure the dams will be built according to designs and specifications.

AT NEW YORK

Rare Bird Commutes 180 Per 'So Peacefully'

By JIM BIGSBY
Suppose you live on a pleasant island 20 miles from the mainland.
Suppose you were offered a very desirable job in a mainland town 105 miles away.
And suppose that town was in another country.
The average person would react by moving to the job site, but then Bud Rude is not an average person.
"Wherever there's something rare, I'm in it," laughs long-distance commuter Bud as he pilots his light plane south towards Tacoma, Washington.

The Rude family likes the Victoria area, so when Bud, a retired airline pilot, was offered a position as manager of the TideAir Company's installations at Tacoma Industrial Airport, he decided to commute by air.
"There's a certain amount of inconvenience to everything you do," philosophizes Bud.
"You can fight it or live with it. I live with it."
So at 6:30 six mornings a week Bud leaves his home at 4416 Wilkinson and drives out to Pat Bay airport.

There he acquaints himself with weather conditions, files his flight plan and checks over his twin-engine Beechcraft Baron, one of two planes he flies.
Five minutes later he is 2,000 feet over Georgia Strait and heading south at 180 miles per hour.
"It's peaceful up here," says Bud as the plane drones along over the silver-blue water.
"It provides those few minutes a day that everyone should take."
"You don't have the traffic buzzing around—it's safer than a freeway—and I can relax and maybe map out the day's work."

Flying is a way of life for Bud.
Twenty years ago at the age of 13 he was offered the opportunity to learn to fly a glider.
By the age of 16 he was winning national aeronautical competitions, and when still only 23 became the youngest commercial airlines pilot on a scheduled run.
He also engaged in his own aviation enterprises and at present owns 20 planes chartered to the military for work along the DEW line.

After 17,000 hours in the air Bud retired last year to Victoria because the area is scenic and peaceful, and because his wife was raised in Canada.
But then came TideAir's offer to work in Tacoma, Bud's old hometown, and soon he was back in the cockpit.
"I've got a budget on time. I spend every minute of it," chuckles Bud as he makes a perfect landing at Seattle-Tacoma airport.
Even though the weather is sometimes cloudy or windy he has a near-perfect attendance record.

His wife, Mae, mother of three young children, isn't worried a bit about Bud's unique method of getting to work.
After all, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed after an hour trip from work?
For that matter, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed?

After quickly clearing customs he is off and heading for Tacoma, just a short hop away.
"Flying is an everyday challenge," he says as the Tacoma Industrial Airport appears through the clouds.
"No two conditions are exactly the same."
Another smooth landing and Bud taxis over the TideAir hanger and enters his office.
Even though the weather is sometimes cloudy or windy he has a near-perfect attendance record.

His wife, Mae, mother of three young children, isn't worried a bit about Bud's unique method of getting to work.
After all, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed after an hour trip from work?
For that matter, what other commuter arrives home rested and relaxed?

Vancouver Island Revisited

CAMPBELL RIVER—It is 5:55 of a clear evening, sun still burning the green Quadra Island sidehills. Discovery Passage flamed only by the last lazy swirls of the flood-tide from Seymour Narrows.

North off the river mouth, a few sport-fishing craft are plodding these world-famed salmon waters. Down by the white Cape Mudge bluffs at the tip of Quadra, others show as dark and distant specks. In mid-passage, gulls flurry over a bait school.

The signs are right, the fish are in, and on a marina float below this hearty, yeasty town, we're waiting for a boat to arrive from Painter's Lodge.

It will carry an authentic Campbell River guide, grizzled and taciturn, no doubt, who has spent many a summer engineering the capture of trophy fish for the Tyeo Club's fanatic anglers.

The boat approaches, driven fast by a husky outboard. We watch it veer in, slightly apprehensive and hoping we won't disgrace ourselves by hooking kelp or dogfish.

Our guide swings spryly from his blue- and orange aluminum 16-footer. He is a pleasant-faced young man of about 20, with brown hair and a nose in transition from sunburn to tan.

Bob Mitchell is his name, Victoria his home. He is, or in September will be, a third-year education student at Uvic, with a master's degree his eventual target.

We board, a trifle glumly, and in not much more time than it takes to say "grizzled old taciturn tyeo guide," are dunking Lucky-Louie-plugs with four ounces of lead and 35 feet of nylon monofilament in the salmon-infested passage.

It turns out, however, that Bob Mitchell is a thoroughly knowledgeable operator. This is his fourth season on a job which he, a red-hot fisherman since his kid days, wouldn't trade for any other.

"No," he replies to Win's question, "I've never taken Bob Hope or Bing Crosby out. But I did have a man from Kansas who tried to lasso a porpoise..."

The rod-tips throb steadily to the darting of the plugs. Tide is on the turn. Close to the old Argonaut from ore dock, where local spin-fishers hoist their catches in a drop-net, someone's into a coho.

That man from Kansas, Bob Mitchell tells us, saw a porpoise roll its sleek bronze back from the passage. Assured that he couldn't catch one on salmon gear, he brooded all afternoon. Next

Ask The Times

Q. How many brothers and sisters did the late President Kennedy have? How many were killed and how? How many are living and where are they?

A. President Kennedy had five sisters and three brothers.

Those killed were Joseph Jr., who died when his plane exploded while on a Second World War bombing mission over Germany and sister Kathleen who died in a plane crash in France.

Living are Ted, senator for Massachusetts who recently suffered a broken back in a plane crash; Robert, U.S. Attorney-General in Washington; Eunice, wife of Senator Shriver, director of the Peace Corps; Pat, wife of actor Peter Lawford; Rosemary, in a mental institution; and Jean, wife of Stephen Smith, staff member of the National Democratic party and manager of Ted Kennedy's last campaign.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve crossword or local problems. We will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.
Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Police Win Promotions In Saanich

Two more Saanich police officers have been promoted in the latest phase in the reorganization of department duties.
The promotion of Corporal Les Ledson to the rank of sergeant and of Constable Ron Coulter to detective was announced this morning by Chief W. A. Pearson.

Chief Pearson said one more sergeant has yet to be appointed. He also announced that three new constables have been hired, bringing the total strength of the department to 34 men plus five civilian employees.

Sgt. Ledson joined the force in 1946. Det. Coulter, a former newspaperman, joined in 1956. The appointment of Acting Detective Charles Truitt has also been confirmed. He joined the department in 1954.

Chief Pearson said these latest moves are part of the streamlining and reorganization of the department that has been under way for some time. He said further developments will be announced later.

Sites Approved For Micro-Wave Network Towers

Sites have been approved for the B.C. section of a new cross-Canada microwave network being built by the two national railways.

The provincial government today granted right-of-way for nine B.C. micro wave towers, running across the centre of the province.

The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways are building the new network as a joint project.

It will be used partly for national defence and partly for commercial traffic.

Art Gallery Gets $4,300 Grant

A $4,300 grant to Greater Victoria Art Gallery was announced today in Ottawa by the Canada Council.

The money will be used to support gallery activities which will include special exhibitions, children's services, a lecture program and publication of a handbook of the gallery collection.

Wilful Damage Fine Imposed

A man who smashed windows and furniture in his room was fined $35 this morning for causing wilful damage.

Ernest Page, 1023 Pandora, was also ordered to make restitution of $49 to cover the cost of repairs.

Worthless Cheques Charge Admitted

Surjit Singh, 884 Colville, pleaded guilty Monday to obtaining $120 with seven worthless cheques. He told Magistrate William Ostler that he used the cheques "solely to feed my wife and three children." He was remanded for sentence until a probation officer looks into his background.

Both Sides Stand Firm On Chief Issue

Arbitration Likely In Spagich Fight

Saanich firemen met again with council representatives this morning to wrangle over the appointment of a new fire chief with neither side giving ground.

Councillor Joseph Casey said representatives of the firemen's union "had nothing new to say" in the meeting with council's personnel committee.

But, said Coun. Casey, the union "had two new strings to their bow."

He said union representatives reiterated their opposition to the appointment of city fireman Joseph Sutherland to succeed retiring Saanich Fire Chief Joseph Law.

The union thinks Saanich firemen should have been considered for the job on the basis of seniority and service. Council has twice rejected the union's contention saying that the appointment of a chief is a managerial matter that has nothing to do with the union.

Cogn. Casey said union representatives today brought up the matter of Chief Law having had two extensions, totalling 18 months, beyond the usual retirement age. He said the union contends council should not have given these extensions.

He said the union also protested that reports on personnel and departmental matters are not made available to the union.

Coun. Casey said he thinks the fight over the appointment will now likely go to the Labour Relations Board for arbitration. Union representatives at today's meeting were not available for comment.

City Aid Asked For Bi-Bi Fund

City Hall Tuesday was asked for a contribution to a $10,000 fund sought by the Canadian Institute of Cultural Research, based in Toronto, so it could prepare a brief for presentation in September to the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

The institute said its detailed survey of the contributions to Canada from ethnic groups for the brief would be of value to all Canadian cities and justified a grant from civic governments.

$100 Stolen At Restaurant

City police are investigating a break-in at Paul's Crown House restaurant, 3075 Douglas, in which $100 was stolen from a concealed cupboard.

The burglars entered by a furnace door, crawled through a plumbing space and forced a panel into a washroom to get into the main part of the building.

The hiding place for the money is at the front of the store and is concealed by a panel. The break-in was reported to police late Tuesday morning but apparently occurred in the early hours.

Cat-Catcher Is Catching Heck

By DESMOND BILL
A Victoria man who has been exercising his legal right to catch cats that are messing up his property has become the target of a vicious anonymous campaign.

City police are investigating the complaint by a homeowner who lives in the James Bay area.
He and his wife have received anonymous phone calls accusing them of capturing the

An anti-vivisection poster was nailed to a tree near his home and roughly printed on it was a warning to cat-owners to beware of his house.

The man has spent considerable time and money on his vegetable garden but it is being ruined by neighborhood cats whose owners allow them to wander about. He said the stench and dirt caused by the cats' which come around his place each night "is indescribable."

Recently he obtained several cat-traps which have been approved by the SPCA as a cats in order to sell them to medical schools.

humane method of catching the animals. He caught five cats in the traps and quickly turned them over to the SPCA. So far only one cat has been claimed by its owner.

A city bylaw makes it lawful for anyone to capture a stray cat which goes on private property and take it to the pound. Cat-owners are not supposed to allow their cats to stray off their home ground, according to the bylaw.

The bylaw has not been enforced in recent years and David Beeching, Victoria manager of the SPCA, said it is "in practice unenforceable unless homeowners themselves catch the cats."

PROWLER SENDS WOMAN INTO PARALYTIC STATE

A terrified woman lay in bed for two hours this morning too scared to move after a burglar entered her house.

Mrs. Norma Crawford, 4094 Glenford Avenue, was in bed around midnight when she heard someone enter her house by the unlocked front door.

She thought it was a girl boarder returning home. But when she called out after a few minutes she heard a scurrying sound and the sound of the door being closed.

Mrs. Crawford said she was too frightened to go downstairs and stayed in her room for two hours until the boarder finally came home.

When she did go down she found her purse lying on the dining room table with $20 missing from it. Two drawers were also ransacked.

FROM JAPAN

Four Destroyers Here in August

Four Japanese destroyers will be here for a four-day goodwill visit in August, it was learned today.

A total of 1,160 Japanese sailors, including 161 officer cadets and 10 news correspondents, will be in the squadron arriving here Aug. 26.

It will be the first appearance of Japanese warships here since the 1958 provincial centennial, when two visited Victoria.

The four destroyers coming this time will be: Teruzuki, Ariake, Yugure and Makinami.

The Teruzuki is the flagship of Rear Admiral Kanatoshi Kohara.

All four ships will be open to the public during a portion of their stay.

They will sail for Vancouver Aug. 30.

C.G. CAMSELL... 10,000 miles ahead.

Camsell Leaves Thursday For Long, Frigid Summer

The ice-breaker C.G. Camsell leaves Victoria on Thursday to smash her way through the Western Arctic.

For her crew of about 50 it means spending the summer months on a 10,000-mile round of lighthouses and ice packs. Her work includes installing and checking aids to navigation, marking channels with barrel buoys.

Meteorologists and marine map-makers also benefit by scientific observations taken during the three-month trip.

Camsell carries a barge and a helicopter, and the 2,200-ton vessel has armor plating that can help her smash through two feet of ice.

She leaves harbor Thursday afternoon at 2.

CURLING RINK POLLING PLACE FOR CARPENTERS' STRIKE VOTE

Victoria carpenters will hold a strike vote Monday following last week's rejection of a conciliation proposal.

The government-supervised vote will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Curling Rink, on Quadra Street.

The vote was called after 450 carpenters employed by 25 contractors rejected a majority conciliation proposal for wage increases totalling 67½ cents per hour. The proposal was for a one-year contract.

3 Given Lighter Sentences

Four 18-year-olds received sentences ranging from eight years to nine months in County Court here today on charges of abduction and robbery with violence.

The four youths—Charles Ash, 860 Parklands; Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan; Russell Tschirter, 956 Elery, and Lloyd De Wolfe, 1018 Balmoral — were found guilty last Wednesday of beating, robbing and abducting William Morgan, 19, of Saanich Road, on April 7 last.

These are the sentences: De Wolfe—eight years in the B.C. Penitentiary on the first charge and five on the second, concurrent.

Tschirter—Two years less a day in Okalla on the first count and six months on the second, consecutive.

Ash—Eight months on the first charge and six months on the second, concurrent.

Hunt—Three months definite in New Haven and six months indefinite.

CANT BE TOLERATED

Passing sentence, Judge Montague Drake said he was mindful of the series of beatings and assaults which have occurred in the Victoria area in recent weeks.

"This sort of thing cannot be tolerated and I intend to deter such crimes as severely as possible," he said.

He added all four were culpable in "this brutal assault on a defenceless man."

Two of them, Hunt and Ash, were amenable to reform, he said.

"You were simply stupid oafs who followed the others," he said.

Judge Drake described the assault as "senseless and utterly brutal." De Wolfe's record spoke for itself. He felt that only a harsh sentence could possibly meet his case.

Tschirter was one of the main attackers and he could not accept the plea of counsel that he should be placed on probation.

"I have to consider the effect of punishment as a deterrent and a necessary protection for the public in this case," the judge said.

The four youths picked up Morgan while he was hitchhiking from school on the Patricia Bay Highway. He was dragged into the rear seat of the car and driven to a parking lot on the Beaver Lake Road.

There he was punched severely about the face and head, and his glasses, a camera and $10 were stolen from him.

In evidence, Morgan said De Wolfe struck the first blow.

Earlier in the trial, defence counsel moved to have the charges dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence of identification.

Judge Drake denied the motion. He said the case must stand or fall on the question of identity of the four accused.

Prisoner Died Of Heart Attack Inquest Told

A 50-year-old Victoria man, described by police as "a very good inmate," died shortly after being taken from a city jail cell to Royal Jubilee Hospital on Monday night, an inquest jury was told today.

A verdict of death by natural causes, a heart attack, was brought in by the jury which heard circumstances surrounding the passing of Samuel Errett of 1407 Fort Street.

Constable Murray McArthur said Errett entered the city charge office Sunday and said "I hear you've been looking for me."

DRUNK FINE

The constable said a warrant had been issued for his arrest for failing to pay a $25 intoxication fine.

Errett said he didn't have the money and he'd serve the five days' alternative imprisonment.

Const. John Burdyny said Errett was joking with other inmates when he took him his evening meal on Monday.

CHEST PAINS

Later he called the officer to complain of chest pains. He was taken to hospital and on the way joked about it only being indigestion.

He was examined by Dr. John R. LeFiquet at the hospital. He decided Errett had suffered a heart attack.

He seemed well at the time though, and was put to bed in one of the wards.

Later his heart stopped and although a battle by several doctors, including a heart specialist, managed to start it beating again, he died after about an hour.

Pathologist Dr. R. C. McNeely said Errett died of a heart attack.

USN Officers To Visit Esquimalt

Two high-ranking U.S. naval officers will be visiting the RCN's Pacific Command with-in a week.

Captain D. G. Gumz, commander of the USN's fleet air base at Whidbey Island, will visit here Friday afternoon.

His barge is scheduled to tie up in the Inner Harbor at 3 p.m.

That evening he will be host aboard his craft to several members on the staff of Rear Admiral W. M. Landymore, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

He will leave Victoria the same evening for a cruise through the San Juan Islands.

REAR-ADMIRAL

Making a Dominion Day visit here will be Rear-Admiral John Taylor, commander Western Sea Frontier, San Diego, as a guest of Admiral Landymore.

He will be conducted on a tour of HMC Dockyard, which will be dressed out in honor of the holiday, and headquarters of MARPAC, the RCN-RCAF's Pacific Coast anti-submarine organization.

The navy will also mark Dominion Day by firing a 21-gun salute from Black Rock in HMC Dockyard.

Other holiday activities will include participation of the "mule train" of VU-33, the navy's air squadron at Patricia Bay, in a parade at Sidney.

The "train" will provide free rides for kiddies in the afternoon at Sidney Community Park.

Whisky Tariff
Hurts Britain,
File Protest

GENEVA (Reuters)—Britain has protested to the United States that it is losing some $5,000,000 a year because of the discriminatory U.S. import system on Scotch whisky. It was learned here today.

The protest, which came in the "Kennedy round" sub-committee on non-tariff barriers, asked the U.S. government to review the system, according to sources close to the tariff negotiations.

Britain maintained that under the American import system, bottled Scotch whisky is imported at 86 proof but is taxable on the basis of 100 proof, the sources said.

TALKS TO SHIPYARD WORKMEN

K Brushes Off Security

(Times News Services)

GOTEBORG, Sweden—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today literally brushed aside his Swedish security guard to talk to a group of Russian workers at a shipyard here.

Khrushchev was about to leave the shipyard, according to schedule, after watching his wife, Nina, launch a refrigerator ship built at the shipyard for the Russians.

But instead of following the heavily guarded route laid out for him, he suddenly darted to one side and, pushing through crowds gathered to see him, headed for a group of about 40 Russian shipbuilding workers.

A burly Swedish policeman stretched out a hand to stop him but Khrushchev, brushing him aside, barreled on. He spent about five minutes talking to the Russians while security men caved their fingers in distress.

Khrushchev earlier mingled enthusiastically with Swedish shipyard workers and told them their Russian counterparts are concentrating now on freighters and fishing boats.

The Soviet Union has stopped building battleships and cruisers "which would have no real importance in a nuclear war," said the Soviet leader, whose navy has the world's biggest submarine fleet.

Intensive security precautions were taken in the wake of reports Tuesday of a plot to kidnap the Soviet leader in Stockholm, 300 miles away.

Soldiers and police hid in clumps of bushes along the road from Goteborg airport to the Arendal shipyard, where the premier paid his first visit.

Only 100 persons watched silently as Khrushchev was welcomed at the shipyards. Steel-helmeted workers went about their tasks, displaying little interest in the Russian visitor.

The tightening of the security precautions followed the announcement Tuesday of the arrest of a 30-year-old foreigner on suspicion of plotting to kidnap Khrushchev and hold him hostage for the release of political prisoners behind the Iron Curtain.

Swedish Premier Tage Erlander said a Hungarian refugee—one of 5,000 who came to Sweden after the abortive 1956 Hungarian revolt—was detained.

But the newspaper Göteborg Tidningen claimed the refugee is from one of the Baltic nations annexed by the Soviet Union during the Second World War.

Earlier the public prosecutor, Aake Magnusson, denied a newspaper report that four men armed with machine guns planned to crash their way into the grounds of the 19th-century castle where Khrushchev stayed and take him hostage for thousands of Communist-held political prisoners.

"The possibility cannot be ignored that the whole matter may have a relatively harmless background," the prosecutor said.

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported that a madman who threatened to kill Khrushchev was at large in Stockholm after escaping from an insane asylum.

'NEGRO PUNKS' HURT CAUSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says teen-aged Negro hoodlums "are undercutting gains made by hundreds of Negro and white youngsters who went to jail for human rights."

Writing in the Amsterdam News, a Negro weekly newspaper, Wilkins said Negro youths involved in recent outbreaks of violence in New York City are "punks, foul-mouthed smart alecs," and "Harlem morons."

LBJ Plans
Law Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today that once the civil rights bill becomes law he intends to make an appeal to the people to "observe the law of the land."

"We hope our appeals will be listened to and followed," he told a press conference.

Johnson conceded, however, that he expects some people are going to be reluctant in joining him in trying for complete compliance.

He said he now is trying to get an outstanding director of conciliation to help in the civil rights program.

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—Former CIA chief Allen W. Dulles is expected here today on a White House mission to look into the disappearance of three civil rights workers.

The charred hulk of the station wagon used by the trio was found by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents Tuesday at the edge of a swamp off a lonely road northeast of this central Mississippi town.

Philadelphia is the seat of justice for Neshoba County, called "bloody Neshoba" by Mississippians for its past history of settling feuds by gunfire.

A Mississippi highway patrolman at the scene said "the FBI has taken over entirely."

Missing are Andy Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both of New York, and James Cheney, 22, a Negro from near Meridian.

LAST SEEN SUNDAY

They were last seen Sunday night in Philadelphia after Cheney paid a $20 fine for speeding.

The White House announced that President Johnson had appointed Dulles, the former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, to co-ordinate the investigation in Mississippi.

The station wagon was found about 100 feet from state road 21-15 miles northeast of Philadelphia, where Owl Creek backs away from its accustomed bed to form a backwater slough that is black and cold, even in June.

There was speculation the bodies of the three civil rights workers are in the slough.

Schwerner, who had been working in the Meridian area for several months, Cheney and Goodman were last seen about 10:30 p.m. Sunday, leaving Philadelphia in a southerly direction.

OTTAWA (UPI)—A Conservative member of Parliament will seek today to have the government table in the Commons "the full and unexpurgated version" of the controversial film, "Mr. Pearson."

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac Temiscaming) placed a notice of motion on today's order paper demanding the tabling of the film under a section calling for the "Production of Papers."

PEARSON UNDER FIRE

'Lying' Charges
Fly in House

OTTAWA (CP)—The Opposition unleashed one of its fiercest attacks on Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons Tuesday, accusing him of lying and misleading the House to cover up government censorship of CBC programming.

Mr. Pearson was not in the chamber when five Conservatives and one New Democratic MP hurled bitter personal charges at him for more than three hours. The furor was expected to continue today.

The Opposition spokesmen repeated accusations that the government and Mr. Pearson's office applied political pressure on the CBC to prevent the showing of a $35,000 candid TV documentary about a day in Mr. Pearson's life, filmed last October.

External Affairs Minister Martin rose just before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment to demand that Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) and Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) withdraw their statements that the prime minister misled the Commons about the TV program.

The chair did not have time to make a ruling and Mr. Martin was expected to press his demand at the opening of today's sitting.

WAS EXPELLED

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) made similar accusations last Friday and was expelled for the day after he refused to withdraw his remarks.

The prime minister's office said Mr. Pearson likely would reply to his critics today when a debate on a money supply bill enters its third day.

An aide said the government leader missed Tuesday's lively, well-attended exchange because he was at work in his office and had a dinner engagement.

Eryce Mackasey (Montreal—Verdun), the only Liberal who spoke at any length, called it "a rather vicious, unwarranted and fully premeditated attack, both on the prime minister as a person and on the high office that he represents."

The CBC board of directors today opens a three-day meeting in which the documentary Mr. Pearson will be discussed.

Mayor Meets
With Peterson

A new bid to settle the five-week strike which has crippled the Alberni Valley's lumber industry will be made when labor and management meet in Vancouver this week.

The meeting will be either Thursday or Friday, Port Alberni Mayor Les Hammer said today.

Mr. Hammer met for more than an hour this morning with Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to discuss the strike by office workers at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.'s pulp mill.

The office workers picket lines have closed all the company's operations in the Alberni Valley and the strike spread last week to logging camps, Mr. Hammer said.

ONLY ANSWER

The new meeting is the first face-to-face union-company attempt to solve the dispute for some time.

It will be attended by George Little of the labor department who has been trying to bring the two sides together for two weeks.

Mr. Hammer said mediation is the only answer to the strike. If this week's meeting fails, he suggested appointment of a special mediator.

STAYS NEUTRAL

Mr. Hammer said he intends to remain strictly neutral in the dispute, but he gave Mr. Peterson some confidential opinions about the situation.

"This is really straining the patience and the economy of the valley," Mr. Hammer said.

He termed the strike 10 times worse than the tidal waves which wreaked havoc in the valley March 27.

Mr. Hammer said local stores have stopped stocking consumer goods until the strike is over.

Commercial travellers are refusing to go into the area, hotels are almost empty and advertising in local newspapers and on radio has been slashed.

However, he denied reports that droves of residents are leaving the valley.

Mr. Hammer said that morale is quite high considering the economic situation, and the people who are leaving could be described as the transient section of the population.

About 4,000 people are out of work because of the strike, but almost everyone is affected, Mr. Hammer said.

MADISON AVENUE CALLED IN

Pawnbrokers to Hock Image
Of Famed Three Gold Balls

NEW YORK (AP)—Pawnbroking, perhaps the second oldest profession, is hocking its image.

The three gold balls, which are to be used in the new game of New York's 100 pawn shop proprietors, who have become concerned over their image.

The pawn—now, pay—later business has called in Madison Avenue. The pawnbrokers have hired public relations counsel and Tuesday they held a press conference to burst the chains they say have fettered the industry since the days of Charles Dickens.

"In the public's mind," announced David F. Cohen, president of the New York Pawn-brokers Association, "The pawnbroker is a Dickensian old man with a skull cap, sitting behind an iron cage in a dusty shop with a magnifying glass in his eye."

This, said Mr. Cohen, is unfortunate.

Today's pawnshop he said, is a bright, cheerful establishment, as often as not run by a college educated proprietor, where any lady would be happy to shop as well as hock.

STOCK NEW MERCHANDISE

"Most of our members stock a large variety of new merchandise which is available at discount prices," he said.

Cigarette
Warnings Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission issued a rule today requiring that by next year all cigarette labels and advertising in the United States inform the public "that cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases."

The commission rule says that it is an unfair or deceptive practice for a manufacturer "to fail to disclose, clearly and prominently, in all advertising and on every pack, box, carton or other container in which cigarettes are sold" that smoking is a health hazard.

The commission ruled that the cigarette package labels should have this warning by Jan. 1, 1965, and that advertising should include the warning by July 1, 1965.

Both orders are expected to be challenged in the courts.

The commission, however, did not state the exact language that cigarette manufacturers would have to use in their advertising and labelling warnings.

In a 153-page statement that accompanied the rule, the commission said it was leaving the individual cigarette companies and advertisers "free to formulate the required disclosure in any manner that intelligently conveys the sense of the required disclosure in a fully conspicuous fashion."

The announcement of the FTC rule came during the testimony of chairman Paul R. Dixon before the house commerce committee, which is conducting a broad investigation into smoking and health.

SIGN OF THE TIMES LASTED ONLY 36 HOURS

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A topical sign welcoming tourists to the Alberni Valley, where most of the work force is idle from a prolonged strike at Port Alberni's pulp mill, has been hauled down by highway crews.

The sign, of undetermined origin, stood 36 hours on Highway 4 east of town. It read:

"Welcome to the Beautiful Alberni Valley, owned and operated by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited."

Half-Pint Cannery Given Green Light

SAANICHTON—Central Saanich council Tuesday unanimously approved an application for permission to establish a small sportsmen cannery at Creed's Landing, Brentwood, for visiting anglers.

The cannery to be built on a floor alongside Creed's office, will permit sportsmen to have their fish canned and shipped to their homes.

Applicant Claude Creed said he hoped to have the cannery in operation in September.

Council received one letter opposing the project.

Dorothy Woodward, 708 Richmond Road, claimed the cannery would result in a smoke and odor nuisance for residents.

PROPANE GAS

But council was assured by Mr. Creed there would be no smoke nuisance as propane gas would be used for cooking.

"It is only a small cannery operation," he said. "All fish heads and tails are stored away for use by mink farms."

Reeve R. Gordon Lee said the cannery would have to conform with sanitary and health regulations.

An application for permission to continue renting an old cottage situated on a foreshore lease in Brentwood, near the ferry wharf, was rejected by council.

Council told applicant Dave Adam that his application conflicted with a long-standing policy to demolish old existing summer cottages on foreshore leases.

At the same time, council turned down the application of John Broadin, 6985 Angler's Lane, for a foreshore lease to permit the construction of a boat.

$250,000 CONVERSION HERE

Deep-Freeze for Deep-Sea

By RON SUDCOW

A former tugboat and Second World War minesweeper, is undergoing a $250,000 conversion job here which will make her the largest Canadian deep-sea fishing boat on the Pacific coast.

Pacific Venture, formerly known as the Tahsis Straits and Fahsis King, is nearing completion of the first conversion stage at McKay-Cormack shipyards.

Refrigeration equipment, which will be installed later, will make her one of the first 100 per cent freezer crafts.

"This will make her literally a floating deep-freeze," said her co-owner Ray Lund.

"Boats which pack ice have to return to port within about 10 days, but we will be able to stay out about two and a half months."

300 TONS

The ship can instantly refrigerate 300 tons of fish.

She will also be one of the fastest fish boats on the coast as its twin 600 h.p. diesel engines will give her a cruising speed of 14 knots.

Pacific Venture is equipped with the latest electronic aids to navigation including new Ardic echo sounding equipment which detects fish on either side of the boat and directly below.

Another innovation is a quadruped lifting rig designed by naval architect Ray Richards to carry eight tons.

The rig will be needed as her 26-foot skiff is constructed of six and a half tons of steel.

The skiff is also equipped with radio-telephone and sounding equipment and is powered by a 165-h.p. diesel.

Other equipment aboard Pacific Venture includes water purifying machinery, which handles up to 500 gallons a day, and 1,800 feet of nets.

Another 1,800 feet of netting, now being made by Thomas Hunt, son-in-law of the totem carver Mungo. March will be added later.

Sea trials will begin in early July before the Victoria-based fishboat starts working for Prince Rupert Co-Op.

She will fish waters from the Bering Sea to the Gulf of Mexico.

"A candle is a simple thing - a chunk of wax, a bit of string."

Who can explain the irresistible charm that envelopes a candle? room, the feeling of rest and relaxation that slowly the tempo of everyday living? Even hours are slowly passing. The candle is a simple thing, yet it is a great warmer "mid surroundings welcomed in a taper's soft glow. Fine wine becomes headier, the simplest meal becomes a memorable occasion when statily dinner tapers transform the table with rich, golden reflections.
The candle is a simple thing, yet it is a great warmer of the young in heart take unity in candlelight festivity.

A link with the past that holds a promise for the future, candlelight does, indeed, set the scene for gracious everyday living.

Yes, a candle remains a simple thing—but the chunk of wax and bit of string have become the inspiration and research of the candle craftsman. Yet every year many delightful new designs and shapes, in a wonderful range of colors constantly flow from their modern kilns and molds.

For candles remain the world's most flattering and universal light. As enchanting to a child of one as to a grandmother of eighty.

We do hope that when you browse in our Candle Shop you will find a number of new ways to enjoy this wonderful world of candlelight—at least as much as we enjoy our part in bringing it to you.
